Last Call for 1933.
Another Death Ray.
The Baby's Short Sword.
Death, at 97.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

ONE MORE week of 1933, then another year, a new set of resolutions, new efforts to make days and weeks yield results.

The last week of the year is a good fortune teller. What we do in this week in the way of wisdom or foolishness gives a fairly good idea of what we shall probably amount to in the year that follows.

There is absolutely no time in which to begin anything worth while or to do better except NOW.

BRITISH SCIENTISTS believe they have devised a "life-death" ray, "capable of projecting bacteria emanations which will destroy humans, animals and crops."

It is believed that the ray can also be used beneficially "for neutralizing plague conditions and fostering healthier animals and plant life."

AFTER "civilized man" gets tired of using it to kill his neighbors, the ray will be devoted to useful work.

So it is always. There is no doubt that men first developed iron and before that bronze, that they might have better, harder, sharper weapons for killing others. The idea of steel plows and automobiles came later.

TOKIO DISPATCHES describe the august emperor of Japan "tiptoeing in and out of the royal nursery every few minutes to look at the new baby, his first boy, asleep."

This is a sensation that comes only with monogamy. A number of eastern potentates with many wives, could boast of having three or four hundred children in one year, but could not know the "one baby" sensation.

THE MIKADO has given to his first born son, according to an interesting editorial in Col. Shutts' Miami Herald, "a ten-inch sword, sharp and sheathed in gold and white, with which he is to fight forever for the sun goddess and the Japanese empire."

That is the old Japanese idea. The sun goddess is the ancestress of the Japanese boy, one day to be the 125th ruler of Japan, and the Japanese empire will be the future mikado's property.

Some will say it is "a queer old idea" and the ten-inch sword amounts to nothing compared with the machine guns, airplanes, bombs, poison gas, that the new mikado will control.

That is a mistake. An idea is more powerful than all the bombs and poison gas.

Each of them is born of an idea. The most important thing to all Japan is the Japanese idea that Japan should rule Asia, and if possible reach out East and West. First the idea, then the achievement.

HENRI MOUQUIN is dead, aged 97.

He was born on the border line in France and Switzerland, came to America at sixteen and became owner of a French restaurant running through from Fulton to Ann streets, in New York.

Charles A. Dana and others who could tell good wines from bad, knew Mouquin, and his wife. They both went from table to table, industriously wiping things off, suggesting what was best on the menu, seeing to it that all dignified wines were served without shaking.

Henri Mouqin did not drink water, considered it not intended for human beings, except in bathing. But he was extremely temperate, drank wine mixed with three parts water, drank no spirits until he was past eighty, then took a tablespoon of brandy mixed with water.

His death at 97, on his 1,200-acre farm in Virginia, makes you wonder how long might he have lived on ice water and mince pie. Perhaps not much longer.

ARCHBISHOP TOURIAN, head of the Armenian Apostolic Church in the Americas, was stabbed to death on Sunday as he walked down the aisle of his church dressed in green and gold vestments, crozier in hand, mitre on his head. The murderers are believed to object to his sympathy for Soviet Russia.

Such a crime seems unbelievable barbarity, yet it simply means that some nations have changed more rapidly than others.

Thomas a Becket, Archbishop of Canterbury and chancellor of England, was murdered at the altar by four barons of Henry II. The king had said only:

"Will no one rid me of this insolent priest?"

And immediately he was rid of him.

The archbishop, who had excommunicated the king's ministers, was afterwards made a saint.

MUSSOLINI, encouraging a larger crop of little Italians, distributed 10,000 prizes on Saturday, "Mother's Day" in Italy. Three-quarters of the prizes went to young newlyweds, the others to mothers of numerous healthy children.

Giving prizes to mothers is new, but seems as reasonable to reward mothers who create human beings as to honor "great soldiers" that shoot them down.

England gave Blenheim Palace to Lord Marlborough and a magnificent mansion to Wellington with the title of duke of each.

Mussolini's presents for mothers and newlyweds, his idea of free rent for poor parents with large families, is less aristocratic, but perhaps as useful as the Marlborough-Wellington idea.

ROBERT S. LEROY

Pilot Leroy, hero of a drama in the air during last night's heavy snowstorm. Driven back from Columbus by weather, he soared around Pittsburgh for an hour before he was able to land his passengers.

Archbishop's Murder Laid to Terror Ring

PLANE LOST IN BLIZZARD OVER CITY

Liner, 8 Aboard, Roars Above District for Hour, Lands Safely

Battling through a blinding snowstorm which prevented him from landing at Columbus, O., on a westbound flight, Pilot Robert S. LeRoy turned back and landed his plane and six passengers at the City-County Airport after circling the Pittsburgh district nearly an hour.

The roar of the tri-motored plane as it circled slowly through the snow-ladened skies awakened residents of the North Boroughs, East End, Wilkinsburg, Oakmont and South Hills, giving rise to reports that the plane was in distress.

It was Pilot LeRoy's second experience in being "lost" over the Pittsburgh district. Three years ago during an October snowstorm, LeRoy was co-pilot on a Transcontinental and Western Airlines plane carrying Col. Charles A. Lindbergh on a cross-country inspection of TWA properties.

WEATHER GOOD AT TAKEOFF

At the controls, then, was Pilot H. G. Andrews who "bailed out" of a small plane during a snow and sleet storm in the Allegheny Mountains, near Cresson, two weeks ago.

Pilot LeRoy took off from the City-County Airport on the second leg of his hop from Newark to Columbus, shortly after midnight.

Weather reports then were favorable.

Nearing Columbus the storm closed in.

He was advised by radio not to attempt a landing there, he said.

Turning back toward Pittsburgh LeRoy maintained contact with the City-County Airport by radio, meanwhile battling the storm which was steadily becoming worse.

When he arrived over Pittsburgh LeRoy told officials he peered out into a white sea. Even the strong rays of the air beacon were

Hits Blue Law

SARA SOFFEL

Judge Soffel, Pennsylvania's only woman jurist, who today held in effect that Pennsylvania's blue law no longer exists. She returned fines to nine.

BLUE LAW FINES HELD ILLEGAL

Judge Soffel Upsets Aspinwall Squire's Rule in Hill Cases

The blue laws are blue no longer, Judge Sara Soffel, of County Court, ruled in effect today when she ordered fines returned to nine Hill district merchants who were alleged to have sold merchandise on Sunday.

Stating in her decision the opinion that the law governing Sunday, on the books for 125 years, is progressive and changed by differing economic conditions, brought about by the railroads, newspapers and sale of milk and medicines, she reversed the decision of Justice of the Peace Ralph Parkhill, of Aspinwall.

Each of the nine had been fined $25, two months ago.

The opinion also asserted that the prosecutions were not brought in good faith, since "the blue laws were being used as a big stick" to enforce an NRA agreement Hill district merchants had adopted.

The Hill District Market Association brought the prosecution in an attempt to enforce the closed Sundays to shorten store hours.

Referring to this, Judge Soffel wrote:

"There is apparently a racket to compel one group of merchants to comply with the judgment and decisions of another group. The court believes these prosecutions have not been instituted in good faith, but that resort is had to the criminal law for the purpose of using the courts as a big stick to push through a program in which certain individuals are personally interested."

Those profiting by the decision were Ben Fineberg, Dora Davidson, Isaac Landis, J. Greenberg, J. L. Gropper, H. Goldberg, W. Klaman, H. Tubachnick and D. Miller.

Income Tax Absurdity

THE MOST SIGNIFICANT observation in the Treasury Department's comment upon the congressional plan for a revision of the income tax is the following:

"The income tax should properly take a reasonable toll from the business transactions of the community. It should not stop the traffic entirely."

While the preliminary report of the Ways and Means Committee of the House calls for heavier and still heavier assessments upon the fast-subsiding incomes of the people, there is a glimmer of hope in the words of Acting Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, above quoted.

From these words it appears that at last the idea is gaining lodgment in official Washington that there IS a limit to assessments on incomes.

As a matter of fact the limit was passed long ago, when it first became manifest that the yield in revenue was declining even more rapidly than the increase in the rate of assessments.

THIS MEANT but one thing—that the tax had been carried to such extremes that it was not only thinning the stream, but drying up the sources of the national revenue.

Of course, the taxation of incomes is about the simplest conception that presents itself to the legislative tax hunter. As long as the tax is moderate, impartially assessed and equitably distributed, it does not noticeably obstruct the flow of capital into commercial undertakings nor impede the normal activity of business.

Both these factors—the free flow of capital and a more or less normal rate of business activity—must be maintained, however, if the tax is to vindicate itself as a sound tax. Both are essential elements of prosperity. They are indispensable to recovery. Without them there can be no income, and without income there can be no income tax.

HOW CAN GENUINE business recovery be expected if, in matters so directly affecting business initiative and enterprise as the income tax, the government continues insensible of the repressive effects of exorbitant rates of assessment?

This raises a broader question.

The business interests of the country are preponderantly honest and deserving. The great majority of bankers and merchants possess integrity and patriotism.

The rottenness, which has been only too evident in high places, is after all confined to spots. It is not, we are thankful to say, characteristic of American business in general—or of American business men.

Their honest toil, their hopeful courage, their uncomplaining submission to the burdens which government puts upon them, their unimpaired faith in American institutions and in the country's future, are the sources from which commercial revival will come—when it comes.

Business must be nursed along with sagacity and understanding on the part of the government. The punitive spirit has no place in its attitude toward business, nor in taxation, particularly, if directed against the class upon which business recovery so absolutely depends.

SOME DAY we shall see business emerge from its depression. The income tax, which has degenerated into an oppressive and, in frequent cases, a fraudulent racket, will be seen in its true light. Its galling and destructive burden will be lifted.

We shall some day achieve that modest degree of enlightenment which will enable us to perceive that a general manufacturers' sales tax will produce sufficient revenue for the goverment's normal needs, without favoritism, injustice and oppression, and—what is more to the point—without presenting the absurdity of a tax whose yield diminishes to the vanishing point in the very act of its collection, and whose very proposal and attempted assessment destroy its contemplated source.

LOTS DRAWN FOR CHURCH SLAYING

PrelateStabbed During Procession to Altar Held Martyr

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Slain as he marched to the altar of the Holy Cross Armenian Apostolic Church to celebrate pre-Christmas services, Archbishop Leon Tourian, primate of the church in the western hemisphere, was the victim of plotting by international revolutionaries, it was charged today.

The bearded ecclesiastic, according to Varton Derad, secretary of the Armenian Prelacy, was knifed to death by assassins who drew lots to see who would carry out the commission imposed by the Tashnag Revolutionary Federation Party, a secret society.

POLITICAL STRIFE

Back of the slaying, Derad asserted, was the desire of the Tashnag to separate Armenia from the Russian Soviets, slash away all Soviet domination of the fatherland and re-establish the old Armenian Republic.

Archbishop Tourian, he said, was only one of a number of leading Armenians in this country marked for death by the revolutionists because they did not approve the Tashnag political theory.

Friends of the murdered cleric today said his death was that of a martyr and would not necessitate reconsecration of the church as is usual when blood has been shed in a sacred edifice.

FIVE FACE HEARING

As police delved into the welter of politico-religious mystery surrounding the assassination of the churchman—one of the most startling in recent criminal annals—preparations were being made to arraign five Armenians in Homicide Court today.

The five, whom, detectives said were members of the Tashnag, were arrested in a series of swift raids on revolutionist hideways throughout the city. All admitted being present in the church when the archbishop was murdered, but all denied any connection with the murder, police said.

Those held were Juan Tchali-

DEEP SNOWFALL SLOWS TRAFFIC

A swirling snowstorm sweeping in from the West covered this district with a three-inch blanket of snow and slush, snarled traffic and kept wire repairmen on the jump today.

The heaviest snowfall of the season, the storm was expected to continue with prospects that the whole Western Pennsylvania district would be buried under a six-inch covering of white before nightfall.

Following a green Christmas, with the sun shining most of the day, the snow arrived early this morning. By the time the army of workers started for their downtown places of employment after their two-day holiday, streets, trees and roofs were hidden by the soggy mantle. Downtown sidewalks were covered with slush.

Warnings of Storm Posted Along Coast

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—(INS.)—Northeast storm warnings were ordered posted from Sandy Hook to Eastport by the United States Weather Bureau today because of a disturbance now central over North Carolina and moving northeastward with increasing intensity.

Blinding Snow Keeps Plane Aloft in East

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(INS.)—Lost in the blinding snowstorm high above Manhattan, a flier was striving desperately this afternoon to bring his ship safely to ground. He was over Newark Airport for over an hour, then his motor, or the motor of another ship, was heard in the vicinity of Van Cortland Park.

It is believed the ship is a private or an Army plane.

Cortez, Divorcee Postpone Wedding

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 26.—(Universal.)—Because their new home is not ready for occupancy, Ricardo Cortez, film actor, and Mrs. Christine Lee, wealthy divorcee, have postponed for several days their wedding which had been tentatively set for yesterday. The marriage may take place the latter part of this week.

Katharine Cornell's Troupe Flood-Bound

SEATTLE, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Katharine Cornell and her play cast opened at a theater here at 11:45 p. m. Christmas night and the attraction was not billed as a midnight show, either.

Floods delayed the train. The audience waited three hours and 15 minutes for the curtain.

SUBWAY BOND DOOM FOUGHT

Mayor John S. Herron today announced he would not sign the city ordinance repealing the six million dollar bonds voted by the people for a subway.

He announced today he had asked each Councilman individually to withdraw the ordinance, after George S. Davison, chairman of the City Transit Commission, declared engineers were working on plans for the project and revoke at this time would be inadvisable.

City Council voted the repeal by 6 to 3, the vote required to override a veto, in the event the Mayor came to that stand.

The bonds were voted by the people in 1919, with the object in mind of projecting the first unit of a citywide underground system.

Attempts have been made at various times since to revoke the bonds, since the Pittsburgh Railways Company constantly deferred agreements to use the subways in the event they were built.

P. J. McArdle, W. Y. English and Harry A. Little voted against repealing the bonds.

School Principal Kidnaped, Menaced

SYLVA, N. C., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—A story of being abducted by two masked men Friday night, driven about over the mountains for two days in an automobile and threatened with death was told today by Frank Rhinehart, 37, principal of the Beta School in Jackson County.

Rhinehart said he was released on a highway between Clayton and Mountain City, Ga., Sunday, and given his automobile there.

M'NAIR CABINET STILL MYSTERY

Latest developments as Democrats today sought to select the officers who will run the city under Mayor William N. McNair after Monday were:

1—Democratic leaders were to meet with McNair today, in hopes of finally selecting his cabinet.

2—Fifty-eight Pittsburgh pastors presented McNair with a petition urging naming of former Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington as director of safety.

Democratic Leader Joseph F. Guffey, County Chairman David L. Lawrence, the four Democratic members-elect of Council and McNair were to meet today in another conference seeking to select McNair's new cabinet members.

The Director of Public Safety led the list of uncertainties they hoped to settle.

MALONE IN PICTURE

What to do with James F. Malone was also on the agenda, with the job of Property and Supplies Director probably ready for him.

Most of the other cabinet jobs seemed settled upon.

Leading candidates for the public safety job were Attorney B. B.

Roosevelt May Pen History of First Year

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt is weighing a request from publishers to write a book at the conclusion of his first year in office entitled "On Our Way."

It would be a follow-up of "Looking Forward," written by the President just before he took office, and is intended to be a compilation of his record for the first year.

'5 & 10' BANDITS BATTLE POLICE

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—While shoppers and clerks hid behind counters, four robbers held up a Kresge 5 and 10-cent store in downtown Springfield today. They fought off two city detectives and escaped with approximately $2,000.

The detectives reported they wounded one of the bandits.

The money taken consisted of Saturday's receipts, which had been kept at the police station over the holidays. It had been returned to the store a short time before the robbery.

The two detectives, Thomas Howerton and William Shafer, walked in on the holdup, having returned to the store to take the money to a bank after it had been counted.

The robbers started for the street, exchanging shots with the detectives. The bandits dodged from doorway to doorway and reached their automobile. The bandit car soon outdistanced the police.

'Hang Me,' Cries Youth Doomed to Die by Gas

CANON CITY, Col., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Walter Reppin, condemned to be the first to die in Colorado's lethal gas chamber, pleaded today against his death "by experiment." The 18-year-old youth was quoted by guards as saying:

"I don't want to be an experiment. I wouldn't mind the rope, but this gas thing almost kills me."

Reppin, who arrived at the prison with sneers for "anything soft like religion," turned to the Rev. L. A. Crittenten, prison chaplain, for guidance on Christmas Day, the chaplain reported.

The frail, pale-faced prisoner was convicted in Colorado Springs of the holdup-slaying of Vincent Regan, a taxi driver.

Reppin's execution is set for the week of January 6. Lethal gas supplants hanging as the method of execution under a new state law.

Pope Hopes for End Of World's Troubles

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Pope Pius expressed the hope today that the coming year would bring an end to the world's political and economic troubles, saying the way out of difficulties could be found through the Christian faith.

His comment was made to the Noble Guards, all of whom are members of the nobility, who visited him in his throne room accompanied by the commanders of the Papal Gendarmerie and the Swiss Guards.

Mrs. Roosevelt Bans Tin-Soldier Song

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt had a tin-soldier costume song changed to a drum-major costume song for Sistie and Buzzie's Christmas party this afternoon for 60 children.

The President's wife doesn't believe in tin soldiers as toys, or even in character-songs.

The tune was retained, because it gave a chance to beat a drum, and Sistie liked a drum the best of all her Christmas gifts, whereas Buzzie's choice was a mouth organ.

Two children's songs written by Secretary Woodin were chosen for Wendy Marshal, the toy lady, and her accompanist sister, Madeline, to sing at the party.

Present at Mrs. Roosevelt's press conference, listening to the party plans were the President's mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, and his aunt, Mrs. Dora Delano Forbes.

ROOSEVELT, PARTY LEADERS TO MAP CONGRESS PROGRAM

PROGRESS MADE ON RECOVERY TO BE CITED

Despite Attacks on Policies, President's Grip Held Firm

By JOHN A. KENNEDY
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Happy and satisfied with the progress thus far made toward recovery, President Roosevelt today arranged conferences with party leaders to map the program he will present to Congress seven days hence on January 2.

He already has decided the basis of his legislative message will be to outline a program to weld together the various federal units which are speeding economic activity. The message will be read to the joint session of Congress by a House clerk.

His experts declared half of the 12,000,000 men and women who were jobless 12 months ago are today enjoying the Yuletide with the sense of security that comes from being employed.

JOBS CREATED

The NRA and AAA and their codes; the PWA and the CWA and their government-made jobs; the CCC and its army of young men working in the forests—all such steps authorized by the last Congress are functioning to put America back to work, they assert.

As soon as industry and commerce move further toward normal the President will consolidate certain of the existing recovery agencies.

There will be a fight over money in Congress. There will be moves looking toward changes and modifications in the NRA and its affiliates. Tax legislation will be vital and will depend on the final budget figures expected this week.

Liquor taxes, and the extent to which the federal government is to step in to help regulate commerce in liquors, are to be much debated questions as will the agricultural question and its many ramifications.

BANK BATTLE LOOMS

A battle over new banking legislation, particularly looking toward a modification of the deposit insurance provisions of the new Glass-Steagall act, is also looming.

But despite these controversies, Congressional leaders are agreed President Roosevelt can "write his own ticket," and that Congress in the end will do his bidding on legislation.

Speaker Rainey said today:

"I do not look for any far-reaching legislation at the coming session. There will be some attacks on various recovery enterprises of the administration, but I do not believe anything will be done to hamper the President's program.

"The country has implicit confidence in President Roosevelt."

BANKERS STUDY NATION'S TRADE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt has ordered up-to-the-minute reports on business and employment conditions from all informed federal agencies.

The replies received are likely to be an important factor in determiningly finally the amount of extraordinary appropriations to be asked of Congress and in guiding the administration's immediate economic plans.

The presidential command was understood to have exceeded the usual statistical data limitations by asking key officers for their personal views on the national outlook.

There were reports, which could not be verified officially that last Friday's secret meeting of the Federal Reserve Board with Reserve bank governors was devoted to preparing a business and industrial analysis for the Chief Executive.

While material was being sorted, congressional leaders indicated they expected large appropriations for the 1934 fiscal year. Speaker Rainey used the figure six thousand million dollars.

Ordinary expenditures were expected to run about two thousand six hundred million dollars. The PWA and CWA programs were looked to for nearly another two thousand million dollars. The RFC was due for a capitalization increase of from five hundred million to a thousand million dollars, but a large part of this was expected to fall in this year's expenditures and not contribute to the 1934 outlay.

The Next Big Job

By QUIN HALL

McGinnis and Superintendent W. W. Weir, of Spang, Chalfant and Company's Etna and Sharpsburg works.

McGinniss today was the leading conetnder for the place, although Democratic leaders said they expected difficulty in persuading him to accept it.

Both he and Weir would be makin ga distinct financial sacrifice, it was understood, in restricting themselves to the salary of the director.

URGE PENNINGTON

Pennington was considered definitely out of the picture with the Democrats, but there was no indication of McNair's attitude. McNair some weeks ago asked a group of pastors, headed by Dr. George W. Shelton of the Second Presbyterian Church, to select a candidate for the job.

The pastors immediately pushed Commander Pennington, former prohibition director here, but party leaders weren't enthusiastic and McNair didn't commit himself.

Today, 58 pastors, again headed by Shelton, met in the Second Presbyterian Church, with McNair present, and urged his naming of Pennington.

McNair, asked if he spoke, said:

"I can't seem to remember. I speak so much now, you know."

'NEVER MAKES PROMISES'

Aked if he would accept the pastor's choice:

"I never make promises."

In urging Pennington, the petitioners hazarded that:

"We believe that Commander Pennington could be secured for this position if he were assured that he would be given a free hand to enforce the laws of the city unhampered by political influences which might seek to manipulate either his administration of the police force under him."

Signers with Shelton included the Rev. Dr. A. R. Robinson, of the Sixth Presbyterian Church; the Rev. J. Alvin Orr, of the First United Presbyterian Church, North Side; the Rev. R. E. Snodgrass, of the First Christian Church, North Side.

Meanwhile, it looked as if Malone, who has wanted and been urged by Democratic angel M. L. Benedum as Director of Safety, would have to be contented with being Director of Property and Supplies, as party leaders Guffey and Lawrence definitely opposed him for safety.

GUARD MIKADO AT TOKIO FETE

International News Service.

TOKIO, Dec. 26.—Closely guarded and with elaborate precautions taken against possible assassination attempts, Emperor Hirohito formally opened Parliament today after one of the most colorful and yet briefest state processions in the world.

Proceeding over the short route from the Chiyoda Palace to the Parliament building, surrounded by a heavy bodyguard of mounted lancers, armed foot troops, and plainclothes policemen mingling with the crowds, Emperor Hirohito was the central figure of a brilliant ceremony.

Several attempts upon the life of the young Emperor during public appearances were the reason for the extraordinary precautions attending the procession.

STALIN, BULLITT HOLD PARLEY

MOSCOW, Dec. 26.—American Ambassador William C. Bu returning to the United with the signal honor of the first foreign diplomatic sary ever received by Dictat sef Stalin.

On December 19, just bef departure for the United Bullitt was a dinner guest of missar for War Voroshiloff latter's Kremlin apartment.

Stalin, Universal Service formed, dropped in "accidentally." The meeting lasted all evening.

Stalin is understood to have asked Bullitt to convey his warmest best wishes and regards to President Roosevelt, whose initiative ended the 14-year breach between Russia and the United States.

Man Dies in Fall On Bluff Street Hill

Apparently a victim of a 200-foot fall from the steep Bluff street hillside, the body of a man tentatively identified as William Murray, about 45, was found yesterday in Second avenue near the entrance to the Armstrong Tubes.

Murray, jobless, apparently lost his footing while trying to find his way to one of the many shacks of the unemployed on the cliff, morgue officials said.

HERRIOT AGAIN FLAYS FRENCH DEBT DODGE

Nation Now Isolated, Ex Premier Asserts; Bares War Fear

PARIS, Dec. 26.—Former Premier Edouard Herriot resumed today his campaign for a reversal of the French attitude on the war debt with the assertion that "the position we have taken has isolated us."

In Agence Economique Financiers, M. Herriot, champion of payment, declared:

"I am for as close contact as possible with the United States of America.

"I cannot cease to denounce the danger of the attiude France has assumed toward the American debt."

In separating from England in the matter of payment "we committed a grave mistake," Herriot declared.

He urged Frenchmen to reflect upon "what might happen in case of a European war."

While England was making a "token payment" on her debt to the United States, France defaulted for the third time.

France's default was on $22,200,926 interest on the remaining $3,863,650,000 debt. Altogether France is $82,200,925 in arrears.

M. Herriot, who now is said in political circles to be a likely prospect to succeed Camille Chautemps as premier soon, maintained his silence at that time.

Even the press was generally silent, though the Paris Soir said:

"Americans don't realize it, but the debts are 'dead.'"

After his overthrow on the debts issue in December, 1932, M. Herriot conducted a campaign in support of his contention that the debts should be paid, but until today he had not resumed the drive after his recent illness.

It had been generally believed that with the Chamber of Deputies apparently more than ever determined to do nothing until Great Britain and the United States reached an agreement on which a French arrangement might be based, he would resign himself to accepting a watchful waiting attitude.

SILVER COINAGE TO BE PRESSED

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Leaders of the congressional silver bloc today called a meeting at the Capitol for this week to agree on mandatory legislation for remonetization of the white metal at the old Bryan ratio of 16 to 1 with gold.

Challenging the President's silver purchasing plan, the silverites, led by Senator Wheeler (Dem.), of Montana, believe it does not go far enough and time will show it will exercise little beneficial effect in restoring commodity prices or increasing America's export trade.

Senator Wheeler anticipates the active co-operation of Speaker Rainey, of the House, and Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho. This week's meetings will include all the prominent silver advocates in Congress. Wheeler said:

"The bill for free and unlimited coinage of silver received 33 votes in the Senate at the last session. We will have more votes than that this session, despite the ratification of the London agreement by the President."

Hull Hails Accord With Pan-America

SCORES GRILLED

Meantime, at uptown police stations, nearly three score other witnesses, several said to have been summoned from Boston, where Tashnag headquarters are located, were being grilled concerning circumstances of the crime.

The slaying took place before the horrified eyes of nearly 300 of the archbishop's flock.

The primate was at the end of a colorfully-garbed religious procession which moved up the middle aisle of the church, preliminary to celebration of the services.

As he came abreast the last few pews, half a dozen men darted into the aisle. They swept aside Bishop Hovsep Garabedian, two deacons escorting the Archbishop, and closed in on the primate. There was a flash of steel, the churchman sank into a pew clutching his side and the congregation was thrown into a turmoil as the assassins fled from the church, pursued by a few parishioners who lashed out vainly with fists.

DIES IN SACRISTY

Archbishop Tourian, his vestments stained in half a dozen places, was carried into the sacristy where he died within a few minutes.

The slayer's knife, its handle wrapped in paper to avoid leaving tell-tale fingerprints, was found near the altar.

Police who seized the five suspects within a short time, today declared they "are positive we have the right men."

Lieut. Joseph Donnelly said:

"We have established that they were in the jam around the archbishop. As for the man who actually wielded the knife, that is hard to prove by eye-witnesses just yet."

Members of the congregation told conflicting stories of details of the attack, but police said questioning of the witnesses today was expected to give a clear cut picture of the murder.

The charge that the cleric was murdered by revolutionaries was supported by members of t he church, who said a bodyguard had been hired last summer to protect him against attacks of the revolutionists who sought his death because of his alleged bias in favor of the present political setup in Armenia and his opposition to any move tending to dissociate that country from the Soviets.

BRITISH SUBJECT

Archbishop Tourian, although born in Turkey, was a British subject, having been naturalized while serving as archbishop of England with his see at Manchester.

Members of the hierarchy of the church were to meet today to arrange final details of funeral services, expected to be held next Sunday. Decision was also to be made whether burial would be in Istanbul, where his mother and a sister live, or in the United States. Before coming here, Archbishop Tourian had served in Bulgaria, Thrace and Smyrna.

Bishop Murder Probe Bares Armenian Strife

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(INS.)—New York detectives are delving into the most puzzling of the international political problems left by the war and the Treaty of Versailles in search for the motive which led to the assassination of Archbishop Leon Tourian.

And they are investigating the history of Tashnag, a revolutionary organization, which like the Irish Sinn Fein, will be satisfied at nothing but complete independence for its country.

During the war the Allies had declared independence of Armenia as one of their aims. The Turks then tried to eliminate this possibility by murdering all the Armenians. The Allies in turn seemed to be forgetting their promises when the Russian revolution came along.

The Armenians hailed it with joy and Lenin as their savior. Then, in the treaty of Brest-Litovsk, Lenin signed away all claim to them, allowing them to be returned to the tender ministrations of the Turks.

That is why American Armenians, although their country has since become one of the Soviet republics and thereby enjoyed its first measures of prosperity since 1912, hate Russia.

The Tashnag symbol is a red, blue and orange flag.

On October 2, at Armenian Day at the Century of Progress in Chicago, a group of Tashnag men walked forward to the platform where Archbishop Tourian was speaking and planted the flag.

The archbishop said he could not go on speaking until the flag was removed. That sealed his doom.

BUDGET CLOSES WITH MILLAGE UNCHANGED

$21,230,000 Set Up to Run City Next Year, $90,000 Increase

The budget to operate the city next year was closed by City Council today.

The millage will be the same, 20.6 on land and 10.3 on buildings.

The budget calls for $21,230,000, just $90,000 more than that set up for 1933.

W. Y. English, sitting as chairman of the Budget Committee, ordered the printing of the budget. It will be put up to Council tomorrow or Thursday.

The last session of the Budget Committee found $40,000 additional pared off today. This was in small lots, with the exception of a slice of $20,000 taken from the Helping Hand Fund. It has been getting $60,000 and now is to get $40,000. Painters were reduced from $9.50 to $7 a day, while some small amounts were cut from the bath house funds and the amounts generally granted to patriotic societies.

Included in the total budget is $120,000 for the Police Pensions Fund, a sum not included in 1933.

AIR LINER LOST IN SNOW HERE

WAITS FOR "BREAK"

Telling airport officials he intended circling the district awaiting a "break" in the storm, LeRoy described wide arcs which covered the Pittsburgh district. On his fourth trip over, he got his opportunity to bring his ship down, officials said.

Firemen from No. 55 Engine Company, Orchlee street, were sent out to lend possible assistance to the plane as it flew low over the North Side. They turned their pumper spotlight skyward, followed the drone of the plane's engines down the Ohio River boulevard, but reported they could not see it for the "blinding snow."

LeRoy's six passengers were transferred to the Pennsylvania Railroad and will continue their journey westward today.

All passenger flights have been cancelled due to the storm. Air mail schedules, however, are being maintained.

LeRoy's co-pilot was Truman Wadlow, of Columbus. LeRoy also resides in Columbus.

The plane was a tri-motored Ford of the TWA lines.

PLANE FORCED DOWN

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—One plane made a forced landing and regular transport liners operating in all directions out of Chicago were held on the ground today as a heavy snow that started during the night continued to fall.

The ship that made the forced landing came down on a private golf course in suburban Willow Springs late last night, but it was not discovered by authorities until early today.

They said it was a privately-owned cabin plane and that the man found guarding it said the two occupants had engaged him to stand watch over it until morning. The under carriage was broken and the ship was resting on the fuselage. Neither occupant was hurt.

CROSSING CRASH TOLL NOW 5

SANDUSKY, O., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Toll of a Christmas morning grade-crossing crash at Vermilon, O., was increased to five with the death of George Weigel, 29, of Reading Pa., in a hospital here today.

Weigel's wife, his mother, Mrs. Henry Weigel, 53, of Vermilion, and Miss Ruth Weiles, 27, of Cleveland, were killed when their automobile was struck by a New York Central train while they were returning from a midnight mass in a Sandusky church.

Henry Weigel, Jr., 18, of Vermilion, died yesterday afternoon. Another brother, Robert, 13, escaped with a broken leg.

5 MEN ON LOST PLANE CALM

Five smiling and happy gentlemen lolled in their chair car in the Pennsylvania Railroad early today and told how it feels to be "lost" for several hours in an airplane, 12,000 feet in the air.

The five were passengers on the westbound plane to Columbus, O., when the pilot became lost in a blinding snowstorm.

One of the passengers, S. S. Stern, of New York, a veteran air passenger, slept through the entire flight and was not aware that anything was amiss until the plane landed at the airport.

Fellow passengers said that Dr. C. A. Lamb, of Brookline, Mass., who was making his first flight, was the calmest man on the ship. Dr. Lamb said:

"That's probably because I didn't fully realize the danger."

Other passengers were Paul Williams, of Boston, Mass.; G. T. Ritchings, of Maplewood, N. J., and M. Alkon.

Grain Ship Piles On Rocks Off Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—The S. S. Mount Taygetus of Panama, en route to England with a cargo of grain, hit the rocks at Angostura Inglesa off North Magallanes today. The ship was damaged seriously and the engine compartment was flooded. The Chilean steamer Don Carlos went to her aid.

Denied Coffee, Man Beats Wife to Death

LYNCHBURG, Va., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Robert H. Farmer, 23, was in jail today on a charge of beating his 30-year-old wife, Laura, to death. Police said Farmer told them he had given his wife a "whipping" for refusing to make him coffee.

Battle Over Bonus Finds Little Congress Support

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—The soldiers' bonus issue storm center of the Hoover administration will not be agitated seriously in Congress this winter unless seized upon by inflationists to push their greenback campaign, Congressional leaders agreed today.

The bonus issue, they explained, has been overshadowed by the far-flung activities of the present administration.

The proposal to pay the two thousand million adjusted service certificates, it was pointed out, originated in Congress as an inflationist measure.

The leaders in the fight, including Senator Thomas (Dem.), of Oklahoma, and Representative Patman (Dem.), of Texas, frankly declared the chief aim of their plan to print money backed by bonds to pay the bonus was to place more money in circulation.

While the veterans in dire need would be aided, the plan would do further and aid the entire country by providing an adequate supply of currency, they argued.

The granting of vast monetary powers to the President apparently has counteracted the inflationist argument. The President has authority to issue three thousand million dollars in greenbacks for payment of governmental expenses, but probably not sufficient authority to pay the bonus.

DIVORCEE JILTS MAX BAER FOR BROADWAY PLAYBOY

PUGILIST READY TO WEEP AT BAD NEWS

As 'Great Lover' He's Just 'A Mug' To New York

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—As the great fighter, he's quite a pug, but as the heavy lover, he's just the mug.

That was Broadway's official verdict on Max Baer today after the boastful Californian had been kayoed by the cooing whisper of the blonde, petite and pretty divorcee, Edna Dunham, whom Baer had vowed he'd wed.

His "incomparably divine dream girl"—I'm quoting Maxie on that—had a neat little Christmas present all wrapped up for him yesterday. Her it is:

"Marry Maxie? Don't be silly. He's a nice boy, but —."

A lifted eyebrow, a curled lip and a shrugged shoulder told just where the Lothario of the ring stands in her estimation—somewhere behind the eight ball.

When he got the bad news, Maxie almost wept. He sighed:

"That's a tougher wallop than all the punches I ever got in the ring. I never felt any of them, but this——."

Poor Maxie doesn't seem to realize the opposition he's up against. Among the several hundred reasons why Maxie can't get to first base in his role of heavy lover is this one: Phil Plant.

Plant is Broadway's No. 1 playboy and a man with plenty of romantic experience. Also with 25 million dollars to back up his romantic feelings.

Edna had turkey yesterday at the home of Phil's mother, the very social Mrs. William Hayward, of Fifth avenue, at which she tried to explain how she lost a $12,000 diamond bracelet Phil gave her three years ago. That took some explaining, for the bracelet disappeared while she was night-clubbing with Max, Saturday night.

Max immediately offered a $1,000 reward for the return of the bracelet.

RUSS WOMAN LINKED BY U.S. IN SPY PLOT

Modern 'Mata Hari' Trailed by Sleuths 2 Years Ago

By THOMAS F. CULLEN.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Lydia Tschakaloff Stahl, Russian spy and student of Chinese philosophy who is under arrest in Paris with others of an alleged international espionage ring, was revealed here today as one of a group of Europeans who two years ago were under investigation by the United States Naval Intelligence and the Department of Justice for trying to buy secret plans from an employee of the Navy.

Mrs. Stahl, posing as a student of philosophy at Columbia University and devoting some time to the Chinese branch of that subject, was apparently using this to cover her activities in the field of international intrigue.

With several men whose names officials of the Department of Justice refused to reveal, she was being shadowed by operatives of that department and of the Naval Intelligence when they learned of the attempt to purchase naval plans.

A draftsman in the Brooklyn navy yard was approached and, it is said, was offered $1,500 for certain secret specifications.

He reported that matter to his superiors and he was instructed to continue negotiations with the ring. In the meantime these people were placed under surveillance and their every move closely watched by government agents. The plotters later became suspicious and fled the country.

Government officials would not admit that they think the Paris group in one and the same as the New York ring of two years ago, but they are carefully examining all the dispatches from abroad.

Lydia Tschakaloff Stahl is reported also to have spent some time in Washington during her visit to the United States, and is alleged to have done some entertaining there.

Aviator, Wife Named As Friends of 'Spy'

PARIS, Dec. 26.—(INS.)—The charge that Robert Gordon Switz, former New Jersey aviator, and his wife were acquainted with Lydia Stahl, so-called "Mata Hari" of the alleged international spy ring uncovered here, was made today.

Although Switz previously denied knowing the woman, the allegation was voiced at the arraignment of Prof. Louis Martin, interpreter for the French Ministry of Navy, characterized by police as a "victim" of Miss Stahl.

Switz and his wife, charged with playing leading parts in the espionage conspiracy, underwent a preliminary examination on Saturday.

Gangster Escapes From Ohio Asylum

LIMA, O., Dec. 26—(AP.)—Neal Glendon Bowman, 30, member of the Bowman brothers gang, escaped from the state hospital for the criminal insane here yesterday after locking an attendant and four other patients in a small room of the tuberculosis section.

Bowman scaled the hospital wall with a fire hose after menacing the attendant, Frank Devoe, and patients with a pistol.

MOB THREATENS REVENGE IN BOY SLAYING

Suspect Admits Crime, Wished Lad's Father 'A Merry Christmas'

International News Service.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Dec. 26.—While citizens openly muttered threats of mob revenge, police today safeguarded behind penitentiary walls the alleged "fiend" murderer of 15-year-old Herbert Harris, Jr., who, police said he confessed, after bludgeoning the boy to death, went to the father and wished him:

"Merry Christmas."

After an all night grilling, Sheriff T. Alex Heise early today announced that Robert H. Wiles, 49, unemployed automobile mechanic, confessed he lured the schoolboy to an abandoned farm dwelling near desolate Congaree Swamp Saturday and crushed his skull in an apparently motiveless killing.

Christmas afternoon, while the boy's bloodstained body lay hidden beneath a mound of cotton waste, police said Wiles told them he went to the father, Herbert K. Harris, wealthy chain store operator, sympathized with him over his boy's disappearance, shook his hand and expressed the hope that his Christmas would still be a happy one.

Wiles, the father of four children, who police said was tried and acquitted for the murder of his wife in Durham, N. C., several years ago, was arrested last night, a few hours after three residents of the Olympia mill village stumbled on the body in the abandoned shack.

In his alleged confession, police said Wiles implicated J. M. Rushton, discharged meat cutter, formerly employed in a branch of the chain store of which Harris is vice president. Rushton also was held at the penitentiary.

8-Year-Old Girl Slain, 2 Men Held as Suspects

HASTINGS-ON-HUDSON, N. Y., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Two men were held on suspicion today in the murder of 8-year-old Josephine Wiropay, the daughter of a Polish laborer, whose body was found Sunday under the back porch of the St. Matthews' Lyceum, an athletic club.

Police said one of the men, Sebastian Martins, 49, had frequently annoyed children in the Polish quarter in this Hudson River suburb of New York. The other, Harry Fulky, 45, was described by police as a "bad actor."

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(Universal.)—Taken for a "ride" by young men with whom she had been associating, Sarah Weiss, 15-year-old school girl, was found murdered Sunday in front of a stable at 353 East Fourth street.

The girl's head had been crushed with a heavy instrument and was wrapped in burlap sacks.

It was only a few days ago that Sarah, warned by her father, Louis Weiss, about her companions, had replied:

"Well, you only have to die once."

10 MEET DEATH IN VOLCANO

International News Service.

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 26.—Trapped by a flood of hot mud and sulphurous water from a volcanic eruption, 10 persons were killed at Irosin and more than 500 made homeless Christmas Eve, according to information received here today by the Weather Bureau.

Irosin, a city of 18,000 population in the province of Sorsogon, was inundated.

Sixty families escaped death by fleeing from their homes, which were swept away by the fiery flood.

First reports that Mt. Bulasan was in volcanic eruption caused terror to spread through the area.

A typhoon and tidal wave were reported to have lashed through other provinces in the central and eastern Philippines, and although many persons were said to be missing, the Weather Bureau here said it had no knowledge of any persons being killed.

The Christmas Eve celebration in Irosin was at its height when the "red flood," carrying death and destruction, struck with dramatic suddenness.

7 HELD IN FEUD IN ARKANSAS

MARSHALL, Ark., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—National guardsmen called to this North Arkansas mountain town to prevent a new feud outbreak after a street battle Sunday night, were withdrawn today following the arrest of seven men who allegedly participated in the Christmas Eve gun fight.

Those held under bond are: Jack, Alf and Nobe Henley and Ted Switzer, while at Little Rock City Marshall J. H. Barnett, who was wounded slightly in the face during the battle, which raged for several minutes, was in a hospital in technical custody and his two sons, Oscar and Rubert, were in jail awaiting return here.

All are charged with assault with intent to kill.

Sheriff G. M. Robertson was not too hopeful today of a peaceful settlement of the long-standing feud between the Henley and Barnett families which is blamed for at least two slayings in recent years.

WOMEN FLIERS BREAK GAGE

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Barograph trouble today threatened the efforts of Helen Richey, of McKeesport, Pa., and Frances Marsalis, endurance fliers, as they neared the seven-day point in their attempt to break the record of eight days, four hours. Airport officials believed the winding key had been broken.

Christmas meant just another tiresome day in the skies for the daring women. A note dropped read:

"There ain't no Santa Claus up here."

A big turkey dinenr was sent up to them along with a tiny artificial Christmas tree.

19 DEAD IN FLOOD STRICKEN AREA

International News Service.

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 26.—Freezing weather gripped the Pacific Northwest today while a checkup was being made of flood damage, estimated at five million dollars.

The death toll resulting from the three weeks' flood waters, which swamped rich farming lands throughout Washington and Oregon when rivers jumped their banks, stood at 19.

Milo Allen, 51, and three of his sons, George, 31; Robert, 13, and Donald, 9, were the latest victims of the treacherous waters. They were buried in an avalanche of mud which bore down on their farm home at Clatskanie, Ore., after the O. K. Creek leaped its banks. Two other sons of Allen escaped death. Elddon Allen, 16, was seriously injured. Clifford, 7, climbed to the roof of the farm house and rode to safety.

Catalonia Honors Macia, Dead Leader

BARCELONA, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Thousands of mourners passed today before the bier of Col. Francisco Macia, dead President of Catalonia.

It was expected more than 300,000 person would attend the last rites tomorrow. At the head of the mourning procession will be President Alcala Zamora of Spain.

Col. Macia died yesterday at the age of 74, following an operation.

MINER HUNTED IN SLAYING

VANDERGRIFT, Pa., Dec. 26.—The Kiskiminetas Valley today is being searched by state police and other peace officers for Joe Perocco, 35, a miner, of Slickville, near here, for the killing of John Montana, 40, a Truxall miner, last night, during an altercation over the latter's wife.

State troopers, headed by Private George Naughton, of Greensburg barracks, are making a check of all physicians' offices and hospitals in the belief that the fugitive had been wounded by his own gun during the scuffle with Montana.

The fight took place in Perocco's home late yesterday, where Montana had gone to talk to his wife, Mrs. Rincie Montana, 36, who had been living in Perocco's home since parting with her husband, police reported.

A .45-caliber gun used in the shooting, Naughton reported, was found near Montana's body. Those who saw Perocco flee said he showed signs of being wounded.

Mrs. Montana, who police said kept house for Perocco, a bachelor, was questioned, but not held.

Spinster Sisters Starve to Death

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—While their neighbors busily prepared for a joyous Christmas, two spinster sisters starved to death in their quaint little home just off exclusive East avenue here, authorities concluded today as they sought relatives of the two women who were found dead Christmas eve.

In the cold, dark building, officers came upon Miss Jenny Farrell, crumpled beside a stove where she apparently had tried to light a fire. Upstairs in bed was Miss Anne. Both women, past 80, were emaciated from lack of food.

Nation-Wide Party To Mark Birth Of Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Committees to plan balls in honor of President Roosevelt's birthday anniversary have been appointed in more than 2,300 communities and organizations.

The nation-wide "party" will be on January 30. The proceeds will create, as a birthday gift to the President, a permanent endowment for the Warm Springs foundation. The national committee for the birthday ball for the President is directing plans.

WRECK KILLING 196 PROBED

PARIS, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—The investigation into Saturday night's railroad wreck was pressed today, the number of dead standing at 196. The bodies of eight women and a small boy remain unidentified.

The exact total of deaths may never be known. Remains shapeless beyond identification as human bodies were gathered together today in nameless caskets.

At least 10 of the survivors of the crash of the Strasbourg flier into the fogbound Nancy express 17 miles from here were reported near death from infections.

Lucien Daudigny, engineer, and Henry Charpentier, the fireman of the flyer, are held in prison, charged with homicide by imprudence, but Deputy Louis Rollin protested that their imprisonment was "illegal and arbitrary."

Impressive simplicity will be the keynote of a national funeral service Wednesday, arrangements for which were being completed today.

VANDERBILT PAL KILLED BY AUTO

GORMANIA, W. Va., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—West Virginia and Maryland officers are investigating the death of John W. Brodix, 52, who was struck down by a speeding automobile while returning from California with his close friend, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr.

The accident occurred Saturday night on the National highway in West Virginia about half a mile from the Maryland state border.

Vanderbilt and Brodix—the latter acted as Vanderbilt's secretary—were driving in separate cars. Vanderbilt headed for Washington and a Sunday dinner with President Roosevelt.

Vanderbilt said he stopped on the highway and Brodix pulled up later, saying:

"Lee, I want to tell you something."

As Brodix stood beside the Vanderbilt car, another automobile struck him.

Later Fritz Anthony, Jr., 28, Baynard (W. Va.) coal miner, was arrested. He admitted, police said, he was in an accident "at about the time of the Vanderbilt accident and on the same road." Blood was found on his car.

Actress' Stepfather Killed by Hit-Runner

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., Dec. 26.—(INS.)—Ernest Spencer, 45, Bucks County real estate operator and stepfather of Frances Pemberton Dade, New York screen star, was found dead in a ditch along the Buckingham pike, near here, early today, apparently the victim of a hit-and-run motorist.

Weather Conditions.

Pressure is realtively low over the Ohio Valley and the Central Appalachians this morning (Elkins, W. Va., 29.90), with snow over the lakes, the Ohio and Middle Mississippi valleys and portions of the Middle Atlantic states and with rain in Southern West Virginia, Western Virginia and Eastern Tennessee. Snowfall was moderate to heavy over Western Pennsylvania, ranging between two and five inches. Columbus, Louisville and Evansville each report four inches on the ground and Chicago 6 inches. High pressure overlies the plains (Huron, S. D., 30.78), with low temperatures and generally fair weather over the West. Temperatures are considerably below zero in the northern plains and upper lake region. It was 38 degrees below zero at Winnipeg, Man., this morning.

WARNS POLICE ON KILLERS

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Police had a definite warning today from one who until recently sat in the innermost circles of the elusive John Dillinger gang of killers that any attempt to arrest the desperadoes would be met by a battle to the death.

The informant was Edward Shouse, captured last week during a gun battle at Paris, Ill., in which an Indiana state policeman was slain, and he told his story of the gang to Sergt. Dan Healy, of the Chicago police.

Shouse, who was one of the 10 convicts who broke out of the Indiana prison last September, said:

"They are all kill crazy. That's why I left them."

Shouse spent Christmas afternoon telling Sergt. Healy some of the gang's precautions to elude capture.

They have a nightly drill, in which every man takes the position assigned to him in event of a surprise raid by police.

They sleep in bullet-proof vests.

They will shoot it out to the last bullet and they have plenty of guns.

DEATH ON BEACH MYSTERY

HULL, Mass., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Mystery today surrounded the death of Mrs. Mae E. Gilman, 50, whose body was found on the sands of Nantasket Beach Sunday. Authorities declined to state whether she was a victim of foul play or suicide.

Mrs. Gilman was the widow of a once well-to-do theatrical promoter, Herbert A. Gilman, and in her pocketbook, which was found near her body, were charge account cards bearing her late husband's name and addresses in Hollywood, Cal., and St. Petersburg, Fla.

The body was found not far from the cliffs known as Atlantic Rocks, from the slippery slopes of which several persons have plunged to their deaths in the sea. Her sealskin coat lay within a few feet and her pocketbook and umbrella were nearby.

Mrs. M'Cormick Gets $250,000 Allowance

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—(INS.)—Mrs. Katherine Dexter McCormick has been awarded $250,000 for her maintenance next year from the estate of her multimillionaire husband, Stanley McCormick, Probate Judge John O'Connell announced today.

McCormick, a resident of Santa Barbara, Cal., was declared incompetent in 1906.

BEAUTY KILLED BY SHOTGUN

VINELAND, N. J., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Nineteen-year-old Helen Burns, a beauty contest winner, is dead, victim of what police termed a tragic accident.

She was wounded by a shotgun while wrestling playfully with her brother-in-law, David Lazaroff, on Saturday, and died 24 hours later.

The man said that as soon as she was shot, the girl cried:

"Mother, take my diamond. I am dying and will never use it again."

The diamond was one she was awarded in a recent beauty contest here.

Children Away, Wife Ill, Man Ends Life

BEAVER FALLS, Dec. 26.—Joseph Shannon's children were away, his wife in a hospital where she was taken two weeks ago, and it was Christmas Eve. He was 60.

So police understood yesterday, when they broke in the kitchen door and found him there, the gas jets on. He had been dead, the Coroner said, for hours.

Wife Chased With Knife Gives Man 30 Days

Carl Fenton, 35, chased his wife from their home at 6 Bigbee street with a butcher knife early today, but the finger of a policeman and disturbed neighbors, police testified in Morals Court today. So Magistrate Thomas D. Jones let his wife decide what should be done.

Fenton, barefooted, pleaded with his wife to give him another chance and he would swear off liquor.

But she sentenced him to 30 days to ponder over his drinking bouts, and the complex he has had many times, she said, to chase her with the butcher knife and frighten their six children.

Patrolman Julius Matuszak's finger required treatment at a hospital. He said it took three police half an hour to subdue the man.

Son Urged to Surrender In Deaf Mute Slaying

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—While authorities today spread their search throughout Southern Michigan, newspapers of the state were asked to publish a parental appeal to William McCann, 20, sought in connection with the slaying of Miss Margaret Peevey, 22-year-old deaf mute, urging him to give himself up to police.

The message read:

"William McCann, please come home and face the charges. We will stand behind you to the limit and help all we can."

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd A. Walcott, mother and step-father of McCann, asked that their message be given wide circulation in the hope that he would read and heed the message.

Sheriff Fred Kelley, announcing the hunt for McCann, described him as a former sweetheart of the girl whose body was found last Saturday lying in a field near Grand Rapids. Three bullets from a small bore rifle had been fired into her head, two teeth knocked out, and her clothing torn and disarranged.

Sheriff Kelley said he had learned from McCann's parents that the couple quarreled some time ago.

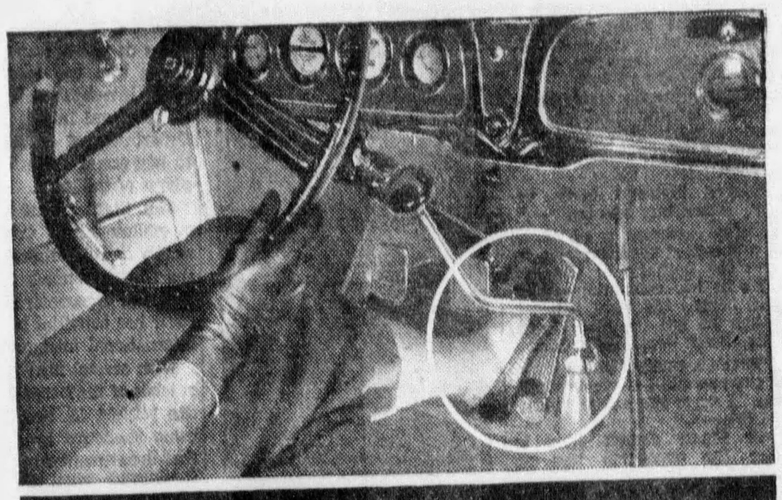
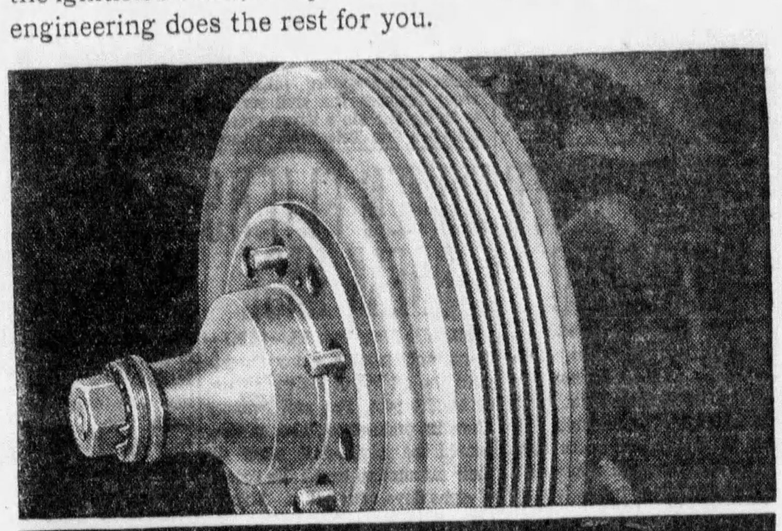
Buick



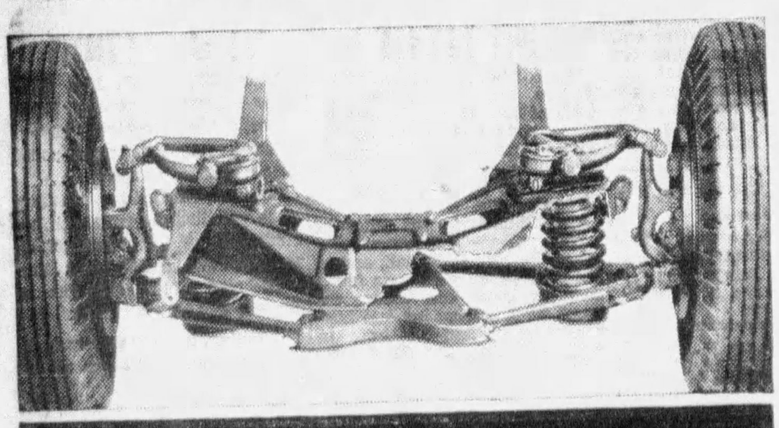
· COMPLETE AUTOMATIC STARTING ·

—a remarkable contribution to driving ease, making car operation more simple and effortless than you have ever before thought possible. The choke, heat control, spark advance and idle control, all are automatic. Simply turn the ignition switch, and press the accelerator pedal . . . Buick engineering does the rest for you.



· NEW VACUUM-POWER BRAKES ·

—with Buick type cast-iron drums, greatly increased braking area and improved brake hook-up; operating with only one-third the former pedal pressure because the vacuum-servo mechanism does the work; giving a smooth, silent, positive stop at all times; a development which makes motor car braking easier and safer than ever before.

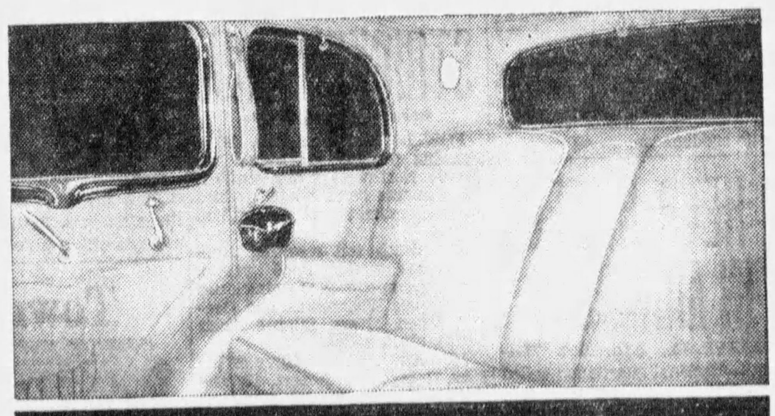


· · KNEE-ACTION WHEELS · ·

(with coil springs)—a new and revolutionary improvement—permitting each front wheel to move up and down individually; absorbing road shocks without communicating them to the car or to the passengers; providing a smooth, gliding ride with unmatched steadiness and safety.

· · THE RIDE STABILIZER · ·

—another vitally important ride improvement by Buick—eliminating sidesway and keeping the car on an even keel at all times. This, together with balanced weight distribution and the new air-cushion tires, contributes greatly to Buick's smoother, safer, more satisfying ride.



· · NEW BODIES BY FISHER · ·

—with advanced wind-stream styling and the improved Fisher No Draft Ventilation System; highly refined inside and out; combining with the new radiator, longer hood and deeper fenders to form the modern pattern of beautiful, wind-cleaving design; available in nineteen luxurious models.

BANK CHARGES TO REDUCE FAILURES

Charges soon to be adopted by Pittsburgh banks in an effort to place every service on a paying basis are expected to make checking accounts an expensive luxury to thousands while assuring the safety of all bank deposits by materially reducing future bank failures.

The charges would put on a paying basis many thousands of accounts which have always been conducted by banks here at a loss.

Bankers, admitting the inconvenience of the new charges to many, point out that the new bank deposit insurance to be inaugurated in January would not be possible if banks continued any part of their business on an unprofitable basis.

They attribute many of the failures of the depression to former uneconomic practices.

CHARGES SET UP

Two NRA codes will affect banks under new plans—one for clearing house banks and other institutions in the downtown district, the other for outlying, non-clearing house banks.

Under each of the codes, charges will be set up to guarantee that every banking operation is conducted on a profitable basis. Because of lower overhead in outlying districts, charges will be lighter there.

Proposed, but not approved, charges for downtown banks is a monthly charge on all accounts under $200 average balance.

Each of these accounts would be permitted a set number of withdrawals monthly and would be charged for each withdrawal in excess of that number.

Accounts above $200 would be serviced on a method basis, with a number of free withdrawals allowed and charges for additional items.

BACKS ADDED COSTS

One banker, discussing the plan of charging for bank service, said:

"When the people understand that checking accounts are a distinct service to them, like electric, gas and telephone service, and are often carried on unprofitably they'll be glad to pay for the service.

"We find the average cost of making an entry—either a deposit or a withdrawal—is 4.9 cents. We're lucky, today, if we average 4 per cent earning on our money.

"A leading firm of public accountants tells us that, with the most efficient management, we should earn 4.65 per cent on our capital fund investments, 4.35 per cent less the interest paid (3 per cent in Pittsburgh) on savings funds investments, and 1.5 per cent on demand deposits if we have a service charge.

"If you have an average of $100 on deposit at all times, provided we can invest it at 5 per-cent — and we're lucky if we can — we only earn $5 on it in a year. That's just less than 42 cents a month. And, at 4.9 cents an entry, if you only figure withdrawals, that means we actually operate at a loss if you cash more than 10 checks a month.

"I certainly don't see how we can earn any profit on carrying that account unless we have a service charge."

CITES LARGE LOSSES

Another banker cited large losses many banks have unknowingly incurred with firms carrying large balances but making deposits of many checks and checking against them before the bank collected deposits from other banks. Thus a bank had no chance to invest and profit from the deposits.

He showed that, while each bookeeping entry costs a bank from three to five cents—and sometimes more—the new system's charge would be the same for a deposit of one check as for a deposit of many at one time.

For such accounts, a larger charge calculated to put the account on a paying basis would be made.

Experience in the past has shown that installation of service charges results in the withdrawal of sometimes as many as 30 per cent of accounts—most of them small accounts which were an expense to the bank and imperiled the safety of other accounts which paid their ways.

Other depositors increased their balances to escape the flat monthly charge placed on accounts falling below the minimum level set by the banks. Others were glad to pay the charges because, a banker declares:

"They found it wasn't so easy to go from place to place to pay bills in cash and to cash checks paid to them. They found it was worth the small charges."

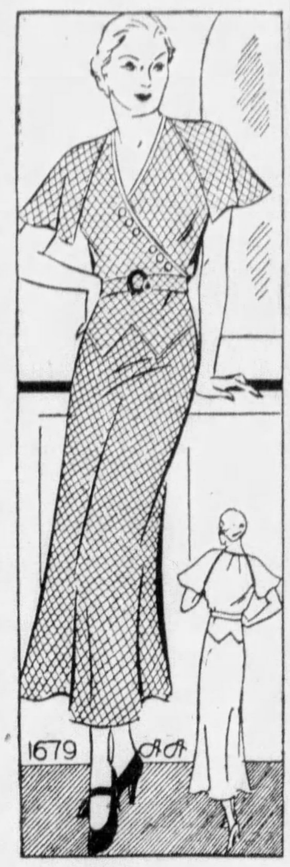
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern
Designed for the Matron
Pattern 1679



There is a formula for chic, that women who are no longer slender should adopt. When making new frocks, choose lines that are simple—fussy details and intricate seemings detract form the length-giving silhouette. The attractive frock sketched today has such good features! Note, particularly, the surplice line of the bodice, the graceful and comfortable cape sleeves set in raglan seaming, and hip yoke with pointed seaming—these do wonders for the figure! Make it of printed silk or cotton—they're so neat and fresh-looking!

Pattern 1679 is available in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 takes 3¼ yards 39 inch fabric and 1½ yards binding. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

PITT CATHEDRAL WORK TO BEGIN TOMORROW

Opening the drive for a completed Cathedral of Learning, a corps of 150 skilled laborers will report at the Pitt Building tomorrow, according to the Civil Works employment office.

Additional men will be added to the staff as the construction progresses. It is expected that a full crew of 1,000 will be on the job within 10 days.

MORE MATERIALS NEEDED

CWA work will be limited to enclosing the lower floors of the structure, since materials are lacking for the completion of the top of the tower. Chancellor John G. Bowman, of the university, has said he will avail himself to the fullest extent of CWA advantages, but that additional stone and other supplies will be needed before the edifice will be finished.

The social survey and unemployment census due to start this week has been postponed indefinitely Positions for 1,500 were to have been provided by the enterprise, which was canceled by orders from Harrisburg for unexplained reasons.

N. D. Moeller, area supervisor of the project, is to leave for the state capital tonight. He will return this week, he said, with information as to the definite date when the survey will start and the procedure to be followed.

KEEP CHOSEN WORKERS

Workers already chosen for the job will be employed when it eventually gets under way, according to Moeller. Men and women were assigned to the project last week, and were notified to report Thursday.

As yet uninformed of the postponement, they will be officially told of the delay on reporting for their jobs.

Artists employed by the CWA in the city now number 20. They will decorate and improve schools, federal buildings, hospitals and libraries throughout Pittsburgh.

HOME, SCHOOL DESTROYED BY FLAMES

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Valicent and their three children are homeless today as the result of an explosion and fire which destroyed their home at 926 Island avenue, McKees Rocks, yesterday.

The family was visiting friends at the time of the explosion. Mr. and Mrs. Frank DiCenzo and their five children were forced to leave an apartment in an adjoining building, at 924 Island avenue, when flames threatened the building.

Damage to the Valicent home was estimated at $5,000 by firemen.

A fire in the Gilmore Grade School, Wilkins Township, Sunday morning left 400 pupils without a building at the end of the Christmas holidays.

The nearest school to the damaged building, the Turtle Creek School, was destroyed by fire last summer and its pupils have been forced to double up in available classrooms in other schools.

2 DIE IN SLEEP ON NORTH SIDE

A North Side man and woman were found dead in bed at their homes early today. Both apparently had died of heart attacks, according to a Coroner's report.

Police, summoned by neighbors, battered in the door to find Mrs. Emma Petrican, 70, of 407 Martindale street, dead on the bedroom floor.

Frank Lawyer, 31, of 417 East Lacock street, was discovered by a nephew, Matthew Campbell.

4 MORE LIQUOR STORES PICKED IN COUNTY

A downtown retail liquor store near the Pennsylvania Station today was announced with selection of three other locations in the county by the Liquor Control Board.

The former wholesale dry goods building of the William B. Haines & Co., 1061 Liberty avenue at Tenth street, was the downtown selection. A North Side site was selected at 708 Arch street, about 60 feet from West Ohio street, lease being taken for the first floor and basement from the National Benjamin Franklin Fire Insurance Company.

GARAGE IN DORMONT

A one-story brick garage building was selected in Dormont at 1362 Tennessee avenue. A new site in McKeesport was selected at 339 Fifth avenue supplanting the previous location at 1005-7 Fifth avenue, which was opposed due to it being near a school. Plans for a store at Vandergrift were tentatively abandoned. Realty deeds in the town prohibit sale of liquor for a 99-year period.

Philip W. Gundelfinger, of Coraopolis, who has been assisting the board at Harrisburg, was named district superintendent. Erhard Schmidt, Crafton, was announced as warehouse superintendent.

Men and women who know little or nothing of either politics or the liquor business were preparing today to take up tasks in state liquor stores to which they have been appointed.

All of those who were named as store managers as a result of the recent civil service tests were asked to report to the State Department of Public Instruction, Harrisburg, at 9 a. m. Thursday. They enter upon their duties the first of the year.

VARIED OCCUPATIONS

Among the successful applicants for managerial positions were salesmen, former school teachers, accountants and men in varied walks of life.

Probably a majority had been out of work.

Few would admit their politics. Two said they were Republicans. Both said they had not used any political influence—"because they hadn't any."

Most of them agreed that the tests as prepared by the State Department of Public Instruction were fair. Of the thousands who took the examinations in five Pittsburgh high schools only a small percentage won jobs.

NAMED IN COUNTY

Those named in Allegheny County follow:

Store managers—Frank M. Hunter, 721 Third street, Oakmont; Ralph S. Taggart, 1446 Dormont avenue, P. O. 16, Pittsburgh; Frederick H. Keck, 1214 Center street, Turtle Creek; John R. STRIKE PICKET KILLED BY CAR

BURGETTSTOWN, Pa., Dec. 26.—An unidentified man was struck and killed by an automobile on the highway between Burgettstown and Atlasburg a few minutes after he had been relieved of picket duty at the American Zinc and Chemical Company here.

The death car, according to Burgettstown police, was driven by Dr. W. J. Riley, of Atlasburg.

The dead man, police said, was one of a group of men aiding in maintaing 24-hour picket duty at the plant, tied up by a strike since December 4, involving 500 men.

Four Men Drowned As Wave Wrecks Tug

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Dec. 26.—(INS.)—Four men were drowned in Lake Michigan here today when mountainous waves demolished the fishing tugfi Martha as the boat was approaching a landing.

The victims, all of Michigan City, were Walter Biddle, 32; William Klemick, 41, two unidentified men.

Harrisburg Death Blamed on Liquor

HARRISBURG, Dec. 26.—(INS.)—A single death indirectly attributed to alcoholism marked Harrisburg's observance of its first post-repeal Christmas, police reported today.

The victim was William H. McClaughlin, 64, an inmate of the County Home, who died of heart failure superinduced by liquor.

NEWSIES TO SEE FREE SHOW

Through the courtesy of General Manager Harry Kalmine, of Warner Bros., the Davis Theater will be the scene of the annual Christmas show for Sun-Telegraph carrier boys Thursday morning. A corking big show has been arranged for this affair. The picture will be "Telegraph Trail," with John Wayne—a favorite with all youngsters who like adventure—and there will be added comedies, news reels and short subjects.

The show will start at 9:30 a. m. so that it will not interfere with the regular run of "Alice in Wonderland" — now playing at the Davis as a holiday attraction, and admission will be by ticket only.

WALL ST. AIDS SENATE RUM INQUIRY

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—The New York Stock Exchange is cooperating with the Senate Banking Committee in an inquiry into alleged manipulation of prohibition repeal stocks, it was learned today.

The stock exchange conducted an independent inquiry. It now has turned over its data to Senate investigators, headed by Ferdinand Pecora, the committee's special counsel. Both the exchange and Senate inquiries were directed toward learning whether prices of alcohol stocks were boomed to fictitious levels by manipulation, following repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

POOLS CHARGED

Market movements in American Commercial Alcohol, National Distillers and United States Industrial Alcohol were investigated. Senate probers reported evidence of manipulation in the American Commercial Stock, which rose from $18 to $85 a share, before falling off to about $50. Thousands of investors lost money when the stock fell back.

Clarence C. Wright, of the New York brokerage firm of Wright & Sexton, was subpenaed to produce all his records touching operations in American Commercial. The subpena directed him to "bring with you all your personal checkbooks, bank books, canceled checks, vouchers, ledgers, journals, specialists' books and all other books of account and copies of all contracts, agreements, pools, syndicates and all other documents, writing, correspondence in any wise relating to American Commercial Alcohol for the period March 1, 1933, to August 1, 1933." A second subpena ordered him to produce such records held by Wright & Sexton.

PERSONAL OUTLAYS

Senate investigators declined to reveal why they wanted Wright's personal checks. They admitted this was an unusual move.

One Senate investigator said the inquiry thus far revealed pool and syndicate operations in the alcohol stocks. He said trading had been done by "small groups," which included "men affiliated with the companies." He said:

"They were insiders and unloaded a part of their holdings on the public at outrageous and fictitious prices, which they built up by manipulating the stocks. The inquiry is not completed, but we hope to be ready for a public hearing early in the new year."

Reporter, Seeking Yarn, Wins Rum Store Job

HARRISBURG, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Wilbar Halbert, newspaper reporter, took the state liquor board's civil service examination to get a story and now he's not sure whether he wants to be a reporter or a liquor store manager.

Halbert was assigned to the examination because it was the only way he could obtain the questions for a news item. He wrote answers on the papers and the story for his paper.

His managing editor complimented Halbert for his work and his grade won him the job of managing a liquor store—at a salary somewhere between $1,860 to $2,400.

FIGHT AGAINST FRENCH WINE GROWS

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Views against allowing France to send a heavy volume of wine into this country before showing a disposition to meet her war debts continued to be heard today.

The sentiment voiced by Frank A. Vanderlip and Senators Barbour, Copeland and Wagner in discussing these imports was upheld.

With the United States a large producer of wine, its interest in the situation was declared to be predicated on substantial considerations.

Here were some of the expressions of opinion given to the New York American:

Jack Hartblay, resident buyer for 135 department stores, said:

"We are committed to the policy in our organization of favoring American wines and liquors from a sound economic standpoint. Unless we uphold American products and standards of living against the competition of French and other foreign outputs, we are striking a blow at American buying power. In view of her refusal to meet prior obligations, France is not entitled to friendly nation treatment for her wines and liquors."

Edward C. Roberts, public accountant and cost specialist, declared:

"It is high time the people of the United States rose up in warranted indignation against the affront offered to their intelligence by French wine imports. The American people should take a page out of the book of France and refuse to drink any French vintages. Our complacency in matters of this kind is becoming a national scandal."

'Model' Liquor Law Sought For Capital

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—(INS.)—A model plan for the control of liquor in the nation's capital today became the aim of members of Congress framing liquor sale legislation for the District of Columbia.

With the saloon tacitly banned from consideration as a result of President Roosevelt's call to the nation to outlaw the pre-prohibition liquor dispensary, the fight centered between public and private sale, and strict versus liberal regulation.

A liquor regulation plan drawn by the District Commissioners calls for sale by the bottle and package by licensed merchants or by drug store prescriptions. Sale by the drink would be confined to hotels, restaurants, clubs, dining cars and boats, to be served with meals.

MUST SATISFY JUDGMENTS TO DRIVE

The new financial responsibility law for automobile owners and drivers will be effective January 1 in Pennsylvania. The Sun-Telegraph has obtained a resume of the law from the State Department of Revenue and the Pittsburgh Motor Club.

The following is a continuation of a series of questions and answers designed to clarify the requirements.

Q—When is an operator's policy required?

A—An operator's policy is required in most all cases where an operator furnishes proof of financial responsibility in the form of an insurance certificate. An individual who is not an operator, merely an owner, and comes within the provisions of the Act because of unsatisfied judgments, needs to furnish only an owner's policy certificate covering those cars which are registered in his name.

Q—When is an owner's policy required?

A—An individual who fails to satisfy judgments in the amount of more than $200 within 15 days comes within provisions of Section 11 of this Act. All registrations in the name of such person, and operator's license, if there be any, will be suspended until the judgment is paid and will not be restored thereafter until proof of financial responsibility is furnished. The proof in this case may consist of an owner's policy certificate covering all vehicles registered in the name of such person and an operator's policy for that person, if he is an operator and wants to continue driving. This is the only case where an owner's policy certificate is needed. That policy must insure any authorized person driving any one of the cars owned by the person furnishing proof.

Q—If an insurance company cancels a policy, must the Secretary of Revenue be notified?

A—Yes, he must be notified 15 days prior to cancellation, but this duty rests with the insurance company and should not concern the individual.

Q—If a policy is cancelled or expires, may the individual continue to drive until he has acquired new insurance?

A—No. New insurance must be provided before the cancellation or expiration date of any policy. If this is not done, operator's license (in some cases, owner's registration) will be suspended until a new certificate has been received by the Secretary of Revenue.

Q—In the event a person drives more than one car must he show proof for each car?

A—A person must show proof for his operation of any and every car that he might drive if he once comes within provision of the Act. If a person comes within provisions contained in Section 11 (unsatisfied judgments), he must not only furnish proof for his own driving, but for the driving of anyone when operating cars owned by him.

Q—Shall fleet owners who become subject to the Financial Responsibility Law be permitted to file a blanket certificate covering all cars registered, so that it will be unnecessary to have a certificate for each car?

A—Yes.

Q—If an employer owns two or more trucks, and one driver comes within the provisions of the Financial Responsibility Law, is the owner in any way affected by this Act?

A—The driver, only, is affected. The owner will not have to show proof of financial responsibility unless because of an accident, which a driver may have, a judgment (in excess of $200) obtained against the owner, is not satisfied within 15 days.

Q—If a chauffeur or truck driver who has been required to furnish proof of financial responsibility elects to furnish insurance, must he provide a policy covering his driving of any car or will the owner's policy of his employer suffice?

A—The employer's policy will not suffice. The employe must show proof of financial responsibility, and in case insurance is used, he must have an operator's policy protecting him while driving any motor vehicle whatever. This also applies to cases where employe is driving without authority.

New Deal for Coughs and Sore Throat

The medical profession has found that a Cold is an internal infection and must be treated internally. Thoxine, a doctor's prescription, for Coughs and Sore Throats, is based on this discovery. Unlike gargles, salves, and cough syrups, which touch only the surface, Thoxine goes directly to the internal cause, relieves congestion, reduces fever, and quickly brings you back to normal. Why take chances with a patent medicine when you can get this doctor's prescription for 35c? Demand Thoxine at your drug store.

SCHOOLS IN U. S. FACE BLEAK OUTLOOK

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Dr. George F. Zook, commissioner of education, today sketched in a survey of city schools a dark picture of rising school populations, curtailed budgets and the prospect of further slashes in teachers' salaries. He said:

"Prospects reported by city superintendents for the current year, are, as a whole, dark, although there are some bright spots in the national picture."

The commissioner said reductions in current operating budgets for schools average almost 20 per cent since 1931, adding:

"School budget reductions in small cities of the North Central, South Central and Western states average 33 per cent between 1931 and the present school year.

"Very few cities have not made some reduction in teachers' salaries since 1930. The reductions run as high as 40 and 45 per cent. The average decrease is probably about 14 per cent. Further reductions are reported in prospect for the current year."

REPORT FEATURES

Dr. Zook featured the following in his report:

"City schools are operating with about 18,000 fewer teachers now than in 1930.

"Expenditures are down. City schools are now running on approximately 133 million dollars less for current expenses than they did in 1931-1932.

"The fact that cities have had to borrow money to keep their schools open is reflected in an increase of 1.2 per cent in the amount of the money devoted to interest payments.

"Few school buildings are being built. Few old ones have been repaired. Expenses for capital outlay have dropped considerably.

"Budget slashes have caused schools to 'suffer considerably.'

"The school term was reduced in length in one out of every four cities.

"Kindergartens were reduced or eliminated in 80 cities out of 404 reporting. Playground activity was seriously curtailed in 85 out of 502 cities.

"Night and adult classes were reduced or eliminated in 113 cities of 266.

"There has been an increase of two pupils per teacher in the last three years. The average for the country is 32 pupils for each teacher. Three years ago the average load for the South Atlantic states was 34 pupils per teacher.

"While for the most part the larger cities maintained their subjects of instruction, elimination and curtailment of art, music, home economics and physical education were common in cities of from 10,000 to 30,000 population.

"Art has been reduced or eliminated in 113 cities, music in 169 cities, physical education in 109 cities, home-making classes in 74 cities, industrial art in 82 cities."

Woman Cut, Beer Trade Rival Sought

BEAVER FALLS, Dec. 26—[illegible] are seeking Luigi Lorenzo, [illegible] explain how Mrs. Anna Ca[illegible] in Providence Hospital with throat cut, was injured.

Lorenzo, who served a jail sentence on a liquor charge, was released recently. Police say he accused Mrs. Carada of taking away his beer business and in an altercation yesterday cut her.

TEMPTING HOLIDAY RECIPES GIVEN

'Holiday - Aftermath' Delightful Dish Submitted

You're a lot of left-overs and don't want to serve them just 'as-is?" Don't then, Prudence Penny will tell you. Just make use of Mrs. Anna Grant's "Christmas-aftermath" and the family will never know it's eating odds and ends of yesterday's feast.

If you have no left-overs there are plenty of other recipes that you can use from today's list to tempt those appetites that are liable to be just a little surfeited. If you're wise and consult Prudence Penny's recipes you won't have anyone muttering:

"I don't feel like eating."

You surely have some especially tempting recipes. Send them in to Prudence Penny, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and you may receive the $5 prize or one of the $1 prizes awarded daily. No recipes, of course, will be returned.

FRUIT CHILLI SAUCE

Twenty ripe tomatoes, diced.
One dozen peaches, diced.
One dozen pears, diced.
One-half dozen green peppers, ground.
One-half dozen onions, ground.
Five cups sugar.
Two tablespoons salt.
One quart vinegar.
Boil two hours after starting to boil. Put bag of spice in the last half hour.

Ten $1 Prize Winners

MRS. JAMES CRAIG KING,
106 Fifteenth street, Vandergrift.
BANANA TEA CAKE

One-fourth cup shortening.
One-fourth cup sugar.
One egg.
Two teaspoons baking powder.
Two cups flour.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One cup milk.
One and one-half thinly sliced bananas.
One-half cup sugar.
Two teaspoons cinnamon.

Beat the egg and add to well-creamed shortening and sugar. Sift baking powder, salt and flour and add to first mixture alternately with the milk and lastly fold in the bananas. Pour mixture into two greased pie pans, sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar and bake in a moderate oven, about 400 degrees, for a half hour. They can be used plain, or put together with whipped cream and sliced bananas.

MRS. LEON ZUCCONI,
434 Hill street, Belle Vernon.
ITALIAN RICE PIE

Two cups rice.
Tomato sauce.
One onion.
A few leaves of parsley.
Two stalks of celery.
One pound ground round steak.
One pint of tomatoes.
Three tablespoons olive oil.
Parmesan cheese.

Put the olive oil in an iron frying pan, cut up fine the onion, parsley and celery, and put with the ground round steak into the olive oil and brown. Strain the tomatoes into the frying pan with the other ingredients. Add two cups of water and boil slowly for one and a half hours. Boil to taste. Put the rice into cold water and bring to a boil. Add one-half teaspoon salt. Boil rice for only 15 minutes. Strain water off rice and put rice into serving dish. Cover with tomato sauce and parmesan cheese. Mix thoroughly and again sprinkle cheese on top. This will serve four persons.

MARGARET CANNON,
2914 Glenmore avenue.
VARIETY SALAD.

On lettuce leaf place on top of each in order given:
One medium slice tomato.
One slice Bermuda onion.
One tablespoon creamed cottage cheese.
One ring, or strips of green pepper.
One stuffed olive on top.
Serve with mayonnaise if desired.

MARY READSHAW,
603 Fairfield avenue, Columbiana, O.
MEN'S FAVORITE POTATO SOUP.

Allow three medium sized potatoes to each serving, and a quarter of a medium sized onion. Boil the potatoes and dry thoroughly, then put them through a potato ricer or mash. Brown the onions in bacon drippings. Fry a rasher of bacon crisp for each serving. Chop the bacon fine. Blend the onions, bacon drippings and bacon into the potatoes. Dust in a little grated parmesan cheese, season with salt and pepper. Slowly stir in warm milk, smoothing any lumps. Thicken slightly with butter and flour creamed together. Let this simmer slowly for half an hour. Serve in bowl with croutons or biscuits.

MRS. M. J. RODGERS,
749 S. Mt. Vernon avenue, Uniontown.
BRANDIED RED GRAPES.

One bunch red grapes on stem.
One cup sugar.
One-half cup water.
One-half cup vinegar.
One-half teaspoon cloves.
One-half teaspoon cinnamon.

Bring to boil and pour over bunch of grapes, cover jar, stand one or two weeks. Used as a cocktail has a delicious brandy flavor.

MRS. JULIA WANTIER,
717 Meadow avenue, Charleroi.
FRENCH BOUILLON

Place three pounds of good soup beef in a kettle of cold water, six quarts in all, before the stock starts to boil skim off the scum until clear, then slowly boil for three hours and then add three leeks, four or five stalks of fresh celery, one sprig parsley, two carrots cut in two, one turnip, two bay leaves, one sprig of thyme, one onion, one cup of tomatoes, if desired, salt and pepper to taste, then cook slowly for three hours more, strain the stock, add one cup of vermicelli or as much as desired. Cook 10 minutes and serve hot or serve with toast cut in cubes lightly rubbed with garlic.

PEG JOHNSON,
188 Homestead street, Swissvale.
OATMEAL ALMOND PETITS FOURS

Eight egg yolks.
Eight egg whites.
One-half cup granulated sugar.
One-half cup almonds.
Three-fourths cup ground rolled oats.
Two cups pastry flour.
One teaspoon baking powder.
One teaspoon vanilla.

Grind the oatmeal in the food grinder. Blanch and grind the almonds, reserving a few to decorate the petits fours. Add sugar gradually to the beaten egg yolks, then add the ground almonds, flour and baking powder sifted together, add oats and flavoring. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and bake in shallow pans in moderate oven. When cool cut in strips one and one-fourth inches thick in oblongs. Cover each cake with butter cream frosting and place an almond to the center of each, or cover the tops with shaved almonds.

BUTTER CREAM FROSTING

One cup confectioner's sugar.
Two tablespoons butter.
One tablespoon milk.
One teaspoon vanilla.

Cream the sugar and the butter. Add the milk and the vanilla flavoring to make the right consistency to spread.

MRS. ANNA GRANT,
2740 Shiras avenue.
CHRISTMAS AFTERMATH

Butter a baking dish and put into it a layer of mashed potatoes then a layer of cold left-over fowl meat (chopped fine), a dozen large oysters, seasoned with salt, pepper, paprika, celery, salt and a little minced parsley and rolled in cracker crumbs. Add bits of butter and one cup of milk. Bake 20 minutes and serve hot.

MRS. WILLIAM J. BROWN,
Box 65, Donlevy, Pa.
SPICED NUTS

One cupful sugar.
One half cupful water.
Three-quarter teaspoonful salt.
One teaspoonful vanilla.
One teaspoonful cinnamon.
Pound shelled walnuts, almonds or pecans.

Combine all ingredients except the nuts. Simmer in a flat bottom pan until the syrup spins a small thread (about four minutes). Be careful not to overcook, so watch carefully. Remove from fire and quickly add the nuts. Stir thoroughly and quickly until syrup crystalizes. Turn onto buttered plate and gently separate nuts.

MISS CHARLOTTE C. DUFFY,
89 Kendall avenue, Bellevue.
TOMATO PERFECTION SALAD

One level tablespoon Knox sparkling gelatine.
One-quarter cup cold water.
One tablespoon onion juice.
Two cups tomatoes, fresh or canned.
Few grains salt.
Few grains cayenne.
One tablespoon vinegar.
One cup cabbage, shredded.
One-half cup celery, chopped.
Add nuts if desired.

Soak gelatine in cold water five minutes. Heat tomatoes with onion juice and seasoning, ten minutes. Add soaked gelatine and vinegar, and when gelatine is dissolved strain. When mixture begins to thicken, add vegetables and turn into wet mold. When firm unmold on lettuce and garnish with mayonnaise. This salad serves six.

Pennsylvania Gets Two Millions Relief

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Grants totaling $5,565,000 to six states and the District of Columbia, announced today by Harry L. Hopkins, federal emergency relief administrator, included two million dollars for Pennsylvania's unemployment relief in December and January.

Spanish Warship Ordered to Havana

EL FERROL, Spain, Dec. 26.—(AP)—It was said in official circles today that the Spanish cruiser Jaime I has received orders to proceed to Havana, Cuba, to protect Spanish interests if necessary. It was said the cruiser would set out shortly.

TAX VARIATIONS SHOWN

Tax on the small home owner drops and tax on the industrialist climbs as the tax ratio is distributed more heavily on land and less on buildings, a chart bases on actual county assessments has revealed.

Made public yesterday by H. C. Workmaster, of the Board for Assessment and Revision of Taxes, the chart shows taxes which would be paid by properties in the city under the flat rate, the graded, the 5 to 1, and the single tax plans.

Mills and manufacturing plants generally show an increase with each successive shift to heavier land tax. Old office blocks also would pay more. Apartment houses would show the greatest tax decrease as the tax does to land, and residences next.

Workmaster pointed out that while the man of small or no property would be benefited, the possibility of driving off industries might more than offset his gain. Advocates of the land tax, however, contend that where the land is more valuable than the building upon it—which is the case where heavier assessment of land would increase the tax—more profitable industry would take place of any driven out.

Sage of Potato Hill To Drop Magazine

ATCHISON, Kan., Dec. 26.—(AP)—E. W. Howe's monthly magazine, founded in 1911 by the Kansas writer popularly known as the "Sage of Potato Hill," will discontinue publication with the November issue, it was announced here today.

The magazine, devoted to "indignation and information," has been the principal avenue of editorial expression of Mr. Howe since he retired as editor of the Atchison Globe in 1910.

DYERS' PRICES LOWERED HERE

Dry cleaning prices here dropped to a new minimum today under the NRA, W. J. Mooney, chairman of the Dry Cleaners and Dyers Association of Pittsburgh, announcing a reduction from 85 to 70 cents.

The new minimum is for men's suits and overcoats and women's plain dresses and coats. Cleaning plants specializing in quality work requiring a higher price will be provided with a special blue eagle insignia, Mooney said. The Independent Retail Tailors and Cleaners Association also announced the new price effective today.

First plans to maintain the previous minimum price as permitted under the code were discarded, Mooney said, as the association's step to fully co-operate under the NRA.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home
Saves Big Dollars! No Cooking!
Millions of housewives have found that, by mixing their own cough medicine, they get a purer, more effective remedy. They use a recipe which costs only one-fourth as much as ready-made medicine, but which really has no equal for breaking up obstinate coughs.
From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. The syrup is easily made with 2 cups sugar and one cup water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all, and makes the most effective remedy that money could buy. Keeps perfectly, and children love its taste.
Its quick action in loosening the phlegm, clearing the air passages, and soothing away the inflammation, has caused it to be used in more homes than any other cough remedy.
Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its healing effect on throat membranes. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

The Retail Merchants Association of Pittsburgh notes with much regret the death of

Mr. Louis A. Behr

President of The Rosenbaum Company

As merchant and philanthropist Mr. Behr enriched the civic life of our city and leaves the heritage of an honored name in the business community of Pittsburgh.

SLOGAN AWARDS READY SUNDAY

Names of the winners in the American Weekly slogan competition will be announced in the Sunday Sun-Telegraph of December 31.

After nine weeks of day and night work, the task of sorting, copying and filing the two millions of slogans submitted by the 500 thousand contestants in the great annuity competition has been completed. The judges are now making their selections of the 10 prize winning solgans which will carry the following awards:

First prize, $1,000 a year for life.

Second prize, $500 a year for life.

Third prize, $500 a year for five years.

Fourth prize, $400 a year for five years.

Fifth and sixth prizes, each $365 a year for five years.

Seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth prizes each $250 a year for five years.

The judges do not know who submitted the slogans. Their decisions are based solely on the exact text of the slogans submitted.

One-Pot Stew Recipe Sought in Germany

BERLIN, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—The Winter Relief, compiling a "national cookbook," has asked German housewives to send in their best recipes for the one-pot stew compulsory in Germany one Sunday a month. The appeal says:

"Paris has no finer recipes than ours. See to it that your dishes are cheap and tasty."

80,000 Newlyweds Visit Rome in Year

ROME, Dec., 26.—(AP.)—In a year and a half 40,000 couples have come to Rome on their honeymoon, making use of the 70 per cent reduction in railroad fares conceded by the government. The reduction is intended as a spur to marriages.

Merchants' Money Stolen From City Jail

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Merchants of Murray, south of this city, put their Saturday's receipts in what they thought the safest place in town—in the city jail.

The night marshals, Joseph Gillen and Ernest Caldwell, locked the money, $700, in a cell and locked the key of the cell in a steel box. Then they went out on their patrols of the Murray business district.

When they returned several hours later, they found burglars had battered open the steel box, taken the key to the cell, removed the money and made their escape.

WILHELMINA COYLE AND 'HAIG' -:- HER CHRISTMAS GIFT A DIAMOND

There was a surprise at the family dinner Christmas day at the Dickson Coyle home in Wallingford street. And their daughter, Wilhelmina, had an engagement ring as a Christmas present.

The Coyles announced at the dinner the engagement of their daughter, Wilhelmina, to Falconer Jones, son of the Lieut. Col. R. A. Jones and the late Mrs. Martha Falconer Jones of Buffalo, N. Y. Both families have summer homes at Bemus Point, N. Y.

Took Business Course After Trip Abroad

Wilhelmina attended Miss Ellis' School here and is a graduate of 1931 of Westover School, Middlebury, Conn. And after a European trip, she finished a business course at Miss Connelly's Secretarial School.

Her fiance is a graduate of Choate School, Wallingford, Conn., class of 1930, and attended Cornell. He's a member of Chi Psi and of the Mummy Club.

By the way, do you notice that Mr. Jones not only went to prep school in Wallingford, but is going to marry a girl who lives in Wallingford street?

Jane Graham Bowman's Betrothal Announced

And the holidays brought still another betrothal. The Arthur Henry Bowmans, of Sprague avenue, Bellevue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Jane Graham Bowman, to Henry Jared Wallace, son of the Richard Watson Wallaces, of Friday road, Millvale. Jane is a graduate of Wheaton College, Norton, Mass., and her fiance, of Harvard.

Still another betrothal of the Christmas season was announced by the William E. Schovers, of Dunmoyle street, Christmas morning, they made known the engagement of their daughter, postdeb Polly Schover, to Ernest Brooks, Jr., of Cedarhurst, L. I.

Polly went to Thurston, and is a Radcliffe girl. Her fiance went to St. Mark's and Yale, class of 1930, and is a graduate of Harvard Law School.

Dorothy G. Clark Bows At Tea-Dance Today

Dorothy Gordon Clark is bowing today at a tea-dance in the Twentieth Century, given by her parents, the Donald Clarks. The bud is wearing forest green bagheera and carrying one of the gardenia muffs becoming so popular with the debutantes. Her mother is wearing garnet bagheera with a corsage of orchids.

Dorothy's aids are Evelyn Freeman, Peggy Griffiths, Marnie Hodge and Mary Sutton, all sister buds. Pouring at the tea table will be Mrs. L. Gerald Firth, Mrs. C. F. C. Arensberg, Mrs. George S. Baton, Mrs. Oliver K. Eaton, Mrs. H. Oliver Evans, Mrs. Charles Fisher, Mrs. Alexander Murdock, Mrs. Frederic Schaefer and Mrs. William Scott.

Ann Brown Presented At Christmas Dance

The late hours of Christmas Day brought its quota of debutante entertainments. The Neill S. Browns, III, gave a most festive tea-dance in the Edgeworth Club yesterday to present their daughter, Ann. The deb wore a princess gown of blue velvet, having a cowl neckline, shirred sleeves with rows of tiny rhinestone buttons and no belt. She carried a Colonial bouquet.

Mrs. Brown chose a darker blue velvet for her gown having stripes of silver cloth inset in the sleeves. And she had a hat to watch.

Christmas greens and silver decked the clubhouse.

Last night popular Peggy Mitchell made her bow to society at a dance her parents, the Harry L. Mitchells, gave in the Pittsburgh Golf Club. Pungent Christmas trees and silver decked the clubhouse.

The tall, slender deb chose a gown of gold and silver lame, and had a muff of golf and orchids. Mrs. Mitchell was distinguished in purple velvet.

Society Theatergoers See Walter Hampden

In spite of all the dances and at-homes, theater lovers managed to see Walter Hampden in "Richelieu" at the Nixon. I saw the Reginald Macdonalds, the George S. Batons, Patricia Witherow, Rosemary Casey, the junior George L. Craigs, T. M. Jones III, Katharine MacCloskey, Mary Louise Succop and many other lovers of the theater. A few came in evening dress, more in street costumes.

The Henry Lawrence Joneses II, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., are visiting Mrs. Jones' parents, the Samuel Harden Churches, Wallingford street.

Mary Asenath Hasson Marries W. J. Young

Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Hasson, of Highland Towers Apartments, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Asenath Hasson, to William James Young, son of Mrs. Lemuel Watt Young, Jr., and the late Mr. Young, of North Negley avenue.

The ceremony took place Saturday with the Rev. Dr. Louis H. Evans, of the Third Presbyterian Church, as officiant. The bride is a Winchester girl, and studied at the Misses Dows' School at Briarcliff Manor. He went to Mercersburg Academy and is a graduate of Culver.

University Students Home for Holidays

Elmore Clemens Young arrived Friday from Howard University where he is a student to spend the holidays with his parents, the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Sherman P. Young, of Kentucky avenue, East End.

John Beach Slocum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Slocum, of Douglas street, home for the holidays from the University of Miami, has as his guest a fellow student, William Geisel, of Jamestown, N. Y.

* * *

A concert and dance will be given New Year's Eve in the Wildwood Country Club, Allison Park. The concert will be from 10 to 12 o'clock and dancing from 12 to 4.

Homestead Junior Cot Club's Dance Wednesday

Miss Catherine O'Neal is chairman and Miss Eleanor Pearce, cochairman for the annual Christmas dance of the Homestead Junior Cot Club, which is set for tomorrow in the Pittsburgh Country Club. The club, as its name indicates, gives financial support to the Homestead Hospital. Mrs. Adrian Westapal is ticket chairman.

Busy Debs Walk Out on Luncheons

By NANCY JANE

Some of the debs of late, when the social realm has become like a three-ringed circus, with a number of things going on at the same time, have nonplussed hostesses by staying for only one course or so at debutante luncheons.

And no hostess expects her guests to arrive at the hour stipulated in the invitation. At least half an hour later becomes "on time." * * *

The Dickson K. Coyles have a dog which yearns for adventure. He seeks it by running away constantly. But the Coyles are lucky—someone always sees their "Lost Dog" ads, and returns Haig. (He's named Haig after Haig whisky). He appears in the picture on the page with Wilhelmina Coyle.

* * *

Most of the smart set sent out formal Christmas greeting cards with the name or names of the senders engraved below. But a few departed from the convention, and went in for originality. The junior T. W. Phillipses, of Butler, sent out a card bearing a picture of Phillips Hall, their Butler home.

Thelma E. Klein Is Married to N. W. Ross

Mr. and Mrs. Garnett R. Klein, of Florence avenue, Avalon, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Thelma Elizabeth Klein, to Nelson W. Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Ross, of Balph ovenue, Bellevue, which was solemnized yesterday.

The ceremony took place at 4:30 o'clock in the parlors of the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church with the Rev. Ralph B. Urmy officiating, assisted by a cousin of the bride, the Rev. Raymond Powell.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore royal blue velvet with matching accessories and carried pink roses and blue lace flowers.

Miss Marion Urmy, as maid of honor, wore brown velvet with matching accessories and carried Jonathan Hill roses and yellow snapdragons. Miss Emily Roberts, of Meadville, in gold crepe, and Miss Muriel Dils, in green crepe, were bridesmaids. Both wore brown velvet turbans and carried Talisman roses and orange snapdragons.

LeRoy Ross was his brother's best man and Dan Egan, of Mt. Lebanon, and Robert Jackson, of Bellevue, were ushers.

Miss Edna Speed, cousin of the bride, played the wedding music, and Miss Ruth Wandless sang.

The bride's mother wore black velvet and the mother of the bridegroom appeared in pansy blue velvet. Each wore a shoulder corsage of gardenias.

After the wedding dinner in the Hotel William Penn, Mr. and Mrs. Ross left for Gettysburg where they will make their home.

KNITS FOR 'TWEEN SEASONS

By ELLA WOOD

WHAT WITH snow [illegible] of the advertisements d[illegible] South before your eyes, i[illegible] past the window pane and most antalizing costumes for the sunny to be coherent these days. Maybe the answer is a knitted frock, that sensible, smart, comfortable costume which gets you there and gets you back, in all sorts of weather.

Wear it now while you are waiting to go tropical, and wear it after you get to the coral strands. Or wear it from now until Easter, if you like, even if you never get as far south as Baltimore all winter long. For no matter what the color, bright or dark, a knitted frock is swell under a fur coat, a best friend that does not need pressing every other day, which usually can be worn with a variety of accessories, and which cleans easily over and over again.

Perish the thought that a garment cannot be perfectly fitted to any sort of figure, just because its fabric is knitted. The days of sagging, stretching, baggy knitted clothes are back with the gloria bathing suits of 1912. When all else fails, designers can always run in a lastex section of knitting where it will do the most good, say around the waistline, insuring a trig fit from which a skirt simply has to hang evenly.

There are lots of details knitted into the new models—trick yokes, vest effects, and whatnot. Contrasting yarns make some dresses pretty; mixture yarns give others handsome tweed effects.

This frock is laced and bowed with velvet ribbons, and part of the belt is also velvet.

A silk and wool yarn is used for this knitted model which has interesting sleeves, raglan at the shoulder and peaked over the hands. The sitting figure, right, shows a brown knitted frock, the tweed effect being made by one row of woolen yarn and one of boucle. Buttons close the neck yoke and the sleeves.

Brother and sister above wear jerseys of white, bordered with red and black, over pants and skirt of black wool with white buttons.

More clearing out. . . more bargain-eering than you can shake a stick at! And that you may be in the foremost ranks charging upon the stores, we shout out about . . .

Ensemble Sets of nighty-night things. Meaning pajamas with matching coats . . . and nighties with same. And both of them simply knockouts in silk or satin—especially so since they're being slashed to 1-3 of their regular $7.95 to $12.95 prices!

* * *

News to dry up the tears of those of you who sorta wanted a formal black velvet skirt and sorta didn't manage to get it!

They, too, are suffering from collapse of the price tag! And namely and to-wit, being knocked down for a mere fraction of their $13.95!

* * *

Do a little bagging on your own account! Take a peep at these bags which proudly strode at the head of their class in evening bags not long ago. They are now going for one-third of their former $3 to $10. Brocades and velvets . . . . sumptuous fabrics in all shades and shapes.

* * *

And maybe you've been eating more than your share of Christmas goodies . . . . and have found (to your disgust) that you ought to do a little something about your figger!

So that this bit of news about the imported girdles will not come amiss. Being as how most ladies love all-elastic girdles like these, which have always been $2.45 to $6.50 and are now going to be one-half off for COMPLETE clearance!

* * *

There are words in the wind these days . . . and we picked up the following phrase to hand over to you. A Complete Closeout of Imported Undies!

Meaning that this store is going to kiss their beautiful handmade Austrian pieces goodby forever. There are nighties and chemises, and everything else — with labels marked "Vienna" . . . and they're all going to be ½ off their $5.95 to $15 prices! Which should mean a walkout for them . . . and a dash-in for you!

* * *

Bows to Mme. Chanel, who with her crystals has won the heart of the entire world. And bows to the store who so thoughtfully puts them out now for ⅓ to ½ their former prices $1.00 to $10 . . . in time for you and us to get some for New Year's celebrating! Some other novelty jewelry types included in this group.

* * *

And yes. . .we haven't forgotten the practical part either. . .sweaters and blouses come in for their share of the cutting!

One department of this kind where we are a constant visitor is offering sweaters and blouses at ¼, ⅓ and ½ off. And this includes (among scads of other things) such as the new smart short-sleeved sweaters with leather buttons romping down the front and finished with bits of grosgrain! In all sizes and colors. . . but very broken selections!

In other words. . .if you hurry in quickly, you can make a "killing" as to quality and value at a price! But don't expect to delay, and then have the same chances as the early bird. The "worm" won't wait!

Donora Children Guests at Club Yule Party

Underprivileged children of Donora were guests at the Christmas entertainment given Wednesday in the parish hall of St. John's Episcopal Church by the Business and Professional Women's Club and the Lions Club of the town. Dinner was served before the entertainment, which was under the direction of Mrs. Cora Vernon, of the B. P. W., and Andrew S. Sukel, of the Lions.

A Christmas play given by pupils of the Castner School was presented under the direction of Miss Grace Montgomery. Marvin Shagam contributed violin numbers and Miss Helen Shellew directed a program of dances. Santa distributed gifts to the young guests.

Club World Lists Many Holiday Week Dances

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG.

There's a club dance of some kind almost every evening this week, beginning with the College Club's supper dance today. The Southern Club's annual charity ball is tomorrow's chief event at the Hotel Schenley, and the same night the Homestead Junior Cot Club is having a dance at the Pittsburgh Country Club.

Thursday will bring the Wilkinsburg Junior Woman's Club charity dance in the Schenley, and no less than three junior dances are scheduled for Friday, and all for charity—the Braddock Juniors at the Penn-Lincoln; the Crafton Juniors in the Hotel Schenley and the Oakmont Juniors in the University Club. Rounding out the week will be the College Club's senior cotillion on Saturday.

Miss Mary Burns, Bride-elect, Much Feted

Miss Mary Conner Burns, whose marriage to Louis V. Walsh, Jr., will be an event of January 10, is being entertained at numerous parties. On Saturday, December 16, Mrs. William Anderson, Jr., entertained; last Saturday Miss Eleanor M. Dunlevy was hostess at a buffet supper. Miss Dunlevy is to be the maid of honor, and Edward G. Byrns, the best man.

Tomorrow Mrs. Mark D. Kuhn will give another buffet supper; Mrs. William L. Mullins, of the Schenley Apartments, will give a luncheon on Thursday. Thursday night Mr. and Mrs. William L. Henry, of Rosslyn Farms, are to give a bridge supper and on Sunday Miss Mary Giles will give a buffet supper.

January events will include a luncheon on January 3 to be given by Mrs. William N. Steitz, and a bridge luncheon on January 6 at which Mrs. E. J. Nebel, of Mt. Lebanon, will be hostess. On January 8 Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Kelly, of Forest Hills, L. I., will give the rehearsal dinner.

Miss Burns is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Burns, of North Negley avenue, and her finance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Walsh, of Crafton. The ceremony is to take place at 10:30 o'clock in the morning in St. Raphael's Roman Catholic Church.

Spun Candy Lilies Adorn Crawford Wedding Cake

Sprays of lilies of the valley, fashioned with spun candy, decorated the wedding cake of Peggy Crawford.

Peggy, who is the daughter of the George Gordon Crawfords, of the Schenley Apartments, Pittsburgh, and of Birmingham, Ala., married J. Kirkman Jackson, son of Mrs. Charles Belsterling, of New York, Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Church of the Advent, Birmingham, with the rector, the Rev. Dr. Charles Clingman, officiating.

The cake, a white many-tiered concoction, was placed on a round table, covered with a white satin cloth, overlaid with illusion, the bride's mother's wedding veil. Smilax and lilies of the valley wreathed the cake, and white tapers in tall silver candlesticks furnished the illumination.

Smilax, cathedral tapers in silver candelabra, and mistletoe chrysanthemums decorated the church for the ceremony. The bride wore lustrous white satin having a bateau neckline, sleeves reaching over the wrist and a train. Her veil of illusion picoted with silver threads, was arranged about the face with orange blossoms. She carried a white satin prayerbook with a marker of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

There were no Pittsburghers in the large bridal party.

After their wedding trip, Mr. Jackson and his bride will live in Birmingham. He studied at the University of Alabama and is a graduate of Harvard Law School.

The bride came out in the South, although she has spent much of her time in Pittsburgh. She was presented both in Birmingham and New Orleans, her mother's former home.

20th Century Club Play Contest Ends Jan. 23

There will, of course, be no activities of the Twentieth Century Club this week.

January 23 is the closing date for the club's annual playwriting contest. Plays are to be submitted under a nom deplume accompanied by a sealed envelope containing the author's real name. The plays which win first, second and third places, will be produced by the drama committee.

Hospital Aid Society Ingathering Thursday

The Ladies' Hospital Aid Society will hold its annual linen ingathering at the Y. M. & W. H. A. on Thursday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock. The program, arranged by Gene Kelly and Miss Rose Zeider, will include a children's dance festival, an address by Abraham Oseroff, superintendent of Montefiore Hospital, and a report of Mrs. Louis Goldman, chairman of the sewing committee.

Chartiers Council, K. C., Giving Party Thursday

Chartiers Council, Knights of Columbus, will sponsor its annual card party and dance on Thursday in the K. of C. Hall. John H. Harris is general chairman. Aides for the dance will include Miss Mary Gibson, Miss Ruth Burby, Miss Jane Walsh, Miss Sara McKeown, Miss Anna Flamman.

Others will include Miss Mary McCullough, Miss Ruth Connoley, Miss Mary Mooney, Miss Laura Duffy, Miss Mary K. Dickson, Miss Dorothy Lageman, Miss Pauline Bilque, Miss Mary Bilque, Miss Carron Walsh, Miss Margaret Quinn, Miss Ann Reilly and Will O'Shea.

A Columnist's Sec'y Jots Down a Few Notes

Dear W.: The Hays office, as you recently reported they would, went into action on still photos used in movie ads, etcetera, with the "Roman Scandals" flicker . . . Mr. McCarthy of the Hays office threw out 67 stills as his first official act in wielding the ax—since he inherited the late I. Wilstach's job . . . They were all girly stills—packed with sex and other "Ugh!"—and now all photos must clearly show the girls with panties on . . . It has never been confirmed, although the rumor persists, that Mrs. Roosevelt velt herself argued that the movies were overdoing the idea, and she complained — and rightly so, sez I . . . Here's a litter . . . The play catalog of Loyola University, Chicago, refers this way to H. V. Esmond's drama: "When We Were 21"—"Act 3 may be discreetly omitted without spoiling the play!"

Attorney Young says thanks for helping locate Olive Borden's ex-husband, Ted Stewart, who was just as glad . . . What do they mean "surprised"—over the fact that Miriam Jordan was a married woman? . . . Those caption writers probably never read you . . . The Jack Gattis are not legally adrift . . . Kent Watson will start publishing a new mag called "Panorama" in Westchester. A mag by that name failed a few years ago . . . H. Reba suggests you dedicate a song to Bernie—"You're My Pest, Present and Future" . . . With everyone picking out the lists of Ten Best this and Ten Best that of 1933—I suggest that you select the ten outstanding flopolas of the year — and head it with Huey Long.

I forgot to tell you at the time that Lucille Brokaw, social, was going to be the bride in that fashion show at the Waldorf, but someone wised her up to the legend that it was "bad luck" to be a bride at "play weddings" . . . That's why Mrs. Richard Tucker, her sister, took her place . . . Mrs. C. Murphy, of No. 2115 E. 37th St., Bklyn, wants to find out just who owns Broadway and 42d St.? . . . She knows who owned it more than 80 years ago, when it was only a pasture, and it is not known to have been sold, she says . . . Sounds like a good story for some editor to follow up . . . Your Scott radio arrived. Best time to get Europe is between 1 and 5 p. m.

Crazy about Irving Caesar's new song and what a lyric! It's called: "I'll Never Forget You"—too lovely . . . Here's a thing! . . . George Jessel's dentist is J. M. Schenck's nephew . . . Jessel's reported next bride is Norma Talmadge, Schenck's wife . . . Brave fellow, Jessel . . . If you like "Alice in Wonderland" you might toss an orchid to Dimitri Tiomkin, who did the score—beautiful.

Remember Hortense Alden? Well, she thought she had laryngitis for over 3 or 4 years, and which caused her voice to be harsh. She just learned it came from voice strain while in "Lysistrata." After a minor operation—it will be okay again . . . Repeal has made an old-fashioned girl out of Margalo Gillmore . . . The next cycle in films will be "Spy" movies . . . There are said to be over 10,000 bulbs in the Squibb's sign at 47th St. . . . During the night club era it cost $1 just for bread and butter at the swanky Park Ave. Club. You get a meal there now for the same tariff . . . Proving that Repeal is a good thing . . . Here's a fact. Many Sutton Place tenants wish they could break their leases and people are moving from there—because of the awful bother to go places and cross town in traffic . . . It takes longer most times to motor cross town to a theater than to get from Harlem to Times Square—in the midtown sector, I mean, of course . . . It is also expensive if you're in a cab . . . The regular 35 cents fee on a meter cost me $1.10 the other rainy day—to go from 46th St. and B'way to the office—7 blocks!

You should explain in some way why your mail hasn't been read or answered in the last few days . . . Harry Hansen wonders how many of you columnists will be remembered 30 years hence . . . Now there's something to be worried over—with this and that happening every day to be really concerned about . . . I'll bet that's another thing you didn't know till now . . . When you started writing raves about Gordon & Revel jealous rivals muttered: "They'll have to live up to all that praise, but they won't—just flash in the pans!" . . . They've written hits ever since, and their most recent "flop" is "Didya Ever See a Dream, Etc?"

Here's another for Woollcott's collection: He loves names like this: In Los Angeles there's the Handy-Dandy Dry Cleaners . . . Here are some similies: Funny as the 4th Marx Brother . . . Apparent as a toupee . . . Courteous and solicitous as your cabin steward the night before you dock . . . Leila Hyams' new Beverly Hills home set her and the groom back 25 Gs . . . I promised these girls their names wouldn't be used. This is the story—and I know you will like it . . . One of the hammier producers on B'way, who should have been in jail years ago because of the girls he's harmed, fired some of them plus a nasty line of talk out loud . . . After a good cry, the girls got together and decided to come here with their trouble. Somebody tipped him about it. "Don't be silly," he mellowed, "I was only kidding. You girls are the best I've got!" . . . "You mean," said one of the kids, "Winchell is the best friend we've got!" . . . Very melodramatic, I know, but so true! . . . They took back their jobs, reluctantly, but let's worry him, anyway.

CHRISTMAS STAGE -:- Review of New Offerings And Gossip of Movieland -:- YULETIDE SCREEN

Hampden's Fine 'Richelieu' Requires Contrast Of Melodrama

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Shadows and echoes of great days were seen and heard on the Nixon stage last night, as Walter Hampden revived "Richelieu," Bulwer Lytton's famous play, in a new version prepared by Arthur Goodrich, who made such a fine job of "Caponsacchi." The shadows and echoes were those of Booth and Barrett, and more recently Robert Mantell—and Christmas is the very time for shadows and echoes. This presentation was like a gift from the past.

Goodrich's version, which Hampden has shown here before, is in many respects an improvement on the old romantic melodrama of our fathers. He has speeded up the action in many places, besides modernizing some of the blank verse and some of the stage technique. For example, the soliloquy of the Cardinal, beginning "In silence and at night the conscience feels, that life should soar to nobler aims than power," has now been turned into a dialogue with Father Joseph. Not much is gained thereby, if anything. But on the whole, the scales turn in favor of the new version—though some robustious lines that used to make the welkin ring are now muted into calm conversation.

Mr. Seibel

Just the same the sinister atmosphere of autocracy and conspiracy still furnishes a background for effective melodrama, in the midst of which the picturesque figure of the "old fox" moves with impressive intensity.

MORE MELODRAMA NEEDED

Perhaps the one lack of the performance last night was the mezzotint of the characters around and against Richelieu. The more flamboyant these people are, the more dramatic is the figure of the Cardinal. If everybody plays quietly, the drama goes to sleep. And "Richelieu," after all, is a piece of rhetoric and fanfares.

Hampden's Cardinal is fine in makeup, resembling the portraits by Philippe de Champagne, and as true to the historic figure as Bulwer painted him. His craft and kindness are both brought out, and the sonorous lines are read with intelligence and quiet emotion. The performance would gain immensely by stronger contrasts.

It was the opening night of this company on this tour, so this defect of emphasis may be speedily remedied.

Ernest Rowan as the villainous Baradas, and Sydney G. Smith as the rough Huguet could be a little more dynamic, while John D. Seymour's Mauprat and Edwin Ross' Francois were altogether too tame.

JULIE RATHER EASY

Erna Rowan has the role of Julie de Mortemar, and exhibits rather too easy an inclination to lay her head on anybody's shoulder, even that of Baradas. She has the sweetness and charm this part requires, but a little more girlish impetuosity at some times, a little more womanly reluctance at other times, would make her acting more credible.

Mabel Moore played Marion de Lorme, cut out in most of the older versions, and played it with just the proper melodramatic pose. The Joseph of Hannam Clark seemed immobile and the sly stupidity of this character, an admirable foil to Richelieu, was not brought out. P. J. Kelly as the Sieur de Beringhen was too simpering to have been in any serious conspiracy. Dallas Anderson as Louis was deficient in character touches, though a grand portrait of a royal blank.

As for the production, designed by Claude Bragdon, it was appropriate and atmospheric, especially the last scene of the gardens of the Louvre, and the drama merely needs the infusion of contrast to make it a fine picture of old France under the red robe.

Tonight "The Servant in the House" will be the bill.

Wavering

Miriam Hopkins, co-starred with Gary Cooper, Frederic March, in "Design For Living," coming Friday to Stanley, plays a woman of wavering affections.

Tobin Girls Together In Film

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 26.—The two Tobin girls have flabbergasted RKO officials by refusing to play together in "Blonde Poison" unless the script is re-written so that neither loses out.

What makes it funnier is that the associate producer, Myles Connolly, is ready to make the concession, even though it means writing another important masculine character into the plot.

There's a story between the lines, of course. RKO has been trying hard to find a pair of blondes for this particular picture. They hadn't had any inspiration until someone realized that Genevieve and Vivian Tobin were both on the lot, that both were blonde and the semi-siren type desired.

Now it's all over but the signing, and "Blonde Poison" will be the first picture in which Genevieve and Vivian have played together.

* * *

You can forget all about that romance between Irene Hervey, MGM starlet, and Dean Markham, man about town. She is going places now with Jay Lord, new studio discovery who used to be a tire salesman in Texas.

* * *

You've heard of the father who buys the electric train for the baby. Well, Wesley Ruggles bought such an expensive set for his 11-months-old son that Arline Judge, in amused desperation, gave Wesley a freight train for his Christmas present.

* * *

Wini Shaw, the Irish-Hawaiian lass in whom Mary Pickford took an interest, is none too pleased over the way Fox fails to give her any parts . . . It took Margaret Sullavan 21 days to sail here from New York. And then the custom officials wouldn't allow her to bring her pet ocelot (a Panaman leopard, or define it yourself) to shore . . . Tod Sloan's death halted a plan for Warners to offer him the job of technical adviser on the new Cagney race track story.

Carnival

Clara Bow will be seen as a blase carnival girl to whom love comes in "Hoop-La," photoplay that will be seen next week in the Fulton.

"Going to Town" . . . Dorothy Dell is moving from the Hollywood Plaza into an apartment . . . Remember Bobby Agnew, who went with May McAvoy so long? He's joined Busby Berkeley's staff at Warners to be a dance director.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Joe Cook and his new musical show, "Hold Your Horses," will be the attraction in the Nixon the week of January 8, and, unless things change speedily to bring a booking for next week, the Cook opera will be the Nixon's first for 1934. "Hold Your Horses" will come from New York, where it has been playing the "subway circuit" since closing on Broadway after a successful run. Its premiere occurred in Boston. Mr. Cook, once "the one-man vaudeville show" of the variety stage, has not visited Pittsburgh in several seasons. Russell Crouse and Corey Ford are the authors of "Hold Your Horses."

Coming Films Noted

Ann Harding and Nils Asther are featured in "The Right to Romance," photoplay opening tomorrow in the Enright.

* * *

Marie Dressler, John Barrymore, Wallace Beery, Jean Harlow, Lionel Barrymore, Billie Burke, Lee Tracy, Edmund Lowe and Madge Evans have the principal roles in "Dinner at Eight," photoplay coming to the Penn Friday. The story involves dramatic incidents affecting guests invited to a dinner arranged for a couple of British aristocrats, who, after all the ado, do not show up.

* * *

"Design for Living," a farce co-starring Frederic March, Miriam Hopkins and Gary Cooper, will open Friday in the Stanley. The story is that of two men, one a playwright, the other an artist, who loove a girl. Eventually she chooses both of them. Edward Everett Horton has a prominent role.

* * *

Joan Blondell, Adolphe Menjou, Dick Powell, Mary Astor, Guy Kibbee and Frank McHugh have principal roles in "Convention City," comedy that will be seen in the Warner Friday. It is a lively story of matters not in "the order of business" at a convention.

* * *

Clara Bow is starred and Preston Foster, Richard Cromwell and Mina Gombell have leading roles in "Hoop-La," opening New Year's Day in the Fulton. The story is that of a carnival girl and a boy whose father, owner of the show, desires his son to keep away from the business.

Actress

Marie Dressler portrays a retired actress in "Dinner At Eight," picture with all-star cast that will open Friday in the Penn.

Rogers Funny In Fulton

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Will Rogers and [illegible] humor provide many laughs in the Fulton, where, in the title character of "Mr. Skitch," he and his pleasant companions on an automobile tour of the West, are the feature of the Christmas week bill in the Sixth street theater. Will isn't a tourist by choice, but by necessity, and isn't much thrilled by the old slogan, "Go West, young man," soberly observing that the man who coined it remained in the East. Yet he profits by the trip, as does the audience in the matter of dry Rogers wit, and he returns to the old home town in better circumstances than he was in when he left.

You see, he is a depression tourist, and he leaves home after a foreclosure, going all the way to California, stopping here and there and learning a thing or two that fits him to operate a swell camp for tourists when he gets back to Flatburg, Mo. During his travels he sees some of the scenic grandeur of the country, and so does the audience.

Aiding Will in the comedy are Zasu Pitts, as Mrs. Skitch; Harry Green, another tourist, and Florence Desmond, newcomer to the screen, a mimic who does remarkable imitations, including Mrs. Skitch. Rochelle Hudson and Charles Starrett carry the romantic story pleasingly.

Short features include Hearst Metrotone News, a novelty film showing killers among prairie animals hunting their meals, and "Three Little Pigs" in French.

Many Dances In Variety

"Holiday Frolics," current in the Variety, is in two acts and 44 scenes, with Eddie Kaplin, producer of the show, as head comedian. It has 22 principals and an augmented chorus of 30 girls. Kaplin is supported by three other comedians, Lee Hickman, Billy Mifflin and Eddie Lloyd.

In "Holiday Frolics" there is about every known type of dancing from hula hula to the kind peculiar to burlesque. Esther Burt shows her dancing skill in a sketch called "Ain't You Satisfied?" Another dancer is Syd Burke, billed as "The Personality Girl," in "The Uptown Lowdown" scene. Ruby Shipman and Ada Lenard are two other dancers in the show.

Ford, Jordan and Regina, two men and a woman, in a dance and fun skit, "Sailor Behave," was a laugh getter. Dot Blue is an acrobatic dancer.

Charles Keating portrays the character of "Huckleberry Finn" in a skit and is supported by his sister, Grace. He played the same part in pictures. He sings in his sketch.

Other principals are Kirk Brown, Madeline Moore, Bob Freeman, Paul Niles, Johnny Baker and Marion Mason.

Delegate

Adolphe Menjou is a delegate to a big meeting in "Convention City," comedy about business and pleasure that will be in the Warner Friday.

In Which the Customers Do the Work

"AS YOU KNOW," writes Monte Proser, press representative for United Artists, "motion picture companies have various and sundry vice presidents. There are vice presidents in charge of clippings, vice presidents in charge of errands, vice presidents in charge of paste-pots, and so on down the line.

"In our industry, the motto of all wage slaves is: 'Never sock a guy who barges into your office, sits at your desk and reads your personal mail. You will want to sock him, but you never must. Because he might be a vice president.'

"In a certain picture organization—not this one, of course—the director of publicity was recently summoned to a conference with the vice president in charge of social contact. Armed to the teeth with the week's clippings and vaguely trying to remember whom he might have insulted, the publicity man waited in the anteroom.

"The executive, with the aid of a secretary and one assistant, finally granted the press man an interview. He came to the point at once.

"'The debutante ball is being held shortly. It is the most important social event of the season, and we have been asked to assist on it. Prepare the posters and newspaper stories and give them every co-operation. Please take care of this matter personally, as we are anxious to maintain the dignity of our organization.'

"Highly relieved because his job was still safe, the press agent worked hard and long in the preparation of art work, three sheets and window cards. When the stuff was completed, he tied everything in several bundles.

"He then summoned an office boy and told the kid to take the bundles to the hotel in which the ball was to be held. As the boy was about to leave, the publicity man suddenly remembered the vice president's instructions about handling things personally. So he halted the kid, and told him he was going along.

"Arriving at the hotel with boy and bundles, the press representative walked into the committee room. The place was thronged with members of the social set, debutantes with famous family names—and their perspiring chaperons. He pushed his office boy to one side, cleared his throat, and began his well-rehearsed speech:

"'The vice president of our organization has asked me to bring you——'

"His speech was cut short as the little debutantes, paying no attention to him whatsoever, walked past him to greet the office boy who stood behind him, loaded down with bundles.

"'Why, Bert,' they cried, 'where have you been? We've been waiting for you. Why have you neglected us so?'

"The press agent, his eyes wide, turned to his office boy.

"'What's all this, Bert?' he inquired hoarsely. 'How do you know all these famous people at this big affair?'

"The kid disentangled himself from the debutantes and looked up.

"'I forgot to tell you, sir,' he said apologetically. 'But I'm so interested in this affair. I'm the general chairman of all its committees.'" . . . .

* * *

"Here's one for you, Mark," writes Hugh Wedlock, Jr. "It may not be new, but it certainly is clean.

"A vaudeville actor, out of work for three years, finally secured a week's booking in an up-state city. He was to get $250 for the week, and he very naturally worked his bloomin' head off. Strange to relate, he was a solid hit.

"At the end of the week, however, the manager of the theater decided to play a little joke on the actor. So, instead of giving him the $250, he handed him a check for $2.50.

"'What's this?' howled the actor. 'I'm supposed to get $250 for this week, and you give me $2.50. What's the big idea?'

"The manager scowled heavily.

"'Listen, you,' he returned. 'I've given you what you're entitled to. Take it or leave it.'

"The ham gulped.

"'All right,' he muttered, 'I'll take it. But belive me, it's a helluva cut!'" . . .

* * *

"A NUMBER of people," reports Sam Gevins, "are more than happy that repeal came along. Yes, sir. They can now take the gin out of the bathtubs, and put the coal back." . . .

"DEAR Mark:" writes F. B. Strozer, O. D. "You recently wrote of a young man who failed to pass a visual test, although he had normal vision. He was turned down for the police force because of a speck of dust that blurred his vision.

"Permit me to inform you, sir, that Schlemn's canal in the first tunic of the eye—by means of the Spaces of Fontana—connects with the anterior chamber, and is in direct communication with specks of dust, etc. It generally absorbs these immediately upon their entrance to the eye.

"Accordingly, the boy in your story was most unfortunate. He was probably so panicky and frightened that he refused to open his eye, thus causing an improper functioning of the Orbicularis Palprebrarum muscle which opens and closes the eyelids."

Oh, mister, if you could only cook! . . .

Unidentified Man Killed by Trolley

Morgue officials today were endeavoring to establish the identity of a man, about 55, killed when struck by a Charleroi trolley car on a trestle at Simmons' stop near Library, early Sunday. His clothing bore no identification marks.

Auto Injuries Fatal To Ex-School Head

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 26.—John S. Carroll, 73, superintendent of schools of Fayette County for 20 years and a member of the State Legislature, Second District, Fayette County, for three terms, died Sunday at his home at Dunbar of injuries suffered when struck by an automobile in Uniontown five weeks ago. He had been retired three years.

Born at Elliottsville, Fayette County, he had lived at Dunbar for 50 years.

Alienists Study Boy Slayer's Mind

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 26.—Walter Witherup, 19, held in Venango County Jail for shooting his father, Clark N. Witherup, is being subjected to a series of special tests for sanity, it became known today. Reaction so far points to "normal," it was indicated.

The boy graduated from Clintonville High School two years ago at 17 with good marks and had never been in trouble of any kind before.

Railroad Brakeman Killed in Fall

Coulter Steeb, 38, of 1207 Tennessee avenue, Dormont, a Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad brakeman, died yesterday in South Side Hospital from a skull fracture suffered Sunday when he fell from a freight car and rolled off an 18-foot wall in the West End yards of the railroad, according to a Coroner's report.

He was found by members of another train crew.

WALTER HAMPDEN -:- Interviewed by George Seibel -:- ON THE AIR

Hampden to Broadcast Tonight

Walter Hampden, in Pittsburgh this week to brighten the holidays for the Nixon theater-goers, is heard over WCAE tonight at 7, in an informal interview with George Seibel, literary and dramatic critic of the Sun-Telegraph.

* * *

Settling down to the regular radio schedule after three days of Christmas celebration on the networks, may seem something of a letdown, but there are plenty of bright spots on the air tonight.

Wayne King, Ben Bernie and Ed Wynn entertain the WCAE listeners at 8:30, 9 and 9:30, and Seth Parker, broadcasting from the deck of his adventure-bound schooner, is heard over WCAE at 10.

* * *

Alexander Woollcott spins his entertaining, hair-raising, mystifying or reminiscent yarns over the CBS-WJAS network at 9:15.

* * *

CHORAL MUSIC

Andre Kostelanetz and his orchestra go in for choral music in a series of programs beginning over WJAS at 9:30. Evelyn MacGregor, contralto, and Evan Evans, baritone, are featured in solos.

* * *

Leopold Stokowski conducts the Philadelphia Orchestra in Mozart's concerto for oboe, in a 15-minute concert over WJAS, at 9.

* * *

Freddie Rich's orchestra introduces a new descriptive work by Eastwood Lane, "Adirondak Sketches," over WJAS at 8 o'clock.

Three-Voice Blend

Do, Re and Mi, the Harmony Trio who sing with Glen Gray and his orchestra over WJAS tonight at 10. 'Mi' is pictured between 'Re', on the left, and 'Do.'

The Glen Gray Caravan wends its musical way over a coast-to-coast CBS-WJAS network from 10 to 10:30. Irene Taylor and the Do Re Mi Girls are the vocalists on the program.

Improvement In Dramas Promised

By AIRCASTER

It is gratifying to note, after all the hopes that I have expressed for better radio dramatizations, what the Columbia Broadcasting System has to say about the new year:

"It may well be that our greatest strides in 1934 will be in the field of drama.

"Already we are experimenting both on the air and in our audition rooms, balancing one method against another and seeking to raise the level of these presentations without destroying any of their interest.

"We are drawing upon the best within the professional realm of radio itself and at the same time keeping our doors wide open for the best that can be offered from the field of the professional stage, with even a keen eye for budding talent among writers, producers and actors." . . .

Which I hope is a genuine assurance.

* * *

IDOL OF RIO

Another new find is reported by the NBC . . .

He is Carlos Gardel, the idol of Rio de Janeiro, discovered for the American kilocycles by Hugo Mariani.

He's now en route from France to make a debut at WJZ, December 31.

* * *

When the cigaret firm inaugurates its commercial sponsorship of the Metropolitan Opera over both NBC networks Monday afternoon, the gent who'll supply the color and bits of the fascinating history of the Metropolitan Opera House will be John B. Kennedy, who will continue to chat with the audience throughout the series.

BERLIN ON AIR

It is today officially announced that Irving Berlin will make a series of appearances on the NBC-WJZ program on Sundays, after Will Rogers and George M. Cohan have completed their scheduled broadcasts.

Since radio began Irving Berlin has resisted all kinds of offers. He realized that he must live up to the expectations of the public and like Arthur Brisbane, Will Rogers, George Cohan, Fred Stone and others who have appeared on this spot, he is showing great care in the preparation of material.

Berlin's theory is that a radio show demands as much as a Broadway production.

He seems to be even more worried about his radio debut than he was over the success of his hit show, "As Thousands Cheer," running currently on Broadway.

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Back to the daily struggle. There's one thing above all else that you have to say for Christmas and that is that you haven't the time nor the inclination to think of the cares of the every day world. Still it does seem senseless to just drop all the holiday glamor and, as many of us do, shoulder once more unsmilingly the woes and worries that confront us in every day life.

If we could think back to some of yesterday's pleasant incidents and cherish thoughts of them perhaps we could capture some of that good-will spirit to man to carry with us each and every day.

I'm going to think about reading all the Christmas cards that were sent to me. Many from people that I do know, and I was glad to be remembered, but there's no way to tell you the joyous thrill there is in reading cards from those whom you have never met personally or from those who sign themselves, a globe trotter. And the friendly notes too. It does make you feel good.

So tomorrow if you start jumping all over me for saying this or not saying it at all I'm going to figure that the one who is doing the jumping is one who sent me a cheerful Christmas message and left it unsigned.

* * *

Larry Kass has indited a few lines which he dedicates to the control room operators. You get the idea of the poem from the first few lines:

"Here comes the guy with the squeaky voice, To listen or not I have no choice, etc."

I'll read that poem of yours to them, Larry. Listen in tomorrow.

Pittsburgh Brewing Company presents
IRON CITY XX STOUT

Here it is—the very beverage you have waited for. Iron City Double X Stout, a delightfully tasty drink for those who want a heavier, more "full bodied" drink than beer. Iron City XX Stout is made of the highest quality malt and hops brewed to perfection and aged to a fine old mellowness—a beverage every bit worthy of the name it bears.

Iron City XX Stout contains not less than 5% alcohol. It is a wholesome food drink, excellent as a tonic for invalids and convalescents as well as a beverage. If mixed half-and-half with 3.2 or 5% Iron City Beer it makes a delicious drink.

You will be proud to serve Iron City XX Stout to your guests. Order a case today for your New Year's party. If you do not know the name or telephone number of a dealer near you, call SChenley 7400.

JUNIOR PATROL

It's the day after Christmas, fellows!

Did you eat too much candy yesterday so that you have a stomach ache today? We hope you didn't and we hope you had a swell Christmas in every way, too.

Did Santa Claus bring you what you wanted? We'll bet he did. He's a smart old feller that way!

Most of all, maybe, we enjoyed our Christmas dinner yesterday. We had some dandy turkey, with all the trimmings! And oh, boy, oh, boy, it certainly did taste good. And we didn't eat all of that bird, either. There will be some left over for a couple of days, and sometimes we think cold turkey tastes better than warm turkey. What do you think?

Now we are looking forward to New Years resolutions. Well, much of a holiday for boys and girls, who should go to bed at an early hour, but lots of people celebrate that day more than ever.

What we are thinking about is New Year's resolutions. Well, we hope no Junior Patrol member makes any resolutions. The best way is to do what you think is right and honest all the time. And what is best for you and everybody else. If you live up to the Junior Patrol rules, we don't think you will need to make any resolutions, fellows.

We are anxious to hear from Junior Patrols which held Christmas parties. Write and tell us all about them, and any other good times you have been having or that you are planning for the future. Also, what you did to help others Christmas. Of course, we want to remember that Christmas is not the only time when poor people need help.

Now here is a letter from Jean Palm, of Melvin street, Pittsburgh. She says:

"Please send me an armband. I asked my girl friend if she wanted to be a member of the Junior Patrol and she said 'Yes.' She wants her armband too."

You see, Jean, you have to be a captain of a Junior Patrol to get an armband. The only way to be a captain is to be elected a captain by at least 10 official members.

Munhall to Build New Athletic Field

Work on the new Munhall Junior High School athletic field will start this week, borough officials announced following receipt of word from CWA headquarters in Washington. The project will provide employment for approximately 300 men for about 16 weeks, it was said.

Tactics of Democrats Give New Life to Rivals, Once Hopeless.

Mr. Shields

Something which might—or should—concern the various Pittsburgh Democratic cooks as they attempt to blend a cabinet omelet to take office with Mayor-elect William N. McNair next Monday is the eye of renewed hopefulness with which the Republican organganization in the state is viewing the confused situation.

It is no secret the Republicans, following the municipal debacle of November of this year joined to the national slaughter of November, 1932, looked forward to 1934 with an almost unanimous pessimism. That sentiment was prevalent among members of the House at the recent special session at Harrisburg.

It was not reflected so strongly among members of the Senate or within the higher realms of what passes for leadership, this branch of the Republican party not having so much to lose in the primary and general election of next year.

There was a belief in these higher reaches that defeat would be the party portion some months hence, but the direct penalties would not be so severe as upon members of the House, who must face the voters. One of the real directing forces of the Republican organization had this to say shortly after November 7, about two weeks after the special session convened:

"It doesn't make much difference what we do. If Roosevelt continues to get away with this program we are doomed to a licking anyhow next year, and we may as well protect our friends."

* * *

Quoting of McNair Raises G. O. P. Hopes

That attitude of helpless and hopeless defeatism persisted until sometime about the first of December. Then the widely quoted opinions of Mr. McNair on sundry questions began to percolate into Harrisburg. The Republicans perked up eager ears, viewing him as a possible recruit to their forces, though nothing was farther from his intent.

Then began the series of differences between the various Democratic cabinet building guilds. The dissension and uncertainty which existed were closely followed by the Republican state leaders, who, defeated apparently by the blindness of their own party to the demands of the general public, saw a chance for rehabilitation through the agency of their challengers.

It is no secret that the situation became embarrassing to some of the Democrats attendant in Harrisburg during the legislative session. At least one who has something of a position of authority, and whose sincerity and fidelity to public service cannot be tarnished by the present difficulties of his party, told friends that the situation gave him some hours of discomfiture as he attempted to picture the Democratic party as the hope of the state as well as the nation.

For a time the Republicans thought that all they had to hope for was the possibility that Mr. McNair in his attitude toward government might antagonize an electorate that through the years has become accustomed to the orthodox. Even this was not enough, for the orthodox no longer is palatable, judging by the votes of so many thousands.

* * *

Cabinet Tinkering Also Big Factor

Then came the cabinet tinkering for the Pittsburgh city government, with its evidences that the state Democratic leadership, as evidenced through Joseph F. Guffey and County Chairman David L. Lawrence, was concerned first of all in keeping jobs within a restricted circle of those who had been Democrats when to be such was profitable only to those who were in some degree affiliated with the Republican party.

They cheered at the reluctance of this crowd to offer any recompense or recognition to the thousands of independent Republicans who had bolted their old party, disgusted at its tactics.

Even the doddering of the Republican leaders recognized that the majority of these thousands of voters had no hope for jobs, but were actuated oply by a desire for better government. But these same Republicans also realized that many of the active political agents who had whipped up the revolt hoped for some tangible reward through attachment to a payroll and would not be so energetic next November if they did not land.

They knew that there was as much phariseeism as patriotism in the sentiments of some of those who had helped whip up the revolt of November 7, this year.

Intangible as the hope may seem, nebulous as is the dream of success through the efforts of their own party, the basic fact remains that Pennsylvania's state Republican leadership is cheered over the Democratic situation in Pittsburgh—as it stands today.

The Democrats next year in the state must run, not on the Roosevelt record, but on the party's Pittsburgh record. It is all up to the Democrats whether or not there is victory for the Republicans. The latter are practically helpless to help themselves.

Christmas Presents Stolen by Burglars

Jewelry and wearing apparel, including Christmas gifts, were stolen by thieves who ransacked the apartment of Gladys Williams, 864 East Ohio street, she reported to North Side police today. The thieves gained entry by forcing a rear door.

FRIENDS MOURN SUDDEN DEATH OF L. A. BEHR

Hundreds Pass Bier Of Rosenbaum Store Head

Private funeral services for Louis A. Behr, 65, president of the Rosenbaum Company, and chairman of the board of the National Department Stores, were held at the Samson funeral home, 537 Neville street, this morning. Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson, rabbi of the Rodef Shalom Congregation, officiated. Interment was in West View Cemetery.

Mr. Behr, who lived at the Hotel Schenley, died Sunday in Mt. Sinai Hospital, New York. He had been in the hospital since early in November and underwent an operation November 4.

The body laid in state at the funeral home yesterday, and was viewed by hundreds of his friends and employes of the Rosenbaum store.

Mr. Behr was born in Monchsroth, Bavaria, Germany, May 20, 1868, and came to the United States in 1883. He immediately applied for naturalization papers, and until he came to Pittsburgh in 1890 was associated with retail stores in New York.

In 1895 Mr. Behr married Miss Elsie Rosenbaum, daughter of Max Rosenbaum, founder of the Rosenbaum store. Soon afterwards he was placed in charge of the women's ready-to-wear department of the store. His rise in the organization was steady, and before becoming president, he served as vice president. When the National Department Stores was organized in 1923 he was elected chairman of the board, a position he held until his death.

Mr. Behr was prominent in welfare and philanthropic circles. He was a director of the Jewish Federation of Philanthropies, the Jewish Home for the Aged and the Hebriew Institute; chairman of the nurses' committee of Montefiore Hospital, regional director of the Jewish Hospital for Consumptives, Denver, and a member of Rodef Shalom Congregation, the Concordia Club and the Westmoreland Country Club.

In business circles Mr. Behr was regarded an authority by those with whom he came into contact, and with his co-workers he enjoyed a friendship not usually existing between employer and employe. Many little acts of kindness he preferred remain unknown to the world in general.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Elsie R. Behr, of Pittsburgh, he leaves a brother, Hermann Behr, of Noerdlingen, Germany, and two sisters, Mrs. Emma Winters and Mrs. Rose Hecht, both of New York.

FRANK I. GOSSER STRICKEN, DIES

Attorney Frank I. Gosser, prominent member of the Allegheny County bar, was dead today as the result of an attack of acute indigestion following a Christmas dinner.

Attorney Gosser died en route from his home in the Royal Yorke apartments, Bigelow boulevard, to the Homeopathic Hospital late last night.

Several hours after the first attack of illness, Gosser was taken to the hospital, where physicians pronounced him dead.

Funeral services will be held at the Beinhauer Funeral Home, 2630 West Liberty avenue, South Hills, Thursday at 3 p. m.

RABBI FREEHOF TO SUCCEED GOLDENSON

Noted Chicago Jewish Leader to Guide Rodef Shalom

Rabbi Solomon B. Freehof, of Chicago, has been unanimously recommended to the Rodef Shalom congregation by the Board of Trustees to succeed Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson, who leaves soon for New York, Marcus Aaron, president of the congregation, announced today.

In the call for the congregational meeting, set for January 4, Dr. Freehof was described as admirably fitted to guide and direct the spiritual destinies of the congregation. Mr. Aaron said:

"Pittsburgh is to be congratulated upon the prospective coming to our city of so gifted and able a leader as Dr. Freehof."

Dr. Freehof, an outstanding leader in American Jewry, was born in London in 1892, where he received his early education in the London board schools. At 12 he came to the United States with his family, who established a residence in Baltimore. He attended Baltimore City College, from which he was graduated as an honor student in 1909. At 19 he entered the University of Cincinnati and the Hebrew Union College, from which he was graduated with honors in 1915.

From 1915 to 1923 he served on the faculty of the Hebrew Union College as professor in rabbinics and liturgy, except during the period of 1917 and 1918, when he served with the A. E. F. in France as first lieutenant chaplain of the United States Army.

In 1920 he received the degree of doctor of divinity from the Hebrew Union College in Cincinnati, and since 1924 has continouusly occupied the pulpit of K. A. M. Temple, Chicago, the oldest Jewish congregation in the middle West. During the past few years Dr. Freehof has contributed a number of articles to technical journals on the History of the Synagogue and Jewish Liturgy. He is also the author of "Stormers of Heaven" and "Marx, Freud, and Einstein."

He has lectured extensively before colleges and universities, various church groups, and other educational and religious bodies in all parts of the country.

CHILD AWAITING SANTA DIES

International News Service.

SCARSDALE, N. Y., Dec. 26.—Dorothy Long, 8, was so excited over the impending arrival of Santa Claus she could hardly go to sleep Christmas Eve.

Her face was still flushed with eager anticipation, her eyes shining when Mrs. Dorothy B. Long, her mother, finally tucked Janet, 3, and Dorothy into bed.

Early Christmas morning, a group of belated revellers entered a neighboring apartment, somewhat noisily. They awoke Mrs. Long, who went to the nursery to see if the children were still asleep.

Wide-eyed, Dorothy asked:

"Was that Santa Claus, Mother?"

"No, darling. But he'll be here soon. Go back to sleep."

Dorothy went back to sleep. But she never wakened.

Her excitement, according to an autopsy report today from Medical Examiner Amos A. Squire, caused an enlargement of the thymus gland at the base of the throat. And the sudden swelling strangled the child as she slumbered.

'Bugs' Decrees General Pardon For Everybody

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

President Roosevelt sure handed out nice Christmas presents to the wartime violators.

He made 'em full American citizens again, with rights to evade taxes and dodge jury duty.

That just about washes up the olive drab laundry. The war is now over, except for some few minor debts loosely scattered in Europe.

All ideas and customs have changed in the last 15 years. Why, before Sally Rand came along all we ever saw over the top of a fan was a lady's eyes.

If Roosevelt can pardon the lads who wouldn't go to war we will pardon the ones who did. We also forgive the profiteers, the dollar-a-year men, the four-minute orators and will consider a flag of truce from the diplomats.

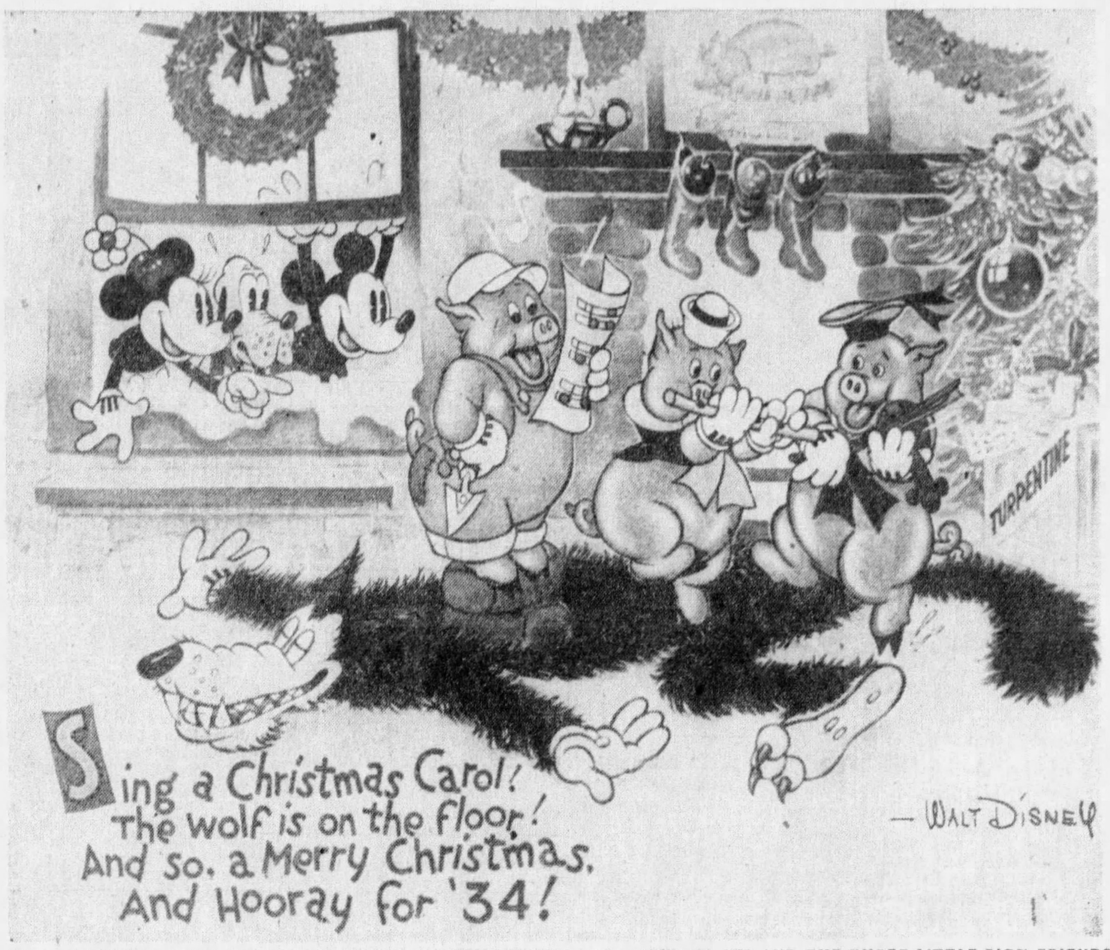
What! No Wolf? Merry Christmas From the Three Pigs!



THE CHRISTMAS CARD THAT WALT DISNEY, MICKEY MOUSE'S PAPA, SENT TO HIS AND THE THREE LITTLE PIGS' FRIENDS

WARNING GIVEN ON AUTO TAGS

HARRISBURG, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Motor Vehicle Bureau employes returned to work today to find 57,000 applications for 1934 license plates awaiting them.

Revenue Department officials said the Christmas holiday of postal employes will delay a great volume of mail until tomorrow and predicted that from 80,000 to 90,000 appuications will be received then. The corresponding day last year brought 93,000.

When bureau employes started their holiday vacation Saturday afternoon, 845,540 licenses had been issued, an increase of 26,891 over the corresponding date last year.

H. Richard Stickel, director of the bureau, warned that all owners who plan to operate their cars on New Year's Day must mail their applications no later than tomorrow. The 1933 licenses expire at midnight Sunday.

'MIRACLE BABY' STILL LIVING

Universal Service.

BOSTON, Dec. 26.—Doctors call her the "miracle baby," for five times she apparently has "died."

Yet Christmas Day, 10-week-old Marjorie Minna Kasac was still alive as an amazed staff of physicians noted her steady breathing and tiny pulse beat.

A new chapter in the history of medical science may be written as Marjorie continues her battle for life in Beth Israel Hospital.

Five times she "died," on two occasions the tiny body becoming so cold and lifeless doctors were sure the end had come. But each time the baby continued to live.

THE CHRISTMAS CARD FROM THE WHITE HOUSE . . . . SIMPLE IN GREETING, APPEARANCE

'Three Little Pigs' Steal Show On Christmas Greetings Cards

Mickey Mouse Comes In for Share of Popularity

As any farsighted person could have foreseen, those "Three Little Pigs" stole the Christmas-card show.

Pittsburghers fell in with the tendency which was led by none other than Walt Disney himself, creator of cinema swine trio. Of the novelty cards the "three little ones" led the list.

Disney depicted his favorites disporting themselves in the holiday manner while two eavesdroppers shoved their mousy heads through a handy window. The intruders were, of course, "Mickey Mouse and Minnie."

Karl Krug, press agent, went Disney one better. For one of the pigs, Krug substituted himself.

Fairly wise himself, Judge M. A. Musmanno chose the Three Wise Men to represent him in the Christmas greetings. His young colleague, Judge Ralph H. Smith, chose a sketch of the Christmas treed lobby of the City-County Building.

DR. BAKER'S CARD

Dr. Thomas Stockham Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology, pleased his friends with a restful profile of the administration building on his campus.

Miss Jane Thurston, the magician's daughter, sent attractive photographs of herself indulging in a misleading bit of sleight-of-hand. Miss Thurston did not explain the ring which decorated her engagement finger.

Miss May Beegle, the impresario, depicted what was perhaps a wire-haired terrier—or something—peeking through a keyhole at the Christmas proceedings inside.

Rosey Rowswell, the radio entertainer, sent out pictures of his wife and two sons and the dog.

William E. Benswanger, possibly with an eye to solving his second base problem, dressed up Billy, the Benswanger heir, in a Pirate uniform probably once worn by Sparky Adams, and called in the photographer.

Another baseball card may precipitate a riot when its contents become known. "Dolly" Stark, the umpire, borrowed a phrase from the French which no doubt will be tossed back in his teeth the very next time he misses one.

MYSTERY GREETINGS

Alexander Kann, the actor, mystified his admirers by distributing copies of the nine of hearts, a card of dubious value unless you're trying to fill an inside straight.

Lyle Talbot's was less mystifying. This Pittsburgh boy who has made good in Hollywood, sponsored a green-embroidered affair which simply announced, with becoming candor: "Lyle Talbot."

Claude Allen Lewis sketched his own card, "An Old Stage Door," through many of which he has passed, merged his Merry Christmas with Grayce Thorson's Happy New Year, and dropped them in the mailbox.

There was nothing trite about the warming messages written by the Rev. James M. Delaney, of the Holy Name Society. To good friends he sent personal notes, such as this one to Chilly Doyle, the Sun-Telegraph sports writer:

"May Almighty God bless you in your work each day; may His Immaculate Mother look kindly to every word you write and guide you in every thought you display. May They keep you equally faithful in the future as they have in the past. May They warm your heart on this Christmas morn; may They incline you towards those works that will for you count in eternity."

W. Va. Man Jailed In Legislature Row

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—C. C. Morris, of Charleston, sent to jail by the Senate for an attack upon one of its members, must stay behind the bars for at least two more days.

On motion of Attorney General Holt, a hearing of his application for a writ of habeas corpus to require his release, was continued by Judge A. P. Hudson, of Kanawha County Circuit Court, until Thursday.

Favo Named Acting Oakmont Postmaster

Fred Favo, Oakmont contractor for 20 years, yesterday received word from Washington of his appointment as acting postmaster of Oakmont. He succeeds Benjamin P. Dawkins, who had held that position for a year and a half. Mr. Favo is married and the father of two children.

Another appointment in this district was that of John Braden, who will take charge of the Washington (Pa.) Postoffice.

$51 MONTHLY MINIMUM PAY APPROVED

Reduction Based Upon Condition of Fund O. K.'d by Court

Judge James R. Macfarlane today, in an opinion, upheld the directors of the city police pension fund in reducing the pension rate to the minimum of $51.60 a month for a patrolman.

He dismissed most of the exceptions filed in behalf of the patrolman, the suit being brought by John W. McClintock, against the late Mayor, Charles H. Kline, and other directors of the fund.

The opinion follows a series of previous opinions, handed down by other judges on various technical points of the police pension fund's by-laws.

Judge Macfarlane ordered $136,818, in the death and disability fund, should be returned to the general fund.

Concerning the reduction from $80 to $51.60 a month, the opinion stated:

"If the funds are in position, there is the right to make a proportionate reduction. This is not changing the amount of pension at will."

Attorneys for the police held that such a reduction was not necessary, and that the directors, which included former Director of Public Safety James M. Clark and former Supt. of Police Peter P. Walsh, were changing the rate paid "at will."

AUTO MISHAPS FATAL TO 3

Charles W. Lawton, 22, of 1403 North St. Clair street, was killed and his wife was seriously injured when their automobile skidded and overturned at Broad and Binler streets, East End, yesterday.

Mrs. Lawton was taken to Pittsburgh Hospital.

Lawton was a salesman for the Lawton Real Estate Company, 436 Diamond street.

Ernest Green, 35, a Negro, of 405 Grove street, was killed Sunday when an automobile in which he was riding skidded into a concrete wall and overturned on Brown's Hill, near Beechwood boulevard, according to the Coroner's report.

Struck by an automobile truck, September 9, Rocco Condolla, 54, a city street cleaner, of 1316 Porterfield street, died early today in Mercey Hospital. Condolla was injured while at work in the Boulevard of the Allies and Short street.

2 Women Injured In Crash After Skid

Mrs. Catherine MacKenzie, 29, and Mrs. Marie Walker, 42, of New York, were injured when an automobile skidded and crashed into another car on the William Penn highway near Delmont, today. Mrs. MacKenzie suffered a fractured skull, according to attaches of Westmoreland Hospital, Greensburg, where both women were taken. Dr. L. E. Croup, of Hazelton, Pa., driver of the car, was slightly injured.

Miami City Building Guarded From Bombs

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—A large cordon of police surrounded the 27-story building housing the Dade County Courthouse and Miami City Hall today following receipt of a message by the City Hall telephone operator threatening an explosion at 11 a. m., but the explosion did not materialize.

The message was received by Mrs. Joseph E. Love, one of the operators at the City Hall switchboard, about 10:45 a. m.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Dec. 26.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Between looking at our Christmas necktie, and new sox, it don't give us men much chance to read the Christmas day papers.

Will Rogers

There is something about a terrible accident, or calamity, that draws even nations closer together. Now France, we cuss 'em (for looking out for France, better than we look for ourselves), but when we read of this terrible train wreck, all debts are forgotten, all overcharge to us when we were tourists there are bygones.

We just think of 'em as folks like us, who have about the same problem to face. Wooden coaches on railroads. Yours, WILL.

P. S.—This P. S. is put in here to keep all R. R. presidents from sending good-natured indignant wire. We know that you are all doing away with the wooden ones as fast as you can. How's that, Mr. Stotesbury?

THANKS' GIFTS SHOWERED ON ROOSEVELT

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt spent their happiest Christmas yesterday opening telegrams and receiving humble gifts from thousands of people who are enjoying work and wages under the New Deal.

The White House was literally deluged with messages of gratitude. One telegram was signed by 7,000 newly-employed workers in the Tennessee Valley.

Another man wrote with moving sincerity he was enjoying the luxury of a Christmas cigar for the first time in three years.

This spontaneous outburst of gratitude from forgotten men and women touched the President greatly. Many of them sent simple, inexpensive gifts to show their appreciation.

As far as the White House was concerned, little "Buzzie" and "Sistie" Dall were "President" and "First Lady" for the day.

Out of bed at an early hour, they rushed first to their mother, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, and then to "Grandpa's" room, where the family stockings had all been hung to await the coming of St. Nicholas. Squeals of childish delight echoed through the old mansion as dolls, scooters and a myriad of other presents were opened by the youngsters.

"Sistie" and "Buzzie" were finally pursuaded to go downstairs for breakfast while the elders prepared for church.

At dusk, the family gathered in the east corridor of the second floor for the annual ceremony of lighting the Christmas tree.

The ceremonies ended with a family dinner in the huge state dining room. With a flourish worthy of a professional chef, the President wielded the carving knife on a 25-pound turkey that graced the center of the board.

17 BABES 'GIFTS' ON CHRISTMAS

Seventeen babies arrived in Pittsburgh hospitals as Christmas gifts to their parents, a survey indicated today.

The first born—girls—arrived at 1:18 in the Elizabeth Steel Magee and West Penn Hospitals.

Thirty-two minutes later a girl weighing 4 pounds, four ounces was born in Pittsburgh hospital.

Seven other babies were born in the Magee Hospital—three girls and four boys. Four others, all girls, were born in West Penn Hospital. The Pittsburgh Hospital recorded two births, the Passavant and Haddon Hospital, one each.

John D. Refuses Yuletide Message

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—John D. Rockefeller spent his quietest Christmas at his home in Pocantico Hills yesterday. Complying with doctors orders, there was no celebration, but during the day he was visited by his son and grandchildren. He declined to issue a special Christmas message.

The festivity was held at the Lodge, the home of John D. Rockefeller, Jr. All the five children were present in addition to the grandchildren.

Mrs. Coolidge Carries Gifts to Grandchild

PLAINVILLE, Conn., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Three generations of Coolidges observed a Merry Christmas in the Trumbull home here yesterday.

Mrs. Grace Coolidge, widow of the former President came from her home in Northampton, Mass., with gifts for Cynthia, her first and only grandchild.

John Coolidge took time off from his work at the New Haven offices of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad for the Christmas reunion.

Boy Quits 'Iron Lung' For Christmas Party

BEACON, N. Y., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—For six happy hours yesterday Birdsall Sweet, 15, came back home and left his "iron lung" behind in Poughkeepsie.

Birdsall had a Christmas tree, turkey, presents and everything—and then went back to the Vassar Hospital, where he has spent most of the past 27 months in an artificial respirator science made for him after he was stricken with infantile paralysis in 1931.

Von Hindenburg Remembers Aides

BERLIN, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Ample joy spread through the presidential mansion on Christmas evening. Before celebrating Christmas with his family, President Paul Von Hindenburg assembled his entire staff, from his secretary of state, Dr. Otto Meissner, to the last workman and scrubwoman in the main hall. To each he presented an individual gift.

Prince 'Mike's' Gift Visit to 'Mummy'

BUCHAREST, Dec. 26.—(Universal.)—Crown Prince Michael, of Rumania, won from his father as a "surprise" Christmas gift permission to leave today for Florence, Italy, to see his mother, Princess Helen. When King Carol asked his son what he wanted for Christmas, Michael is said to have replied:

"I want to see my mummy."

Christmas Tree Fire Causes $100 Damage

One Christmas tree fire was reported in the Pittsburgh district yesterday. [illegible] in the home of Michael [illegible] 29 Circle avenue fired [illegible] ignited wires, according to firemen, spread to window curtains, causing an estimated loss of $100.

KING BLESSES CHILDREN

LONDON, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—King George V directed himself especially to children, "whose great day this is" in his personal Christmas greetings to British subjects throughout the world.

Speaking from Sandringham in Norfolk, with the royal family gathered round him, the King touched on world affairs, mentioned the "progress toward recovery" in the last year.

After expressing the opinion that the most significant development had been in everyday application of goodwill, sanity and patience to present problems, he added:

"These in the long run can overcome most things that may be brought against them. In this belief and hope I wish to all who hear me, and especially to the children whose great day this is, a happy Christmas, with the blessings of peace upon earth to men of good will.

"God bless you."

Hoovers Give Party For 3 Grandchildren

PALO ALTO, Cal., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—While telegrams and messages in a steady stream brought greetings to a former President from all parts of the world, the Herbert Hoover household celebrated Christmas in their family circle on San Juan Hill.

Center of all interest were 8-year-old Peggy Ann, Peter, 6, and little Joan 3½, children of Herbert Hoover, Jr., who came with their father and mother to spend the very first Christmas they have ever known at the Herbert Hoover, Sr's. own home on the Stanford University campus here.

Hitler Plays Santa To 2 Hitch Hikers

MUNICH, Germany, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Chancellor Adolph Hitler turned unexpected Santa Claus yesterday. En route to his mountain home at Obersalzburg he picked up two hitch-hikers and gave them a 20-mile ride in his automobile.

Removing his two overcoats—one his conspicuous white trench coat—he presented to each hiker a garment, together with 5 marks.

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 26.—(Universal.)—After celebrating Christmas mass, Pope Pius XI rested on Christmas Day. He lunched with his relatives in his Vatican apartment and took a walk in the afternoon.

Mrs. Roosevelt Helps McKees Rocks Families

'First Lady' Plays Santa to Eight Children

The "First Lady" of the United States, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who is also one of the busiest ladies of the land was responsible for the joy of eight McKees Rocks youngsters today.

With all her other cares Mrs. Roosevelt found time to make sure that Santa would visit the two homes, in which the children lived, on Christmas eve.

The mother of three of the children, Mrs. Dan Deltonto, of 812 Benwood street, McKees Rocks, whose husband is home for the holidays from the Veterans' Hospital, at Aspinwall, wrote to the White House when she read in the newspapers that Mrs. Roosevelt wanted to help poor children on Christmas.

Another McKees Rocks woman, Mrs. Daisy DiVecchio, of 706 Dohrman street, had also written to Mrs. Roosevelt when she could see no way to get Christmas presents for her five children.

Mrs. Roosevelt forwarded the two letters to the State Pennsylvania Federation of Women, who notified the members of the Carrick Mothers' Club.

Although the letter did not arrive at the Mothers' Club until Saturday night after the stores were closed, the two families had baskets of food and many toys for their eight children on Christmas morning.

Sarah Roosevelt, 2, Ill, Cheered by President's Gift

BROOKLINE, Mass., Dec. 26.—(INS.)—The merry jingle of Santa Claus' bells had died away today, while, propped up on her bed, little Sarah Delano Roosevelt, 2-year-old granddaughter of the President, stared wide-eyed at what Santa had left for her.

Three tiny dogs in a miniature kennel was the gift of her distinguished grandparents.

Sarah, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Roosevelt, had a heavy cold on Christmas Day, and could not toddle around her own tree, but her parents stacked her presents around her on the bed.

Little Sarah's gift to her grandfather, the President, was a miniature book.

Seven Persons Die In Church Stampede

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Seven persons were trampled to death in a Christmas Eve church service in the village of Tunauan, a dispatch today to La Vanguardia said.

A story from Tacloban, provincial capital of the Island of Leyte, said the congregation thought the church was afire when a sparkler fireworks display was lighted at the altar in a midnight service.

CHRISTMAS BAN EASED BY REDS

Universal Service.

MOSCOW, Dec. 26.—Foreigners celebrated Christmas "as usual" in Russia, and there was more gift-giving and tree-decorating this year than in many years past, for unaccountably the government let down in its customary demand that Christmas go unheeded.

Ornaments, trees, replicas of Santa Claus were all sold by the Torgin stores in exchange for "valuta"—foreign currency. The temperature was 28 below zero.

CITY DESTITUTE TREATED TO DINNERS

Food to the hungry and toys to the little ones were Pittsburgh's gifts yesterday to the unfortunate for which Christmas had not held out any great promise of happiness. Thousands of men and women were treated to turkey dinner by various charitable organizations.

Special dinner was served by the Salvation Army at its industrial homes at 1514 Nixon street, and Home and Plummer streets, and 410 West Fifth avenue, McKeesport; its building in West Eighth street, Braddock; Home for Transient Women, Fernando street, and Home and Hospital, Bellevue.

The Parting of the Ways Home, 216 Stockton avenue, provided food for 350 men, the majority of them recently released from jail or prison, who are staying at the home until they obtain employment.

The Improvement of the Poor, Duquesne way, served dinner to 1,500 men, and to a large number of the Hill district branch at the Boys' Home, 1315 Liverpool street.

Presents and entertainment were provided poor children at the annual party of the Fair Oaks Volunteer Fire Protective Association, and the Sewickley Fresh Air Home.

Oakland police, through Patrolman John Flaherty, acting as Santa, provided toys, candy and nuts to 3,000 children of the district, who surrounded a Christmas tree on the second floor of the police station.

Three hundred men, women and children were given a dinner at the St. Mark's African Methodist Episcopal Church, Wilkinsburg, and at the Friendly Inn, 1112 Forbes street.

A special dinner and musical program was furnished inmates of the County Jail, music being furnished by the choir of the Mt. Washington Free Methodist Church.

Mrs. Hearst Gives Party To 1,500 Little Cripples

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Fifteen hundred crippled children—all the spacious Hollywood Theater on Broadway would hold—shouted their enthusiasm during three glittering hours yesterday as guests at Mrs. William Randolph Hearst's annual Christmas party.

The youngsters, many of whom wore casts and leg braces or walked with crutches, had been brought to Broadway in specially chartered buses from half a dozen institutions in the city.

With the co-operation of Warner Brothers, owner of the theater, a specially-arranged stage and screen show had been provided for the children, the stellar event of which was a pre-view of Joe E. Brown's new picture, "Son of a Sailor." While a majority of the youngsters see but few pictures during the course of the year, Joe E. Brown is one of their outstanding favorites.

The antics of Brown and his supporting cast put the little charges in a hilarious mood—they didn't even remember, for the moment, that they were physically handicapped. Nor did they realize, perhaps, that except for the bounty of their hostess, Christmas might have been just another day on the calendar for them.

When the Brown picture had been finished, there were some of Walt Disney's "Silly Symphonies" to add still more young laughter to the morning party, and other shorts which appealed greatly to the joyous audience.

Borah Minnevitch and his Harmonica Band, one of the headline vaudeville acts over the big time, headed the stage show.

Lindys Go Visiting With Baby Jon

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—The Lindberghs hastened all the way across the South Atlantic to be home for Christmas Day. But they only spent half of it there.

Behind the white stone walls of the rolling Dwight Morrow estate here they remained long enough in the morning to unwrap gifts and then motored away to pass the afternoon and early evening with friends. Baby Jon, now 16 months old was understood to have accompanied them.

There Are Many Examples Of Platonic Love

How about "Platonic Love"—Is there such a thing?

And if there is, is it finer and nobler than the old-fashioned variety of romance?

That question has Helen worried. For—but we'll let her tell it,

My Dear Miss Robinson:

My problem is Platonic Love. Is it really impossible—or perhaps just improbable? This is my case.

There is a boy, two years my senior. We've grown up together, not as intimate friends but as neighbors. I went away a youngster and returned a woman. Not only had I matured, but I had known sorrows in quick succession. Girl friends, of my age and older, found me too serious and meditative.

Then, as old friends, this boy and I met again, and found comfort in each other.

I sense his troubles, his loneliness, without a word between us. I absorb them while he talks and he goes away without their weight. He loves me. I love him.

Can we love without being in love? You're probably thinking I have sufficient proof of that. But there is something else, which disproves it.

He has made love to me, very mildly of course, but still love-making. Kisses which are definitely not platonic. I despise myself for permitting it yet enjoying it. I tell myself that it isn't because he is he and I am I that we do it. That it is because he is male and I am female!

QUESTIONS LOVE

Any girl my age, if asked about this, would laugh and say I am taking a few kisses too seriously. Yet I think you will see that it isn't the kisses, but the feeling that prompts them—the animal in us that makes platonic love impossible—that makes me wonder about it.

When there is this rare friendship and understanding between us, isn't it being soiled—isn't making love incongruous—under the circumstances?

Please help me. Maybe you will find this hard to understand but I do want to know what you think, if you aren't too busy to bother with me. I really need advice. HELEN.

Is "platonic love" impossible?

No, Helen, it isn't. There have been and are many deep and fond friendships between men and women who have no desire for romantic mating. But that's not apt to be the case when two healthy young people are attracted to each other. And why should it be?

Why all this nervous apprehension—that idea that "love-making is incongruous"—this fear lest the "animal in you" is spoiling something fine?

WANTS TO BE DIFFERENT

That same hearty "animal instinct" has kept the human race going for millions of years.

And what's "finer" than the warm love of a man and woman, and the home life and children that spring from that love?

Snap out of it, Helen! You're getting morbid. Not only morbid, but actually high hat—too high hat to accept the sweet, gay urgencies which make life lovely for the rest of us.

Or perhaps there's an element of fear in it. Platonic Friendship carries little responsibility—and is so much easier on the hands than matrimonial dish water.

In either case, you want to be "different." And, if you insist, you probably will be. But take a tip from a friend, child—you'll hate it if you are. Life's a lonely hike as the years go on. Love's a comfort, even though it is also, sometimes, a pain in the neck.

So get regular, Helen. Take the goods the gods provide—and enjoy those kisses.

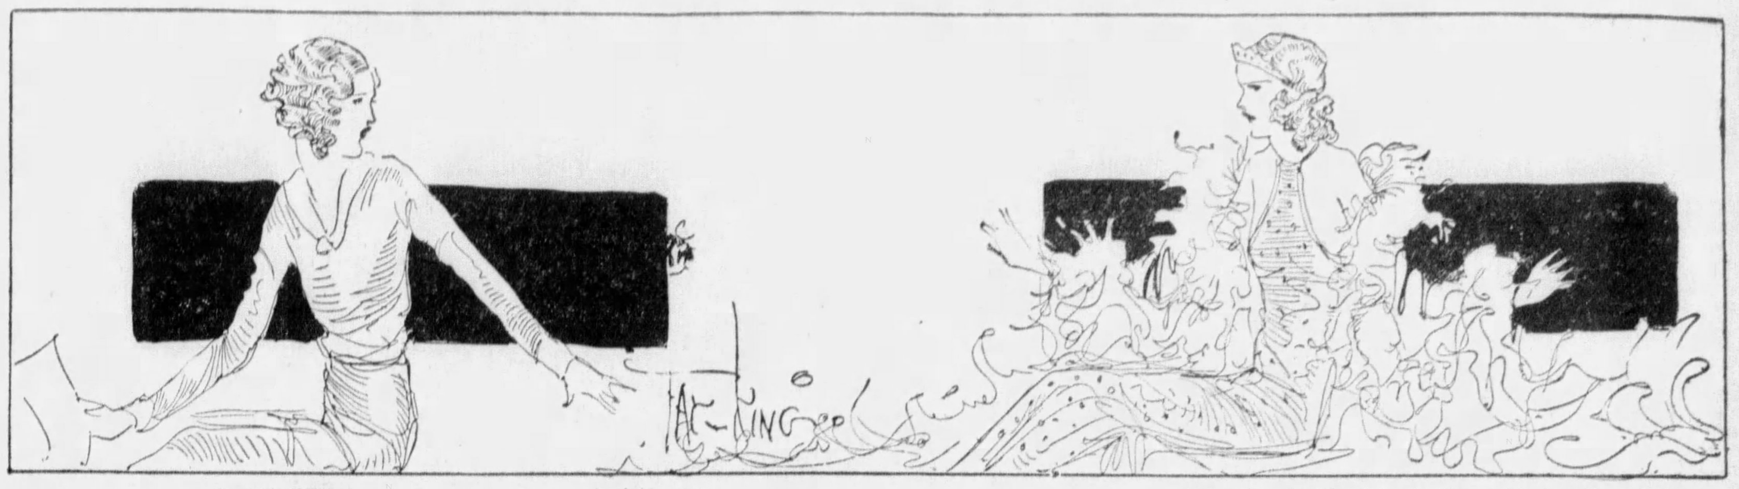
Charm Often Hides Ruthless Ambition, Says Fay King



By FAY KING.

In business life a sedate manner and practical appearance often hide a most charming and feminine personality.

But in artistic circles the most practical and business-like character is often concealed by the most deceiving charm and feminine grace.

The business girl trains herself to show little emotion or temperament which would be unwelcome in business routine.

But the girl who would get on artistically cultivates those impractical and emotional characteristics more successfully to conceal her really relentless determination and businesslike ambitions.

Most men fear the calm efficient air of a capable business girl, but fall such easy victims to the frilly feminine charmers who purr and coo, but actually have the brains of a seasoned politician.

Cinderellas are usually Portias in disguise.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Care Is Urged in Handling Medicine

Dr. Copeland

Not so long ago strychnine poisoning was a common and often fatal accident. Within the past few years pharmacists and physicians have waged a campaign against this menace to life.

I am glad to say that there has been a definite decrease in the number of deaths caused by this drug. But fatalities from strychnine are still reported. It is especially tragic when the victims are children who accidentally swallow pills or medicines containing this deadly poison.

Children are attracted to colored pills and often mistake harmless looking tablets for "candy." They eagerly swallow a handful, especially if they discover the "candy" is chocolate covered. Even if they bite into the pill and find it not to be candy they may hesitate to tell their parents of what they have done for fear of being scolded.

Rather than subject children to danger of poisoning, it is strongly advised that all laxative pills, tonics and other medicines containing strychnine be kept beyond their reach. They should be locked up in the medicine chest.

By the way, it is recommended that the medicine chest contain only the necessary medicines. Discard all useless and harmful drugs. Many cases of poisoning in adults can be traced to carelessness in reading the label on a bottle or reaching for a bottle in the dark and taking the wrong medicine.

Strychnine is an alkaloid used in the preparation of many useful medicines. Since its action promotes bowel elimination, it is found in most laxative pills. When taken in small doses it is harmless, but in large amounts it is a dangerous drug.

A victim of strychnine poisoning requires immediate medical attention. Never delay calling a physician. A stomach tube should be passed as soon as possible and the stomach contents carefully washed out.

In severe cases of poisoning the victim is stricken with sudden convulsions. He has great difficulty in breathing and unless expert attention is given the condition soon proves fatal. It is always best to remove the stricken individual to a hospital where all conveniences and facilities are available.

Of course, prevention is far easier than cure. Several states are now studying this serious menace to health and many of them have passed suitable legislation to guard against the danger of strychnine poisoning.

The American Medical Association now urges the prohibition of the manufacture of pills containing strychnine. It also recommends that laws be passed so that this drug cannot be purchased in large quantities. This certainly will go far to remove an all too common danger.

A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Avis Tries to Win Dicky as an Ally

I am afraid my soul was filled with unholy glee as Dicky put the rough query, "What do you think you're doing?" just as I was about to climb into the rear seat of the car at Avis Arlen's suggestion. I knew very well what his next move would be, and although I cared nothing at all for the girl's opinion of me, I was so furious against her for her machinations against Mary's happiness that I was glad of any chagrin or humiliation that might be in store for her.

I had studied her closely enough to know that nothing could pierce her armor of complacent self-conceit except a rebuff of any kind from a man. Slights, enmity, overt or veiled, upon the part of anything feminine she put down to jealousy of her charm, or her success in luring "their men" away from them, and cherished them as tributes to her prowess.

That she had deliberately tried to get the front seat with Dicky in order to annoy me I knew as well as I did that she would try to stage a flirtation with him upon the drive home, in retaliation for my not sending Noel to escort her to the farm house. But I knew my cue, and I acted upon it promptly.

"Why! I'm getting into the rear seat," I said demurely, but seeing to it that my foot was still upon the running board, not inside the car. "Avis very kindly insists that she isn't as tired as I must be, and says she doesn't mind the front seat at all, so she's putting me into the rear one."

PLANS GO WRONG

"Oh, you mustn't make me out so impolite, dear Mrs. Graham," Avis cooed, evidently sure of her ground now that she had a masculine listener. "I do want you to be comfortable, but I'm afraid it isn't all unselfishness on my part. I can think of nothing more delightful than sitting beside a driver like you, Mr. Graham, on a night like this. I'm sure there's going to be a moon."

She was dimpling and smiling at him now, and I subdued my risibles with difficulty for Dicky's face reflected his knowledge that I was listening with keen delight. But I was not prepared for the quick movement with which he tossed the big dress box through the rear door and grabbed me by the arm.

"You get in where you belong," he growled, and throwing open the front door with his other hand, he fairly boosted me into the seat I had occupied during the drive from the farm.

"Thanks, awfully, for your kind offer, Miss Avis," he said, with a casualness that was almost curt, "but unless it's an exceptional circumstance, I always like to have my back seat driver in the front seat with me. She's quieter that way, and I feel better.

"Permit me to help you in, and I'm sure you'll be more comfortable back here than you would be up in front. My wife is used to my driving, and it doesn't phase her any more, but other feminine friends and relatives generally signalize the end of any trip with me by a fit of hysterics."

UNDERSTANDS SCHEME

If I had had any idea that Avis would be abashed by the rebuff, I immediately found out my mistake. She giggled delightedly as Dicky closed the door upon her, and began to prattle to him before he turned the ignition switch.

"I'm sure you're being terribly unjust to yourself, Mr. Graham," she said. But Dicky just grunted and for the space of at least a mile Avis was silent.

"I'm so afraid I'm putting you out," she said at last, "coming unexpectedly this way. But you won't make any bother for me, will you Mrs. Graham? I'll just camp down anywhere—a couch in the library, or anywhere. I suppose there'll be a bedroom where I can dress tomorrow, but where I sleep doesn't matter in the least."

Was there no end to her effrontery? I visualized her plan perfectly. If she could manage to bunk downstairs, she counted upon roaming the lower floor in fetching negligee and securing Noel's presence downstairs for a few minutes by some ruse. But I had a rod in pickle for that attempt—one, however, which I did not mean the girl should guess as yet.

"I am glad you don't mind where you are put, dear," I said sweetly, "for I'm afraid I can't make you as comfortable as I would like. But you shall have a comfortable place to sleep, never fear. That couch in the library isn't such a bad proposition at that."

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Unfavorable Distribution

Lurking in the background of every Contract player's mind when he picks up a hand containing one or more unusually long suits, such as suits of six, seven or eight cards, and voids or singletons in other suits, is a foreboding that the hand may turn out very disastrously—in other words, that the freakish distribution may set at naught the value of honor-tricks held by himself and his partner. Thus it is a general rule with freaks to proceed cautiously in the bidding or take a plunge with a Pre-emptive bid. However, on hands of a more prosaic type, even when they are of unbalanced pattern, the fear of tremendous freaks is not so prevalent, although even such deals may be fraught with disaster that is not apparent until the actual play begins.

Watching a rubber game at a club in New York the other day, I saw the hand below dealt, bid and played:

North, Dealer:
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ 8 ♡ A K 9 8 7 ◇ K 8 7 ♣ K Q 9 3
♠ Q J 4 3 2 ♡ 6 4 3 2 ◇ Q J 3 2 ♣ —	North / West / East / South	♠ A 10 9 5 ♡ — ◇ A 10 9 ♣ A 10 7 6 5 2
	♠ K 7 6 ♡ Q J 10 5 ◇ 6 5 4 ♣ J 8 4

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	2 ♣	2 ♡ (1)	Pass
4 ♡ (2)	Double (3)	Pass	Pass
Redouble (4)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—At this point South should pass, although this probably would not affect the final contract as unquestionably North would take further action even in case West responded to his partner's Overcall with a bid of two spades.

2—Possibly a slight overbid.

3—Not a good Double. It is true that East holds three Aces, but he has no knowledge whatever that his partner holds any tricks and certainly none that he holds a void in clubs.

4—North should not have redoubled, but his side was behind on the score and he felt there was a chance for making his contract and possibly an overtrick as well.

The Redouble caused East to hesitate before making his lead. However, he finally chose the club Ace, and when West failed to follow suit, North could see that the worst was bound to happen. Another club was led, which West trumped, returning the diamond Queen. North refused to cover either the Queen or the Knave, hoping that East's Ace might drop, but this ruse proved unavailing. The third round was won by East's Ace and another club returned, which West ruffed. A spade now put East in for the lead of another club, which was ruffed in Dummy. Thus East and West cashed three diamond tricks, one club, one spade and two trumps and defeated the contract 2,800 points.

While both North and South may have been guilty of overbidding, the extent of the disaster may be charged principally to the freak distribution.

TODAY'S QUESTION

♣ A J 2

North / West / East / South

♣ K 9 3

South is playing a heart declaration. West leads the four of clubs. Dummy plays the deuce. What card should East play?

Answer—East should play the nine. West has not more than four cards in the suit, and the only chance of East-West making two tricks in the suit is for West to hold Queen-Ten. The King must make eventually unless South can get a discard of the club on a winning card in Dummy. Such a contingency can be seen from a scrutiny of Dummy's hand.

Household Hints

Jellies are greatly improved by the addition of a little unsweetened condensed milk. Make the jelly in the ordinary way with rather less water than usual; when it is nearly cold and just about to set, add sufficient of the milk to make up the required liquid. Beat vigorously until the jelly sets into a light sponge.

Try this for a pumpkin pie that's different: When the pie is nearly done, cover with marshmallows and return to the oven for 10 minutes, or sprinkle finely grated cheese over the top and bake five minutes. Another variation is to use whipped cream or ice cream for a topping.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Addressing the Widow

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—I would like to know how to address an envelope to a woman whose husband died just recently? Should it be Mrs. John D. Smith or Mrs. Cora Smith, her own name?

2—Does an engagement ring have to be a diamond? M.

1—We should, correctly, address an envelope to a widow by her formal name, which should be exactly the same form that she used when her husband was living. Therefore, you should use the form: Mrs. John David Smith.

2—By no means does an engagement ring have to be a diamond. What the engagement ring should be depends entirely on the choice of the girl. She may prefer not to have any ring. She may prefer to wait and, instead of having an engagement ring and a plain wedding ring, to have a jeweled wedding ring. This is especially becoming to the hands of many girls, this jeweled wedding ring, often vastly more becoming than the two rings. But of course this isn't traditional, although in thoroughly good taste.

Or the girl may prefer to have some other stone that she likes better than she does diamonds . . . a ruby, an emerald, a sapphire, perhaps a star sapphire, which seems especially appropriate for an engagement ring.

'Aunt Mary'

Dear Mrs. Beeckman.

When a person speaks of his or her aunt, should he or she say, "Aunt Mary" or "My Aunt?" HENRY.

It depends on the person to whom we are speaking. If the person knows who Aunt Mary is, then it would be reasonable to refer to her in this way. But otherwise we'd probably say, "My aunt."

When to Shake Hands

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—If a young girl is being introduced to an elderly lady, is it proper for the girl to shake hands?

2—When seated and introduced to a gentleman, does she rise? In this case, who makes a move to shake hands? C.

1—The girl waits for the older woman to offer her hand. It would be inappropriate for her to extend her hand first.

2—The man is introduced to the woman . . . not, as you have worded your question, the girl "introduced to a gentleman." And when the man is introduced to her, she should not rise . . . unless she is a very young girl, and the man is, say, an elderly man, and she wishes, in this way, to do honor to his years.

When a man is introduced to a woman, the man waits for the woman to offer to shake hands.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Don't let ears look dowdy. If they're not so good, let them hide behind waved side locks. If they're small and smart, let them look out at the passing show, and be seen. Powder lightly. Rouge the lobes. And, by the way, if lobes are thick and heavy, a spot of rosy color will make them look smaller. Rouge forms a shadow.

Hair health depends to a degree upon physical health. The glorious halo gets thin and despondent under nervous strain, loss of sleep and worry. Some day maybe science will find out what the hair needs in the way of nourishment and when locks fall like leaves in the autumn season, a special diet will be recommended.

Before giving eyelashes the once-over with the tiny brush that has been dipped in mascara, shine 'em up with vaseline. There won't be that dry, sooty appearance which wrecks the picture. Let the lashes rest over the finger, brush from roots to tips, then give the tips an upward bip to make them curly. No faith in that? Try it. Takes time, but hair can be trained the way it should go, even silky eye curtains will take a hint.

Nothing much can be done about large veins on the hands, which seldom show up until old age is approaching. It is wise to keep the hands out of water that is extremely hot or very cold, and to avoid heavy work.

SAMPLER PATTERN 588

Embroider This for the Kitchen

Samplers are in vogue, and so are lovely kitchens. What then could be more natural than to do a gay sampler for the kitchen? This one—most fitting in subject and verse—is very colorful when stitched, and what is most important to a busy needlewoman, quickly done. The fruit—the chicks—the girl and man all are done in gay colors that will add a happy touch to the kitchen.

Pattern 588 comes to you with a transfer pattern of the sampler, which is about 8½x10 inches; a color key, and directions for making and framing the sampler.

Send 10 cents for this pattern to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

STANFORD FAILS TO SCARE COLUMBIA GRIDDERS

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Wagner McGraw's Ideal.
Rated Smartest Player.
Owner of Best Hands.

Grid Changes Probable.
Pros Stir Up Colleges.
Dukes on Scoring Spree.

Perhaps you have thought of Honus Wagner solely as a great batsman, baserunner and fielding shortstop of the past, but those were not the only exceptional qualities that entered into making the present Pirate coach the outstanding ball player of all time. It remained for John J. McGraw to point out one other quality that is too often overlooked when the Dutchman's greatness is being discussed. That is baseball smartness. Asked by Charles E. Parker to picture the perfect ball player, the composite ideal, based on his observations and contacts of 40 years in baseball, McGraw selected Wagner as the shining example of smartness.

Honus Wagner

Beginning with qualities essential to greatness, but which never show in the averages, the former manager of the Giants laid the foundation for his perfect player on the fine character of Christy Mathewson, the spirit of Johnny Evers, and the baseball intelligence of Wagner. McGraw said that in the matter of smartness, the ability to see several plays ahead and comport himself accordingly, Honus was easily his first choice. Wagner's good nature and awkward action never advertised his keenness, John J. remarked, but added that to his way of thinking the immortal Pirate was as smart a man as ever wielded a bat or fielded a ball.

WAGNER'S HANDS ALSO PICKED IN BUILD-UP

McGraw also selected Wagner on another count, mentioning Honus' hands in the build-up. He said the perfect player should have the legs and speed of Frankie Frisch; the throwing arm of George Kelly; the hands of Wagner for ground balls; the eye, the ease, and the anticipation of Tris Speaker on fly balls; the ability of Rogers Hornsby as a right-hand hitter, and that of Ty Cobb as a left-hand hitter. The Wagner hands were without equal, he said, likening them to a couple of coal scuttles—just let the ball touch the edge of them, and it was in the Dutchman's control.

While admitting that the matter of speed and legs might be debatable as between Frisch and Cobb, McGraw said his vote must go to Frisch. Asked why he had made no mention of Babe Ruth, McGraw explained that you couldn't compare Ruth's fielding with Speaker's, his throwing arm with Kelly's, his hands with Wagner's, or his speed with Frisch's, and that both Hornsby and Cobb were better, if not as hard, hitters. As to the player in the present-day crop who most closely approaches the ideal, McGraw named Al Simmons as the man—a combination of spirit, aggressiveness and ability. He said if he were starting to build a team, Simmons would be his No. 1 choice, and Carl Hubbell his No. 2.

GRID COACHES TO URGE RULE CHANGES

Out of the deliberations of the country's college coaches at their thirteenth annual convention in Chicago today and tomorrow probably will come some changes in the football rules for next year. The Rules Committee will not meet until February and can vote as it sees fit, but there is no doubt that any suggestions made by the coaches will carry some weight, and several such suggestions are pretty certain to grow out of the discussion carried on for several weeks by Dick Hanley, of Northwestern and others, in advance of today's gathering.

Dick Hanley

Among the changes to be considered, changes already recommended by the officials, are that an incomplete forward pass into the end zone be not ruled a touchback except on fourth down; widening of the sideline zone from 10 to 15 yards; permitting either side to run with the ball on a blocked kick that does not cross the line of scrimmage, and putting the goal posts back on the goal line. Some of the coaches also favor allowing a defensive player to run with a recovered fumble, and changing the rule that makes the ball dead when any part of the carrier's body, except his hands or feet touches the ground, even though he is not in the grasp of an opponent.

COLLEGES AROUSED BY MENACE OF PROS

It is no secret that college football authorities finally are beginning to view the growing popularity of the professional game with some alarm. The pros made a hit with the fans by changing the rules to help the offense and bring more scoring, and through restoring the field goal by putting the posts back on the goal line.

To keep pace with the pros in public favor, the collegiate powers also may move for code alterations that will assist a now too thoroughly shackled offense. The defense has become too strong, and defensive football is not the kind the fans like to watch. They want to see more scoring, fewer scoreless ties.

The return of the goal posts to the goal line to revive field goal kicking, as the pros did this year, would be popular. The posts were moved back to the end line to prevent injury. Another point raised by one coach, Andy Kerr, is that on the goal line they become a twelfth man for the defensive team on plays close to the touchdown stripe. Both objections to a goal-line position for the posts could be overcome, and field goals made possible, by leaving the posts 10 yards back and suspending the cross bar over the goal line on an extension.

DUKES GOING AT POINT-A-MINUTE CLIP

The early scoring record of the Duquesne University basketball team is impressive. Against Waynesburg and Ashland, the teams already conquered, the Dukes piled up 104 points, and when they meet Adrian on Friday night Chick Davies' passers will be required to make only 16 points to reach a total of 120, which will mean a point a minute for their first three games. Point-a-minute teams in basketball are unusual, to say the least.

Paul Birch

And the heavy scoring has been accomplished despite the fact that Paul Birch, one of the best college performers seen around here in many moons, has not yet been able to play; that MacDougall was ill in the Ashland game, and that the Bluffities have not kept their first team in service, but have used every available player among the second and third-stringers. A little more alertness on defense is needed, and may be expected to come with further practice. Judging from the fine showing of Murphy, Schneider, Meyers and Zirella, Coach Davies' present squad may prove the best he ever had on the Bluff. Murphy in particular looks like a coming standout who will go on the honor list with Moore, Birch, Feldman, Brenner, MacDougall and Reiter.

NICCOLAI HERO OF ALL-STAR GRID FRAY

By JESS CARVER

Follows a brief but complete, we hope, review of all of importance that occurred in the far flung realm of sport over the week-end, a trifle brownish in color, due to dyspepsia that comes from too much turkey and stuffin' and not enough bicarbonate of soda.

On Sunday in Brooklyn, two all-star college football elevens, one representing the South and the other the North, met in a gridiron battle, the monetary proceeds of which went to the benefit of the Kings County American Legion's welfare fund and the glory to the Nawth, suh, the good ol' Nawth.

NICCOLAI STAR

The individual laurel wreath, when all was over, adorned the classic brow of Armand Niccolai, star tackle of Duquesne University's great eleven. Armand coolly booted a 35-yard placement goal in the second period to give the North a 3-0 triumph. It was one of the longest successful boots of the year.

Another Pittsburgh collegian, Bob Hogan, Pitt quarterback, took part in the game, being used at left hafback on the Northern eleven.

While Niccolai was bringing glory to himself, the North and the Dukes, the local institution was announcing the personnel of the party that will leave Thursday for Miami, Fla., and the Festival of the Palms game New Year's Day with the University of Miami. The 34 members of the varsity squad, Coaches Elmer Layden and Joe Bach, Dr. Leo O'Donnell and George (Whirlwind) Kelly will make up the Duquesne troupe.

INDIANS IN PASADENA

Along other football fronts, Stanford's Indians, who battle the Columbia Lions in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena New Year's Day, arrived at the scene of battle, pitching their camp at Pasadena; the Lions were given a day of rest at their camp in Tucson, Ariz.; the all-Eastern squad, under the tutelage of Andy Kerr of Colgate, and Dick Hanley, of Northwestern, staged a brisk drill in San Francisco, during which Muggsy Skladany, Pitt's brilliant All-American end, stood the onlookers on their ears with his pass-catching. In a professional exhibition game the Chicago Bears, National Professional League champions for the second year in a row, were held to a scoreless deadlock by the St. Louis Gunners.

The district independent gridders put on a light but highly attractive card with the St. Rosalia Preps and Aliquippa Indians battling to a 6-6 deadlock in a Lightweight Conference elimination game on the Duquesne University field; the Rox Rangers eliminating the Paramount eleven, 52 to 0, at Ranger Field, the McKeesport Olympics bowing to the Unions, 6-0, in contest which carried with it the sandlot title in the Tube City; Connellsville and Youngwood scrapping it out to a scoreless tie at Connellsville; the Red Trojans beating the Veronas, 7-6; Trafford Indians taking the Cabin Grills, 27-0; Epiphany Tigers nosing out the Big Two eleven, 7-0; Corpus Christi stopping Frankwood, 9-0, and West View and the Old Timers drawing, 0-0.

Paul Runyan, of White Plains, N. Y., won the annual Pasadena $4,000 open golf tournament, first of the Pacific Coast winter links features, with a 72-hole total of 282. The veteran, Macdonald Smith, finished in second position with 285.

Merceita, with Helm up, won the Inaugural Handicap, opening day's feature, as the Agua Caliente track opened its annual winter meeting.

George Kelly, of Philadelphia, and Jimmy Caras, of Wilmington, Del., remained tied for the third position in the world's three-cushion billiard championship tournament as Caras defeated William Mosconi, 125 to 101, after losing to Kelly, 125 to 95.

Andy Gustafson May Be Coach At Dartmouth

HANOVER, N. H., Dec. (AP.)—Harry Heneage, Dartmouth College athletic director, announced today that Andy Gustafson, University of Pittsburgh backfield coach and a former coach at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, is under consideration for head coach of football.

Heneage said no choice would be made until the athletic council meets next month, but added, "Gustafson's record looks good."

The job of piloting the Indians was left vacant by the recent resignation of Jackson Cannell after a poor season.

MAT CLIQUES FORM PACT

There's a new deal in the wrestling world the same as everywhere else. The clans have got together in a big pact whereby the leading stars of the rival cliques now will be available for matches against each other.

Jack Curley, of New York; Paul Bowser, of Boston, and Tom Packs, of St. Louis, are the leading impresarios of the sport involved. Jim Londos, the biggest drawing card of them all, thus will be available in cities where he has not shown before, and likely will be paired speedily against rival championship claimants, one of whom is Jim Browning, the airplane spin specialist, who makes his Pittsburgh debut against Stanley Pinto at the Arena, on the North Side, Thursday night.

FIGHT RESULTS

At Moose Temple—Marty Gornick defeated Max Elling, 10 rounds; Billy Holt defeated Anson Green, 10 rounds; Red Bruce defeated Mike Mitchell, 6 rounds; Johnny Durso defeated Don Asto, 6 rounds.

At Philadelphia—Frankie Klick won by a technical knockout over Kid Chocolate, 7 rounds; Lou Amber defeated Young Firpo, 6 rounds; Johnny Craven knocked out Georgie Riley, 4 rounds; Milt Jacobs defeated Tony Valenti, 4 rounds; Charles Reiser defeated Dick Welsh, 4 rounds; Dan Hassett defeated Billy Kethel, 10 rounds.

KEED STOPPED AGAIN, LOSES JUNIOR TITLE

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Kid Chocolate's synthetic title of world junior-lightweight champion is in new and apparently capable hands today, those of the veteran, Frankie Klick, of San Francisco.

The flashy Cuban Bon Bon was bereft of the title in the seventh round of a scheduled 15-round Christmas Day bout by a whistling right smash to the chin and all he got in exchange was the second knockout of his career, although the latest was one of the technical variety.

A few weeks ago, Tony Canzoneri knocked out the Keed in New York. Chocolate retains his featherweight crown.

Chocolate fell face forward. At the count of six, he struggled to his feet, but collapsed against the ropes. Referee Johnny (Spud) Murphy jumped forward, intent on stopping the bout, and at the same time Moe Fleisher, one of Chocolate's seconds, climbed through the ropes and led the Cuban to his corner.

CHILLYSAUCE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Bill McKechnie has done a lot of hunting in the past few months, but not all of the trails led to woods and fields. It develops that Skipper Bill has been gunning for Chick Hafey. The open season on a gent named Chuck Klein closed when the rich Cubs, of Chicago, placed a fortune on the doorstep of the Quaker owners just in time to foil the villain who was all set to foreclose on the mortgage.

The Reds are supposed to be only a few jumps ahead of the sheriff, yet they are turning down some fancy figures offered by McKechnie and his associates in return for the big leftfielder. Larry MacPhail, the new boss of the Rhinelanders, is out with a statement and a lot of figures which tends to set Hafey up as superior to Klein.

Doubtless you would be surprised by the number of votes Hafey would poll in a players' ballot on the stars. In other words, the boys of the diamond would be generous in their treatment of the spectacled star, who, it might be said, is a "ball-players' player."

Frank Frisch and Jimmy Wilson, two diamond luminaries who played with Hafey in St. Louis over a long period of years, have insisted in talks with the writer that Hafey is the best outfielder in the National League.

Wilson and Frisch will advise you that Hafey has the best throwing arm in the league; they say he is a grand baserunner whose worth is underestimated because Big Chick works on an even keel without unnecessary gyrations. Hafey's boosters also point out that he is an excellent judge of any kind of a batted ball. He is one of the good sunfielders in the league, and when he goes into a bright garden he must wear dark glasses over the spectacles that give him a normal vision.

McKechnie is not the sort of a Scot to sit idly by while some strangers within the gates steal the home-town shot. The New owners of the Boston Red Sox have just startled Boston fans through the annexation of Groves, Walberg and Bishop of the Athletics. During the four-year reign of McKechnie at Braves Field, the National League has been a standout at Boston. Give McKechnie a slugger of the Hafey type and the Tribe probably would be in the pennant fight from the jump off of the season until the final gong.

Hafey has been a thunderous hitter at the Wigwam. The average National League performer will tell you that Braves Field offers one of the toughest hitting problems in the Heydler circuit, but Chick apparently finds it to his liking.

Chick, I am convinced, has a safe margin on Chuck on one important phase of hitting. Both were distinctive pull hitters when they came into the league, and Klein has not yet learned how to hit an outside ball to leftfield. Hafey for several seasons has been practising the trick of smacking outside pitches to rightfield and he has mastered the stunt to such a degree he can drive long liners against the rightfield wall at Forbes Field. You probably will wait a long time before you see Klein hammer one to the leftfield barrier.

Bailey Continues Toward Recovery

BOSTON, Dec. 26.—(INS.)—Irvin (Ace) Bailey, injured Toronto hockey player, today continued his steady advance toward complete recovery from a fractured skull, with his teammates, the Maple Leafs, prepared to face the Boston Bruins at Boston Garden tonight for the first time since Bailey crashed to the ice on December 12.

Bailey was hurt in a collision with Eddie Shore, Bruin defense star, who also was injured, and who still is under suspension, as is Red Horner, of Toronto, who was suspended with Shore.

Ace had a jolly Christmas at City Hospital yesterday. Only a bandage around his head was evidence of his grave fight for life. He chatted and laughed with his family, particularly his 3-year-old daughter, Joan.

M'NEISH GETS JOB

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Bob McNeish, star halfback of the University of Southern California 1933 football team, has been selected as head football coach of the San Bernardino Junior College, the board of trustees announced last night. McNeish graduates from Southern California in June.

LIONS PRIMED TO GIVE FOE REAL SCRAP

By BILL CORUM

Universal Service.

TUCSON, Dec. 26.—It may be just the light Arizona air affecting noodles that were none too stable at best, but the nearer some of us old light blues of Columbia get to the promised land of California, the more certain we are that Stanford is apt to wind up with a football game on its hands when the shining New Year comes to Pasadena.

The jitters may overtake 'em all at once, like one too many Christmas Tom and Jerry's have been known to overtake a fellow, but thus far our gang seems about as overawed by the Rose Bowl game as Max Baer would be by invitation to an informal tea at his Aunt Sophie's.

MATAL READY

I believe it was "Mad Anthony" Matal, one of our better bitter ends who, in one of his rare outbursts of loquaciousness, inquired this morning at breakfast:

"You don't suppose those California's guys sprinkle tacks on their grape nuts, do you?"

Matal is a chunky, carrot-topped young man with a slow Cheshire cat grin and a temper to match, from away back yonder around Lawrence, Mass., but when he goes, he goes. It was in the Princeton debacle this year that Charley Ceppi, a fair country tackle on all fronts and now a member of Andy Kerr's all-star Eastern team in San Francisco, had the pleasure of hooking up with Matal.

Along late in the game, Little decided that if none of the rest of his young men were playing football, Matal was, and that it might be wise to save him for a happier day. So he sent in a replacement. Tony pulled out reluctantly and still full of fight, which gave Ceppi a chance to grab him by the hand and say:

"You may hate to go, Red, but I'm just as well pleased that you're getting out of here. You're as good as an end as ever jarred my bridgework."

Of course, there never has been an athlete in any sport so good but that eventually somebody came along who could take him. But the point I'm making is that whoever takes Tony will have to take him the hard way.

LIONS NOT AFRAID

In order here is a modern Anthony who came out here to bury "Caesar" Thornhill, not to praise him. Not to praise him, at least, until after the burial.

And if Matal and the rest of those in the small, but light-hearted Columbia Argosy, who face the Rose Bowl game in this same spirit should fail . . . well, the Light Brigade wound up behind the nine ball too, didn't it? But you never read in your blue-back history of any of these old-time bookmakers asking that it be disqualified for failing to try.

To avoid the blazing afternoon sun, which beat down on the players in their first two workouts, Coach Little yesterday ordered twilight practice.

SURVEY SIFTS BLAME FOR GRID INJURIES

COACHES TOLD ACCIDENTS AVOIDABLE

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Floyd R. Eastwood, New York University instructor, who has conducted three annual surveys of football deaths and accidents, today reported to the American Football Coaches' Association that over one-quarter of the injuries to college players during 1933 might have been avoided by "adequate leadership."

Although the survey, conducted for a coaches' committee headed by Dr. Marvin A. (Mal) Stevens, former head coach at Yale, showed that the natural hazards of the game still were the major cause of all accidents, many of the most severe injuries and 27.8 per cent of the total could have been avoided by closer attention to playing fields, coaching and the players' condition.

One hundred and seventeen colleges in 38 states and with football squads aggregating 7,084 players, co-operated in the survey for a good cross-section of the college game.

The "preventable" injuries Eastwood listed under three headings: Those due to administrative coutrol, such as inadequate coaching, poor playing fields, 17.7 per cent; training controls, such as fatigue, carelessness, etc., 4.9 per cent; physical condition, 5.2 per cent.

CONCLUSIONS LISTED

From a study of these accidents he drew the following conclusions:

1—Where the college administration pays for all injuries there probably will be a lower mean number of accidents per 1,000 exposures.

2—Coaches who have had seven years or more experience have a lower mean number of accidents.

3—Coaches who have played the game themselves for three or more years will have fewer accidents.

4—The coach who also handles some other sport will have fewer injuries than one who coaches only football.

5—Four weeks of pre-season training gives the lowest mean number of accidents and days lost.

6—Two days a week of fundamentals gives the lowest mean number of accidents and days lost.

7—A complete medical examination during pre-season training gives the fewest accidents.

8—Fewest accidents occurred where the coach or trainer determined the players' daily condition.

9—Colleges having a physician constantly in attendance showed the fewest accidents and days lost.

BLOCKING DANGEROUS

Of the 653 injuries which were possible of classification as to how received, Eastwood found that the largest number, 204, were incurred while the player was blocking or attempting to block another player, 154 were incurred in tackling, 119 by the player who was blocked, 72 by defensive linemen, 60 in line plunging and 44 by players tackled.

Head concussions, the most dangerous of all the injuries, were incurred only in blocking and while being blocked, and in defensive line play.

Only a small portion of the report was given over to fatalities, Eastwood reporting that only 28 deaths of 37 reported from all sources could be directly attributed to football injuries. Of these 12 were received in sandlot play, two amateur, 12 high school and two college. The college percentage, 7.2 per cent, showed a decrease from 16.3 per cent of the total in 1931, the first year the survey was made, and 9.0 per cent last year.

Madden Seeded Seventh In Tourney

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—The first fixture of a busy indoor tennis season today found Frankie Parker a heavy favorite to romp through the field in the National Junior championship tournament.

The former Milwaukee youngster, now a student at Lawrenceville (N. J.) School, distinctly was reckoned the boy to beat for the title. He has whipped some of the game's top-ranking stars and has been recommended for the No. 8 position in the national ranking list by the United States Lawn Tennis Association's ranking committee.

Seeded behind him in the draw were Joseph Abrams, of Dewitt Clinton High School, New York; Sumner Redman, Harvard; George H. Ball, Northwestern; Jackie Behr, Roxbury School; W. J. Simpson, Cornell; Gilbert Hunt, Massachusetts Tech, and Robert Madden, Pittsburgh.

Pinehurst Mid-winter Tourney Under Way

PINEHURST, N. C., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—The thirty-first annual mid-winter golf championship, with George T. Dunlap, Jr., national amateur champion who has won the crown seven times in eight years, preparing for another attempt on the title, got under way here today.

The play ends on Saturday with qualifying rounds and final 18 holes. A gold medal will be given for the best qualifying score while a trophy for the winner, runner-up and winner of the consolation will be given in each division.

Halbert J. Blue, of Pittsburgh, who was beaten by Dunlap, 5 and 4, last year by the champion's round of 67 in the final, will be one of the principal contenders for the crown.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF LAST SATURDAY (NO ISSUE YESTERDAY, CHRISTMAS DAY): 74 YEARS ON THE SAME JOB—William C. Creamer, who was born in 1849, entered the employ of Arnold, Constable & Co. as an errand boy at the age of 10. Seventy-four years have passed since that day, but Creamer still continues to work with the same firm. During these 74 years he never was absent from work even for a day. The Great Blizzard of 1888 could not deter him from being among the small number of men who reported for work on that day.

THE LATE TOD SLOAN

Igoe's First Cartoon on Tod as a Trapshooter—Recalls Splendor of Jockey Upon Return From England

(This is the third of a series of five articles on the glamorous career of Tod Sloan, once premier jockey, who died in Los Angeles last week, written by his old friend, Hype Igoe, veteran sports scribe.)

By HYPE IGOE
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—When Tod Sloan died out there in California the other day, one of the milestones of my life crumbled!

When he was clucking his way over the turf on English race courses, making our own riding stars see red with his wizardry in the saddle, I was holding down a modest berth as an artist on the San Francisco Examiner.

The city by the Golden Gate woke up one morning to find that the great Tod Sloan had arrived from New York, fresh from his saddle and social triumphs in England.

Jack Doyle tells me that the tiny jockey had a cool $1,110,000 at that time, well over 30 years ago. That he was "up in the chips" was quite evident, for he had chartered a private car with its chefs, waiters, barber, cocktail mixer, all attached to the Overland Flier.

TRAVELS IN SPLENDOR

No single individual ever crossed this continent in greater splendor. The trunks, the shoe chests, the hat boxes, the swagger sticks! Western gay-dogs little dreamed that one man could surround himself with such royal what-nots.

Sloan told the 20 or more interviewers that he was pleasure-bent only and that one of his reasons for coming was to enter a live pigeon shoot, before the traps, at a fashionable Ingleside gun club.

Tod had swept everything before him at trapshooting in England and Monte Carlo and his guns, the most expensive makes in the world, were as numerous as his walking sticks.

His "armory men," and there were two of them, did nothing save care for Tod's shotguns when he wasn't at the traps.

They danced lavish attendance upon him.

HIS FIRST CARTOON

Always, Sloan's career had fascinated me. He seemed to be riding sky-rockets in my youthful imagination. I sat at my drawing desk wondering if the day would come when I'd see him ride. Suddenly an office boy broke in upon my day dreaming. He said with a snap:

"Managing editor wants to see you."

The managing editor was Andrew Lawrence. What had I done now? Was it the gate?.

Andy Lawrence had a pugnacious jaw which would have carried him far into Fistiana if ever he had taken up larruping instead of letters. He said:

"Igoe. Tod Sloan is going to join some of the society bugs out at Ingleside in a live pigeon shoot this afternoon. I want you to hop out there and do a funny picture about it. It ought to be quite humorous."

'SENTENCE OF DOOM'

That was all, but it seemed like doom—a sentence to the gallows for me. I never had drawn a comic picture, a cartoon or a caricature for publication in all my life.

I fumbled around and got a sketch pad, somehow. Without a word, I went out of the art room, feeling in my bones that I was leaving the beloved "den" forever.

I fancied that I was again in the old Mission Street office, the day that I had first gone to work. In a dream, it seemed, all came back.

I saw Davenport, Miss Partington, the genius of the pen and ink portraits; picturesque Napperbach, the German artist; Hayden Jones, poet of the pen; Jules Pages, who had had a painting hung in the French salon; the gentle Joe Rafael, brother of Hynie, the sportsman and Frank, the fighter.

RECALLS COLLEAGUES

Again I saw handsome Wyatt Earp, then Andy Lawrence's bodyguard, telling me stories of the bad, bad West, of his brothers and himself, shooting it out with Bat Masterson and his brothers, until only Bat and he remained.

Those first days with Wee Willie Britt on the staff, a dare-devil reporter! Harrison Fisher, his superb pen and ink sketches.

Joe Quail, the editor, ordering me to the Baldwin Hotel to "please ask Mr. Swinnerton if he won't come down to work!"

Swin had married the Treadwell girl of many millions and came to work only on invitation, wearing a minstrelman's coat and a silk topper.

This weird kaleidoscope still was whirling in my brain as I stepped off the car at its terminal and walked toward the Ingleside shooting lodge. The shotguns were booming as I rounded the clubhouse portico. The first object which met my eyes was TOD SLOAN, standing in his place among the other crack shots, swinging a big double-barreled shotgun into line at fluttering pigeons which seldom got far in their frantic flight for freedom!

THE BIG SHOTGUN

Instantly Tod's shotgun loomed up in tremendous contrast to the tiny man who was doing the shooting. The barrels on that firing piece looked like the huge guns which protrude from the turrets of a batleship.

I began to laugh to myself.

"Gee, that's a funny picture. I'll make the barrels of the gun big and Tod Sloan a speck!"

That was the thought which went into the cartoon in the art room a few hours later. The gang laughed at it. Could it be that good? Charley Tebs, the art director, said:

"Take it down to Lawrence yourself, Hype."

MILESTONE IN LIFE

I went down the winding stairs and gingerly submitted my first cartoon. Andy Lawrence laughed to split his side and I still think he was kidding me. But that caricature of Tod Sloan was my first effort.

Years later, in Jack Doyle's billiard parlor, Tod and I laughed over that cartoon. And now Tod is dead! He was a milestone, a turning point in my life.

(Tomorrow: How Tod Sloan came to adopt the "monkey seat" perch in riding.)

Willigs to Oppose Pro Stars in Cage

The first basketball game in a cage played here in a number of years will be staged at Motor Square Garden Thursday evening when the Cleveland Rosenbaum-Celtics, professional campions of the world, will meet the McKeesport Willigs, undefeated leaders in the Allegheny County League race.

Included in the Celtics' lineup will be all the old favorites, among them Pete Barry, Joe Lapchick, Dutch Dehnert and Carl Husta.

The Willigs, one of the best independent teams operating hereabouts, include in their lineup some of the leading collegiate stars of the district.

BETWEEN ROUNDS

Battling Gizzy's next start will be against Steve O'Malley at Wheeling New Year's afternoon.

Chuck Mullins is in training again following his layoff because of an appendicitis operation and will be back fighting the light-heavyweights within a couple of weeks.

CURRY SOCCER TEAM WINS

By TOM BIRKS

The Sunday and Christmas Day soccer games in this section furnished the game's enthusiasts a real, pre-war brand of football, especially on the Sabbath. Several National Challenge and West Penn cup and District League games were staged.

Sunday, the Curry eleven advanced to the second round of the West Penn cup competition, when it defeated an old rival, the Castle Shannon Riehls at Greenlee Field by a 2-to-1 score. In this particular game, the dope ran true to form. Two weeks ago the Riehls won by a lone goal, with Buff Donnelli out of the lineup. Sunday, Buff came back and scored the goals that eliminated Shannon.

It was an interesting battle. Shannon being the best club in the first half, with Curry having an edge in the second.

Heidelberg lived up to its reputation as a great national amateur cup contestant by defeating the Union Switch and Signal aggregation, 5 to 3, at Heidelberg, in a good game. Stanley Kuten and McCosky were in great form and accounted for the goals.

In the West Penn cup, Morgan ran into a snag at Moon Run, being eliminated by the locals, 2 to 1. The Moon Run outfit got away to a fine start, scoring two goals before Felix Mitchell found the net for Morgan. In the same tourney, Gallatin easily defeated Coraopolis, 3-0.

In the Junior cup, the Avella eleven stopped Shannon, 3-1, and Houston pulled a surprise by defeating Sturgeon, at Sturgeon, 2-1. The Panhandle League action brought Canonsburg a victory over Hills Station, 1-0, and Finks stopped Morgan Juniors, 3-2. In the Allegheny Valley League, Garfield swamped Newfield, 6-1, while the Tuscans had the Tarentum team on the short end of a 2-0 score.

Yesterday, in exhibition tilts, the Union Switch and Signal booters bowed to Harmarville, 3 to 1, and the Riehls and Moon Run teams battled to a 2-2 deadlock.

BELL WINS TITLE

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Berkeley Bell won the metropolitan tennis championship yesterday, defeating Dr. Eugene McCauliff, 8-7, 8-4, 7-5, 6-4, in the final round.

STOGIES LEAD M.-A. LEAGUE FIELDERS

The Wheeling club, second-half champion of the Middle Atlantic League, led the circuit in club fielding during the 1932 season, according to official averages released today. The Stogies as a club fielded .966, one percentage point better than Charleston, which finished second.

Seibert, of Dayton, led the first sackers with an average of .992; Swanson, of Dayton, topped the second basemen with .972; Longnecker, of Charleston, was the best fielding third baseman with .972, and Hitchcock, of Wheeling, was the leading shortstop with .951.

Ragnow, of Huntington, led the league's regular catchers with a mark of .991, while McDonald, of Springfield, led the regular pitchers with .985.

Lowry, of Johnstown, led the regular outfielders in fielding with a mark of .995 for 101 games.

WILSON PHILS' PILOT, REPORT

International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 26.—The precise status of Manager Burt Shotton's affiliation with the Philadelphia National League Club during the coming season remained in doubt today.

Jimmy Wilson, the brilliant backstok acquired by the Phillies in a deal with the St. Louis Cards, was reported telling friends in Bradenton, Fla., where he is sojourning, that he was coming North within a few weeks to take over the managerial reins.

Burt Shotton, the incumbent, stated at Winter Haven, Fla., he is the manager of the Phillies and will be for the next two years by virtue of a contract which doesn't expire until late in 1935.

President Gerald P. Nugent, of the Phillies, said Shotton still was manager, but wouldn't say positively that he will be manager when the 1934 season gets under way.

Meanwhile, dopesters professed to see a haven for Shotton with the Cincinnati Reds, who, they pointed out, have failed to pick a manager to date.

Stanford Given Hard Workout

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Christmas Day was not only another day, but an unusually stiff one, for Stanford University's football squad, training for the New Year's Day game against Columbia.

Coach Tiny Thornhill almost ran his charges ragged up and down the field in an extended session of "wind" exercising and topped this off with signal practice.

Because of the holiday, Coach Thornhill let the Indians off with one practice round yesterday, but there will be two today and tomorrow and possibly the same daily right up to January 1.

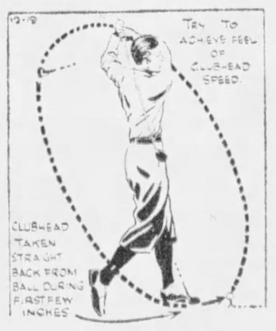
SANTA CLARA WINS

HONOLULU, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Superior deception and better passing gave the University of Santa Clara football team of California a 16-6 victory over the Kamehameha High School alumni before 12,000 spectators here yesterday.

OMAHA ELEVEN BOWS

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 26.—The Portsmouth Spartans defeated Brewers in a professional football game here yesterday, 42-7.

GRAPHIC GOLF



CLUBHEAD FEEL

Gaining an awareness of the actual trajectory of the clubhead in the swing will in most instances come readily to those players who concentrate on this point. Constant attention to details of the stance, wrist action, etc., oftentimes only confuses the issue concerning the correct curve the clubhead should make. Giving attention to the feel of the clubhead as it is started in the backswing and co-ordinating the body so that it will create a proper arc by the cooperation of weight transference and body pivot will give the golfer that sixth sense which will tell him where the clubhead is and when the wrists should be cocked in the backswing. It also will tell him the proper point in the downswing when the wrists must be brought into play to reach the greatest momentum at impact. Some golfers have this sense developed to such a pitch that they can instinctively tell when the clubhead is the slightest bit off and even correct this before impact is made. In the actual backswing it is often a help to take the clubhead straight back from the ball a foot or so. This not only impresses on one's mind the actual straight-on-the-line contact when the clubhead returns but gives a fuller consciousness of keeping the clubhead in mind throughout the swing.

Iowa Quarterback Receives Big Ten Player Award

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Joe Laws, Iowa quarterback, and the leading scorer of the recent Big Ten football campaign, has been named as winner of the "most valuable player" award made annually by the Chicago Tribune.

The newspaper announced that the judges, 23 sports writers, officials and coaches, gave Laws 23 points; Francis Lund, of Minnesota, 17; Jay Berwanger, of Chicago, 8, and Fred Hecker, of Purdue, and Herman Everhardus, of Michigan, 4 each. All were backs and were selected by fellow players as most valuable members of their respective teams.

MORGANS WIN CHARITY FRAY

The Scott Morgan football eleven, of Homewood, defeated the Greensburg Ludwicks, 7-0, at Greensburg yesterday afternoon in a charity game for the Tiny Tim fund, sponsored by the Greensburg Kiwanis Club. A large crowd watched a thrilling game.

Hooks Carroll scored the only touchdown in the second period when he carried the oval across on a line plunge from the two-yard line. The Morgans had obtained the ball on the Ludwicks' 10-yard stripe when one of Potts' punts went awry. The lineup:

Morgans—7.		Ludwick—0.
Raddic	L. E.	Melkerson
Reilly	L.	Kopcsak
Gigliotti	L. G.	Asa
Durzo	C.	Enders
Malinnelli	R. G.	Daugherty

Score by quarters:

Scott-Morgans	0	7	0	0	—7
Touchdown—Carroll. Point after touchdown—Sullivan (place kick). Referee—Moser. Umpire—Alwine. Linesman—McGinnis. Field judge—Marsh.

In the lightweight elimination series, the Twenty-third Ward Republican Club nosed out the Shady Side Locklins, 7-0, at Duquesne University field, while in the junior eliminations, the St. Rosalia Prep Juniors beat the Brighton Club, 6-0, in a tilt preceding the lightweight game.

Another game found the Westlake eleven stopping the Crafton Scholastics, 13 to 6.

Kelly Gets Third Place In Tourney

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—(Universal.)—George Kelly, of Philadelphia, national champion, played Santa Claus to himself by winning two of the play-off games in the world pocket billiards championship yesterday, cinching third place, and qualifying automatically for the 1934 tournament.

The Quaker City Irishman, in the afternoon, defeated James Caras, of Wilmington, Del., 125 to 93 in 27 innings, while in his night game he won, 125 to 100 against Mosconi in 17 stanzas.

Caras, who last year after a play-off for second place, captured that honor, finished fourth, while Mosconi wound up fifth and next year will have to qualify if he enters the tournament.

Donizetti's Opera Opens Rome Season

ROME, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Donizetti's opera, "Lucrezia Borgia," will inaugurate the new season at the Royal Opera House tonight. Gino Marinuzzi will direct.

The new operas to be performed this year are comparatively few. One is "Fiamma," by Ottorino Respighi, another "Cecilia," by Refice. Negotiations are continuing with Mascagni for the production of his new opera, "Nerone."

SARAZEN PARTNER WIN

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 26.—Gene Sarazen and Tommy Goodwin defeated Mike Brady and Prince Fumitaka Konoye, 2 up, in a remote control golf match yesterday. Konoye played Sarazen at the Miami Biltmore Country Club and Brady played Goodwin at the West Palm Beach Country Club, 70 miles north of here. Total score for both partners determined the score for each hole. Each pair kept track of the other by broadcast reports.

HASKELL DEFEATED

TAMPA, Fla., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—The University of Tampa Spartans defeated the Haskell Indians of Lawrence, Kan., yesterday, 7 to 0. The score came as the result of an intercepted pass with but 30 seconds left of the second period of a hard fought intersectional gridiron duel. Russ Torres, a Tampa substitute right halfback, leaped high into the air snagged an aerial from Rene Rotone, an Indian, and sprinted 27 yards to score standing up.

ST. LOUIS VICTOR

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 26.—The St. Louis Race and Fullers, of St. Louis, defeated the Scotland Scots for the second time in three days at soccer here yesterday, 4 to 1.

SANTA FRIEND OF GORNICK AND HOLT

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Yes, Little Rollo, there is a Santa Claus.

If you don't believe it, ask Marty Gornick, one of our brighter young welterweight boxers.

Marty, who hails from Whitaker, was matched to box Dominic Mancini, of the North Side, in the 10-round main bout of the Christmas matinee show in the Moose Temple yesterday afternoon. At 1 o'clock Mancini arrived with a doctor's order prohibiting him from boxing because of an attack of grippe, and a hasty change in the card was made whereby Max Elling, of the Hill, who was to box General Burrow in one of the six-round preliminaries, was moved up as Gornick's opponent in the windup.

KINGFISH UPSETS DOPE

And what did the Kingfish do but confound the spectators and his opponent by stepping out and keeping both feet on the ground to completely befuddle the hard-hitting Gornick and have a commanding lead at the finish.

Only the officials didn't think so. Both judges, L. K. Meininger and Jock Simco, and the referee, Red Robinson, all voted for Gornick, with the fans dissenting. It wound up, after all, being a very merry Christmas for Gornick, who thus renewed his faith in good old Santa, but, somehow, Elling came out of it all with an empty stocking.

The pre-fight dope was that it would be just a question of how long it would take Gornick to tag his man. He never got around to doing that because Maxie took the play away from him. Elling kept circling about the ring, outgeneraling and outscoring his man, and dropped him for no count with a right to the head in the fifth round.

TINCANS AT FINISH

In the last round, Max made the mistake of not playing it safe with his early lead and started to put on a slugging finish and was hurt and had to do some tincanning to avoid further inconvenience, but even Gornick's heavier scoring in this round didn't wipe out the lead Elling had piled up.

Elling weighed 151¼ pounds and Gornick 144½.

The decision in the other 10-round bout also was off the mark. For the third time, Anson Green, Negro middleweight, of Homestead, bested Billy Holt, of Homewood, in a battle in this ring, but for the second time the verdict went to Holt. Green was given the award in their second meeting.

Yesterday Anson overcame the handicap of having his left eye cut in the opening round and outpunched Holt in a majority of the rounds, with Billy coming strong again at the finish. The only knockdown was scored by Green in the sixth round, with a right to the head. Another right sent Holt reeling and he was in trouble during the remainder of the round. The referee's vote, which did not count, went to Green.

BRUCE, DURSO WIN

Due to the moving up of Elling into the main bout, his preliminary spot was eliminated entirely, leaving only two six-rounders. Red Bruce, local Negro light-heavy, defeated Mike Mitchell, of Bellaire, O., in a drab affair, and Johnny Durso, of Oakland, got the judges' decision over Don Asto, of Uniontown, in a bristling opener. A good-sized holiday crowd attended.

Some Tips On Beating Big Odds

By B. C. FORBES

RECOVERY DOESN'T depend upon the three letters NRA, but upon two, US.

SHOW NERVE, not nerves.

Mr Forbes

AVIATORS TRY to rise above fogs and clouds. You?

THERE'S NO substitute for self-help.

A GOOD temper is good business.

EVERY DEED yields its dividend.

'TIS MORE important to be on the up-and-up than to clean-up.

TO SAVE worrying, spend time thinking.

FAITH CAN bring victory. Fear can bring only failure.

SOMETIMES a turn in the road comes when least expected.

THE HARDEST times call for the hardest thinking.

LIFE IS like tennis in that the player who doesn't serve as well usually loses in the end.

WE MAY be self-reliant; we can never be self-sufficient.

STORMS MAKE us appreciate calm.

THE TIMES have challenged all—but haven't licked all.

FIGHT OBSTACLES, not others.

A PERSONAL NRA: Never relinquish ambition.

ANYONE CAN advance when the going is easy.

TO TEST your caliber, ask: "Have I bitterness in my heart?"

Bigness and bitterness never go together.

SERVICE ALONE justified fame.

POSSESSIONS cannot make us genuinely rich.

NRA MAY temporarily get you more; but only you can make yourself worth more.

THE LIFTER finally is lifted.

THINK—of others.

IF ALL of us were as courageous as aviators!

SATISFACTION begets stagnation.

EACH OF us can own a mine more priceless than gold or diamond mines: Memory.

GETTING CROSS hampers you in getting a thing across.

BEAUTIFUL DEEDS are worth more than the most beautiful old masterpieces.

KEEP HOPPING and hoping.

WHAT EPITAPH would you want? What epitaph are you earning?

LET'S HOPE, pray—and act—constructively.

MARKET MAKES SCANT CHANGE IN WEEK

By LEWIS HANEY,
Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—After all the gyrations and palpitations of the past week, the stock market closed on Saturday just about where it stood one week earlier. Much the same could be said of the bond market.

There was a sharp decline on Wednesday when the averages temporarily dropped below nearby resistance levels, but the sharp rally on Friday swept them up to close at or above Wednesday's high.

Neither one of these moves had much fundamental reason. Both were partially corrected on the same day, and both failed to follow through, being succeeded by dullness.

GAINS OFFSET

The week's movements of different stocks were much mixed. Gains in American Smelting, Steel and such stocks were offset by losses in Celanese, National Distillers, etc. The leading motor stocks were strong while the utilities were weak.

Seldom do we see a more confused picture. Particularly on Friday the market was a sort of economic bedlam, opening up with a "gap," falling sharply, and rising again. This was presumably caused by the silver purchase announcement.

The silver move evidently caught the market unawares, although rumors concerning "something to be done for silver" had been going around.

Insofar as the purchase of a few million dollars worth of silver is concerned, the thing is inconsequential. The spot market for the metal remains so far below the announced "price" that anyone can see the market for it cannot be much affected by mere psychological treatment.

PROFIT-TAKING HEAVY

After the first uprush, profit-taking was heavy. Reflection showed that the government is merely straining its credit a little further by overvaluing a limited issue of silver dollars.

But this thought was followed by questions as to whether the move may not be a step toward inflation as for example by issuing silver certificates. The existing willingnes to "tinker" with our monetary system which the move emphasizes, brought on some inflation sentiment and gold stocks rose on Saturday.

(As far as that goes the government is buying several times more dollars worth of gold than it is buying of silver.)

REACTION POSSIBLE

It is difficult to get any definite "feel" of the market's action. At a guess, however, I would expect the averages to go one or two points higher and then react a little. If the volume of trading then declines on weakness and expands on strength, one may expect a further rise.

But if we find a tendency to get dull on advances, sinking spells will be likely.

The real job now before the market is to appraise the outlook for business as affecting the earning of corporations. Government spending is unquestionably furnishing a considerable stimulus to business activity, but it does not necessarily follow this means profit available for dividends. Wages and taxes have to be considered.

PROFITS IN QUESTION

If raw materials go up in price, will consumer resistance or government price regulation allow finished products to rise in proportion? In short, will the stimulus resulting from government spending get into profits, or will it go to pay expenses and to finance reforms and relief?

On the bull side we can say that the market "came back" on Friday after a near collapse, and many of the opening "gaps" were closed. The dullness on Saturday's reaction is favorable. The strength in Big Steel and the buoyancy in DuPont are notable.

On the other hand, the failure on Saturday to rise to Friday's high, and the majority of minus signs suggest some lack of buoyancy. The lowering of bid and asked quotations at the close in a dull market indicates hesitation.

Seems best to limit purchases to periods of reaction and to stick to sound issues likely to benefit by inflation.

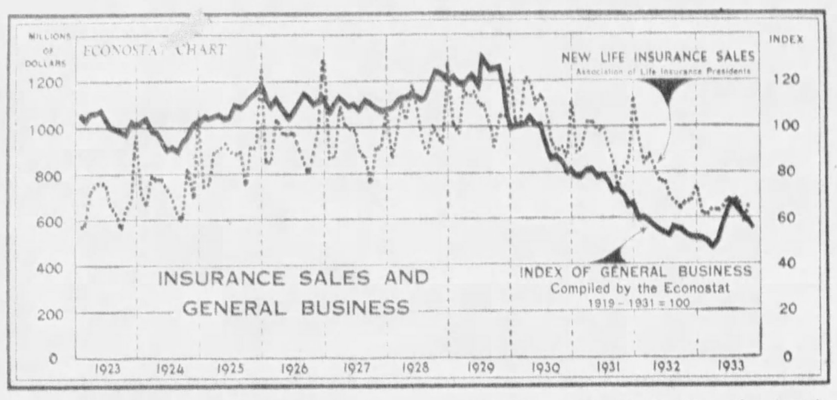
Volume of Insurance Sales Reflects Trend of Business



By JOSEPH STAGG LAWRENCE
Editor, The Econostat

This chart shows the course of insurance sales as reported by the Association of Life Insurance Presidents and general business as compiled by the Econostat. The two lines obviously have a close logical relation to each other. Insurance is a form of thrift. It means that the insured person must set aside a certain portion of his income periodically to create a fund which will cover the accident, death or other contingency for which the insurance is provided.

It is well known that the percentage of savings is directly related to the income of the saver. The worker with a moderate income finds that the greater part or possibly all of it is necessary to take care of the elementary needs, food, clothing and shelter. The margin that remains out of which he accumulates capital equipment and a savings fund to protect him during adversity is often very scant. Thus the volume set aside and known as savings varies not only among different economic groups, but also in the same economic groups as business activity fluctuates.

According to Dr. W. I. King, the American farmer over a period of years has set aside approximately 12 per cent of his earnings as savings. For the worker his proportion is 5 per cent, for the businessman it is 33 per cent. Year in and year out as determined by the 10-year period 1909-1918, the nation saves about 14 per cent of its income.

During depressions this proportion declines and during prosperity it rises. It is for this reason that insurance companies are vitally interested in the course of business. Their line of new insurance shows an irregular decline for the period 1930-1933. With the sharp revival of business during the late spring and early summer it was felt that insurance sales would likewise turn the corner.

It may be noted from the chart that the volume of sales during 1933 has been holding a steady level and apparently is not likely to break below that which it now holds. To some extent the possibility of inflation may act as a deterrent, but the importance of this factor is difficult to appraise.

OIL DRILLING RULE SET

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Resolutions stipulating that plans to govern development of new oil pools shall be submitted directly to Secretary Ickes in accordance with the oil administration's policy of conserving the nation's petroleum resources and prevent waste have been issued. The Secretary declared he would approve no plan which does not adequately protect the correlative rights of all parties having an interest in the pool or that does not permit full conservation of petroleum.

Production from newly-discovered fields or pools will be restricted so as not to interfere unduly with the existing interstate market for petroleum and its products and drilling in new pools will be curbed to prevent unrestricted development of excessive potentials, the oil administrator declared.

Atchison Loadings Up, C. & O.'s Decline

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—The Atchison system handled 20,595 revenue carloads during the week ended December 23, comparing with 22,769 in the week preceding and 19,174 in the like 1932 period.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 26.—Chesapeake and Ohio Railway loadings in the week ended December 23 totaled 23,902 cars, as compared with 25,012 handled in the week preceding and 24,806 in the like 1932 week.

Consumption of U. S. Cotton Shows Gain

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—World consumption of America cotton in November is estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service at 1,206,000 bales, compared with 1,215,000 bales in October and 1,200,000 bales in November 1932.

Consumption for the four months ended November 30 is put by the service at 4,879,000 bales, comparing with 4,640,000 bales in the corresponding period last season.

Bank of France Orders Dividend

PARIS, Dec. 26.—The Bank of France dividend for the second half of 1933 is 100 francs, making 200 francs for the year, the same as paid in 1932.

Sharp Gain Seen In Newspaper Advertising

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—A gain of 12 per cent in newspaper advertising for the last quarter of 1933 was forecast by the Standard Statistics Company, of New York. The company said magazine advertising made slightly smaller gains.

FARM LICENSE PLAN URGED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Congressional action to give the Agricultural Adjustment Act power to prevent farmers not co-operating with administration's production control program from increasing production, was advocated by a number of farm leaders at the conference with Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and AAA officials. The proposal is to license farmers not voluntarily co-operating to prevent them from increasing their production.

In effect, this proposal is a modification of that made by several midwestern governors here recently that all farmers be licensed to produce.

Cuba O. K.'s Export Of Foreign Gold

HAVANA, Dec. 26.—The Cuban Department of Interior has authorized the exportation from Cuba of foreign coined gold. Export of Cuban gold is not permitted, however. Exports of foreign coined gold will be required to pay a public works tax of ¼ of 1 per cent.

The department also has authorized the exportation of gold in the form of bars, old jewelry, etc.

Cash Register Gets Liquor Store Order

The National Cash Register Company has received an order for 200 cash registers from the Pennsylvania State Liquor Commission. This is the largest single sale ever made by Cash Register. The company did not state the dollar amount of the contract.

British Markets Observe Holiday

LONDON, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—All financial exchanges here and in Liverpool were closed today.

BUILDING GIVES SERVICES

The duties of the office building manager have changed considerably in the last few years, according to J. R. Crutchfield, manager of the Law and Finance Building, 425 Fifth avenue.

Today, Crutchfield said, the manager's work only starts when he rents office space. He continued:

"The old style building manager who did nothing but rent space and never see his tenants after that is outmoded today. To my way of thinking his work only starts then—you must give your tenants extra services if you want to be modern."

Some of the services that Crutchfield offers his tenants are messenger service, conference rooms, office furniture at dealers' prices, furniture refinishing and an expert's advice on office arrangement.

Forecasts of Year End To Show Optimism

By GEORGE H. SNYDER
Business Editor

THE TIME is approaching for newspapers to harvest the usual year-end crop of business forecasts. It is unlikely that business leaders will be as reckless in their predictions as they were in the years of good business or in the early years of the depression. But they are likely to be quite optimistic and there is some basis for optimism.

Business leaders actually can make predictions of better times to come without talking through their hats. Predictions always are hazardous but the optimists most certainly have some impressive evidence of recovery which really has taken place. They also have grounds for making some reasonably cheerful deductions concerning the future.

Inventory Shows Change in Luck

WHEN WE TAKE our year-end stock of the business situation we find the following reasons for being cheerful:

The year just ending will be the first one since 1928 which has ended with business at a higher rate than at the previous year-end.

Business certainly is not booming, but an impressive rally from the low point took place last spring. We lost about half of this gain during the late summer and early fall, but the trend again has been upward during the final weeks of the year.

The difficult period of adjustment to radically changed methods of doing business and changed relations between employes and employers appears to have come to an end. In spite of many complaints in the early days of the NRA, business seems to be fairly satisfied with the new deal.

Confidence Returns In Bank Structure

A YEAR AGO there was a general distrust of banks and this was followed by the crisis of last March. At present, however, the banks enjoy full confidence of the public and many of the closed institutions have reopened or else have made material progress in liquidating.

Security prices are far above a year ago although they have reacted from the high levels. The action of the stock market has been roughly parallel to that of industrial activity during most of the year.

The NRA and the improvement in business have brought an end to the cutting of wages with the vicious consequence of declining purchasing power.

The government efforts to relieve unemployment and to expand purchasing power have been slow in taking effect but they are beginning to be felt.

IBM MARKETS THREE NEW PRODUCTS

International Business Machines Corporation has acquired three new products, a time stamp, a cost recorder and a dating stamp, from the Instograph Company, Ltd., of Oakland, Cal. All assets relating to these products, including existing stocks of the devices and necessary manufacturing equipment were purchased.

The three new products have been added to the line of the International time recording division. Their production will be started shortly at the main plant of International Business Machines Corporation, at Endicott, N. Y., where the manufacturing equipment is being transferred.

The main feature of the new recording products, which are operated electrically and are used to stamp business data on correspondence and accounting forms, is their automatic operation upon the insertion of a sheet of paper of any thickness. The devices are compact and modern in their construction.

This is the third group of products acquired by the company this year, the others being the Electromatic Typewriter and the Radiotype lines.

Last-Minute Rush Marks Yule Trade

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—A sharp spurt in retail sales last week cleaned out store stocks thoroughly, and a flood of last-minute purchases came into the local markets. Many buyers are expected in the market this week for post-Christmas and January sales goods.

STOCK MARKET AND STAPLES LISTLESS

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Tired financial markets, apparently overlooked by Santa Claus, drifted rather disconsolately today, after their Christmas recess, and neither stocks nor staples were able to make any appreciable headway.

There were faint rumors of forthcoming monetary developments at Washington, but these seemingly made little impression on trading circles. With the gold rate holding at its last week's level, the dollar drooped in foreign exchange dealings. Sterling advanced some four cents and French francs were around .08 of a cent higher. Wheat, corn, cotton and most other commodities were narrow. Silver futures were a little heavy. Bonds were dull and mixed.

Silver mining shares were soft. United States Smelting losing 3, American Smelting 2 and Cerro de Pasco 1. Homestake was also off 3. American Telephone was again without noticeable support and sagged nearly 3 at one time. Others off a point or more included United States Steel, Allied Chemical, American Tobacco B, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, Du Pont, Western Union, Consolidated Gas, New York Central, Commercial Solvents, United States Industrial Alcohol and Continental Can.

Announcement of the RFC that its domestic gold purchases up to last Saturday had aggregated $17,594,000 indicated metal to the amount of $1,912,000 had been acquired during the week. There was no statement regarding foreign gold buying.

Heaviness of some issues was attributed by brokers partly to belated tax-selling for the purpose of establishing both profit and loss records during 1933. Beginning Thursday such transactions must be carried out on a cash basis if they are to be made part of the year's income tax statements.

WHEAT PRICES TURN UP

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—An upward trend showed itself in grain prices today after a sag at the outset. Low temperature over the United States winter wheat belt had more or less stimulating effect as an incentive to buyers. Opening unchanged to ⅜ lower, wheat afterward showed a general advance. Corn started at ⅜ off to ⅛ up, and subsequently rose all around.

With but little snow Southwest or West, and with below zero weather at various points, the outlook for damage to winter wheat was a source of uneasiness.

Corn and oats prices derived independent firmness from continued attention to the fact that on the basis of government loans corn was worth 45 cents a bushel to the farmer sealed in his own crib. Provisions were responsive to higher prices for grain.

SEEK TO CHECK RADICAL BANK REFORMS

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—A suggested slogan for 1934: "A Year of Accelerated Economy Recovery."

If recovery is to be the aim, perhaps it will be necessary to hold in check the zeal for radical reform, which might in its near-term results prove deflationary.

Mr. Rukeyser

The greatest social catastrophe would come from a breakdown in the economic structure, which needs to be restored to health and vigor.

The gag on the Federal Reserve Bulletin, which was apparently at work in keeping the usual editorial comment out of the November issue, has happily been lifted in the current issue.

Fact finding is a useful social tool. Propaganda never built a safe bridge.

GUARANTY STANDS TEST

The Guaranty Trust Company is the only one of the big three New York banks to go through the depression without changing its executive head. The policies of William C. Potter, the president, have stood a rigorous test.

The Guaranty survey, which reflects Potter's thinking, expresses the view that certain necessary banking reforms have not yet been enacted into law.

Arguing for a unified banking system, the survey further advocates a requirement that organizers of new banks obtain a certificate from duly constituted authorities showing that the banking requirements of the community are not being adequately served by existing banks and that the character, experience and record of the proposed management are satisfactory.

On the question of branch banking, it urges that banks be permitted to acquire branches only for the purpose of taking over existing banks or to provide banking facilities in localities where adequate facilities did not already exist. This is designed to prevent overproduction of credit creating machinery.

SELF GOVERNMENT

In urging self government for the banks, it asks that the Federal Reserve banks be permitted to name half the members of the Federal Reserve Board, all of whom are now appointed by the President.

As a leader of the liquidity movement, the guaranty proposes rigorous regulation of the character of bank assets, suggesting that at least half of a bank's deposits should be in liquid assets, such as cash, United States government securities, bankers' acceptances, loans eligible for rediscount with the Federal Reserve banks and a limited list of other securities which might be made eligible for borrowing from the reserve banks.

It also proposes a maximum ratio of deposit liabilities to capital funds.

Since the objective is to have better banking, perhaps Potter, who has demonstrated that he can run a financial institution safely, is entitled to a hearing. He has long been on the firing line, checking his judgment against future events.

In our efforts to define the requirements of safe banking, it is appropriate to study the anatomy and physiology of well conducted institutions.

PUBLIC'S RIGHT

Banks are quasi-public institutions, and the public has a right to demand good management.

Poorly-run banks in this depression have become a contingent liability of the federal government, which has aided them through direct loans and through the subscription of additional capital.

Incidentally, the policy of the RFC, in buying preferred stock, goes to the root, as it replaces capital which has been lost.

The next step should be to enforce policies which will tend to prevent a recurrence of the blunders which brought wholesale losses.

As the year ends, reports of retail sales in the holiday period constitute a bright spot. Manufactures are at the ebb of seasonal decline, though steel mills have become more active. The automobile industry is busily at work on new models.

FEDERAL GOLD PRICE HELD AT $34.06

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt's monetary program entered the last week of 1933 today without official indications of any immediate new step toward an international gold understanding similar to that reached on silver.

The first price for domestic gold set by the government after the Christmas holiday was $34.06 an ounce, the sixth successive repetition of this figure. This RFC quotation was $2.70 above the first price posted two months ago and $13.39 above gold's mint value.

WORKING ON BUDGET

While the monetary program progressed apparently unchanged, the President and his financial advisors were devoting increased attention to polishing the budget message which goes to Congress next week, the day after Mr. Roosevelt submits his own report on the state of the union.

These preparations were pushed at a time when the federal deficit crept close to the billion-dollar mark in the latest Treasury figures dated only 10 days from the end of the calendar year and the first six months of the fiscal period.

It stood at $963,518,000 as compared with $1,588,132,000 a year ago.

RECEIPTS EXPAND

Increased receipts, due chiefly to new taxes, accounted for 436 million dollars of this $624,600,000 difference between last year's deficit and the present one.

The administration break-down of the outgo allotted $1,416,803,000 to ordinary operating expenditures and $979,825,000 to emergency ones, of which $532,733,000 for the RFC constituted the largest single item.

Sinking fund operations also represented a big difference between the position of the Treasury at this time and a year ago.

During the present fiscal year the government has put $17,287,000 in the sinking fund as against a corresponding allotment last year of $418,764,000.

RFC PREPARES RAIL AID

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Steps to assist the 2,300 million dollar railroad financing next year were under consideration today by the RFC.

Chairman Jesse H. Jones said the government must help, but it cannot carry the entire load. Several railroads, including the New York Central and the Illinois Central, have already approached the corporation as to this financing.

Jones said he believed less than 400 banks in the country would fail to qualify for the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. It was thought likely that some of these could be brought into the insurance fund after January 1.

Jones disclosed the corporation had bought 525,631 ounces of gold, valued at $17,594,000.

A total of 4,170 banks have applied to the corporation for the purchase of preferred stock, 3,487 having been approved to the extent of $697,400,000. For deposit liquidation 582 million dollars have been loaned to 1,352 banks.

Wyoming Taking Dude Ranch Lead

CODY, Wyo.—(INS.)—Wyoming will be nationally advertised as a recreation country under a program outlined by dude ranchers of this region at a recent meeting here. I. H. Larom, of Valley, Wyo., president of the Dude Wranglers' Association, pointed out that many Wyoming counties were dependent almost entirely on summer visitors for revenue, but that the business had declined because of lack of advertising spirit.

King George Wins $5 Meal Ticket

NORTH ADAMS, Mass.—King George may not know it, but he is entitled to $5 worth of free meals in a restaurant, and a ticket to that effect was mailed to Buckingham Palace.

The restaurant held a contest and some wisecracker wrote the name "King George." So the manager turned a deaf ear to claims of several persons when that ticket won the prize.

Truck Traps Driver, Freed by Firemen

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—While adjusting air brakes under his truck, Neil Bradley, 33, of Waterbury, Conn., became entangled in the transmission and was trapped for 45 minutes while firemen sought to free him.

STEEL OUTPUT NEAR 40%

International News Service.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 26.—Its morale "greatly strengthened," the steel industry today was writing the finis to 1933 with a burst of activity even greater than in the peak year of 1929 and looking forward to 1934 as a banner year for recovery, according to the magazine Steel.

Operations during the current week will hover around 40 per cent of capacity, marking the first time in many years that there has not been a sharp decline at the end of the year. The review said:

"A December, with shipments highest for the month in many years and heavier demands just ahead, has greatly strengthened the morale of the industry."

Many sources in the industry expect operations to hit 70 per cent by late spring. There will be a lull for the first 15 days of the new year, but immediately afterward automobile manufacturers and railroads are expected to make heavy purchases to maintain the market until spring.

SELDEN SELLS OIL INTEREST

OIL CITY, Pa., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Col. E. V. D. Selden last night announced he has sold his half interest in the Crystal Oil Works, one of the principal refineries in Oil City, to his partner, Maj. J. A. Fawcett.

The 75-year-old former Army officer, however, is continuing his activities in the producing business as well as in numerous civic and philanthropic enterprises. He and Maj. Fawcett had been in partnership for 36 years.

Col. Selden's father and grandfather were prominent attorneys in Pittsburgh and Meadville. He has a brilliant Army record dating back to 1888, and was the last president of the Oil Exchange, which set the price of oil during the heydey of the "black gold" boom.

U. S. Not to Publish List Of Insured Banks

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Reversing previous plans, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation has decided not to make public the names of banks either qualifying or failing to qualify for membership in the insurance plan, Chairman Walter J. Cummings told Universal Service.

A special meeting of the board of directors will be held today to ratify this decision, he said.

Banks qualifying for membership will receive certificates from the corporation this week. They will have the privilege of advertising the fact in local newspapers.

Fear of mistakes in transmitting the names of banks to newspapers throughout the country, if they were simultaneously released from Washington, was the reason for the change in plans, Cummings declared.

The number of banks failing to qualify would be very small, probably between 500 and 600, he added:

"The percentage of such banks compared to more than 13,000 banks in the nation will be negligible."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Walter J. Cummings probably will retire in mid-January as chairman of the Deposit Insurance Corporation.

His resignation, long rumored, was believed today to have been set definitely to take effect two weeks after the insurance fund becomes effective on bank deposits up to $2,500.

The pressure of private affairs was the reason advanced for the withdrawal of Cummings, who holds also a post as special assistant to Secretary Woodin, his close friend.

OPERATOR 13

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

(Republished from Cosmopolitan Magazine and soon to appear on the screen as a Cosmopolitan production made for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and starring Marion Davies.)

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

They rode on at a canter and turned their horses this side of Glendale and the inn, because, the Negro warned Gail, it was becoming a rendezvous for Confederate spies and Chancellor might be lounging there if he were in Richmond.

"Yuh boun' to find de Secesh spies a-loafin' 'long o' dis hyar river, ma'am," said Scobell, as they turned toward the city, "all de way dis side Wilcox's Wharf cl'ar to Glendale an' de bluff. 'Spec dis hyar Chance'ler hangin' roun' de wharf less'n de gunboats done scare him."

"Try to learn whether he is here," murmured Operator 13, and let out her horse for a hard gallop—perhaps to ease the intermittent wrath that heated her cheeks when she thought of John Gailliard and of her golden eyelashes and of the perfidy of man.

When she arrived home and had her bath she drew on her rose-tinted boudoir robe, and, lying deep in her armchair, thought about Gailliard.

Puzzled

She lifted a hand mirror and looked at her pig-eyes and the golden-veiled provocation lurking in their dusky depths.

What the deuce was it in men that provoked their sensuality? Novelty! The male instinct for it seemed to be insatiable. And here it was, full-flowered, lurking in her baffling eyes. She recognized it, but she was hurt and resentful because he had responded.

For there was no mistaking when a man was hit. A girl always knows it. Operator 13 knew it now and it angered her. It alarmed her, too, because this wretched young man had been bowled over by her when she was disguised as a quadroon laundress in Jeb Stuart's camp at Bower House, and also he had been swept off his philandering feet when first he saw her white skin at Blythedale. And now the same thing again, damn him!

But the sullen phase passed; youth, health, the tingling stimulation of incessant danger are tonics for hurt hearts. Also for the first time the humor of it faintly appealed to the girl. But she couldn't lie here and sulk and speculate; her days were full of busy moments.

First she wrote her news for Col. Sharpe, using the code printed microscopically in inflammably impregnated jeweler's tissue—the only incriminating evidence of her profession which she had dared bring with her and which a candle flame could instantly convert into a flash and puff of smoke."

Billy Dix, the "vegetable boy," was already waiting at the back door, ostensibly to be paid for the breakfast strawberries and other "truck;" so she drew slippers over her bare feet, belted her robe with a sash, and went down and paid him. And with the Confederate bills went the dangerous memorandum.

Social Call

Now she was ready to dress and do her shopping on Main street and she put on her little primrose yellow straw hat with its rolled-up brim, her primrose gown with its smart, bouffant skirt and elbow sleeves displaying the fine undersleeves of puffed cambric tightly banded at the slender wrists. Her pretty victoria was waiting with Scobell on the box, and she drove immediately to the shops.

The streets were much obstructed by troops and army wagons, continuing the movement about which she already had written Col. Sharpe. So it was late when the girl returned home and dressed for calling.

She called at the picturesque and silent White House, brooding sadly in shadow under its fluted pillars; drank a dish of tea with the Prestons and a glass of ancient sherry with Mrs. Penn; stopped to read the bulletin on her way home, and finally arrived there, only to throw off her clothes and bathe and prepare for the theatricals in aid of all hospitals which were to take place at the Lee Stanfields.

Premonition, feminine intuition, clairvoyance, whatever it was that made her shiver now and then while her maid dressed her, she was convinced that she would meet Gailliard at the Stanfields.

And she did.

He was one of the very first men she encountered; and perhaps it was anger as well as the shock of fulfillment that flushed her cheeks when she saw the fatuous look in his eyes that she had seen in the infatuated gaze of other men. Her recognition of him was cool. They sat far apart at dinner, but she knew his eyes were constantly drifting toward her, and she longed to punish him, though deep in her mind and heart she was certain that he loved the girl she really was.

After dinner, the theatricals and charades were rather tame for her because they already had been given in aid of the orphanage and she had sung the same songs and danced the same dances.

A Snubbed Youth

Later, the charming old ballroom as given over to dancing. She danced with one-armed young heroes; with bandaged boys; with lame lads, slowly and gently. And all the while she was aware that her perfidious lover was hanging about within range of her breezy, perfumed skirts, and never even glanced at him.

But he got her after a while and they danced—the girl angrily thrilling at the contact, flushed, uncommunicative. She desired neither food nor champagne, it seemed, but went with him sullenly to the omnipresent "flirtation room."

The boy was inclined to flattery and to subjects romantic, but she dryly sidetracked him with inquiries military; and got nothing except the explanation of why Gen. James Longstreet was familiarly called Peter Longstreet or Slow Peter, and why Gen. John Bell Hood was known to his intimates only as Sam.

That low, husky-sweet voice which she had prepared to employ with her lover did not seem necessary, so absolutely unconscious was he of her identity. "It's the pig-eyes," she thought, "and the damned mop of yellow hair."

He told her that he had known her brother, and she betrayed enough well-bred sensibility at mention of his name. "Once," said the boy, "he showed me a miniature of you, Miss Cleburne; and I declare it is a perfect likeness."

"Oh, do you think so?"

Reckless Thrust

"Perfect, ma'am. I should have recognized you anywhere."

"Probably," she said, "you are very clever at recognizing people even in disguise."

She seemed unable to restrain her propensity for flirting with destruction. She had done it before with this man, who always seemed to excite the reckless deviltry in her.

"What do you say to that?" he asked.

"Aren't you one of Mr. Gaston's bright young gentlemen?"

The careless raillery made him wince; and, for the first time, he became conscious of her hostility. "You seem to know, ma'am," he rejoined.

"Yes," she said flippantly, "I know one when I see one. Gen. Windsor's office is swarming with secret agents and detectives; and, in my opinion, they all look alike as so many Chinamen."

"And you think I resemble the others?" he asked, trying to speak lightly.

"Do you know," she said, "that I am about to say something that will shock and surprise you?"

"What may that be, ma'am?" he asked.

"That I don't know what you look like."

He was painfully flushed when he said very quietly: "I am sorry I seem to have offended you, Miss Cleburne, but I don't know how I did it."

She smiled. "I'll probably forgive you, whatever it is. Will you tell me a pretty story to amuse me? I mean a real story."

"Aren't there too many of those in the newspapers?"

"You know what I mean. Tell me a story about yourself, Capt. Gailliard. You've had adventures. You have lived many an exciting story, I am sure."

"Why are you so sure?"

"You look it. You have a reckless face."

"You said you did not know what I looked like."

At that she laughed outright. "Well, I do, then. Your features were imprinted upon my—mind—mind the moment I met you on the river road. Probably you consider this the confession of a sentimental and too impressionable girl. Do you?"

"I wish I dared."

Bewildered

"Aren't all Mr. Gaston's young gentlemen rash and daring? Courage, Capt. Gailliard; faint heart never yet pressed a pretty hand. And this is the Stanfield's flirtation room you know."

Her outrageous provocation bewildered the boy. He was afraid of her irony, too.

"I thought," she said, "that flirtation always is the first inclination of a spirited young gentleman."

"It is," he said.

"But you don't seem to do anything about it. Maybe you are married. Or perhaps you are already in love."

After a moment: "He shall pay for that silence," she said to herself; but she masked her inward rage with an enchanting smile out of those furtive golden-veiled eyes, provocative and sly.

"Well," she said with a little sigh, "any girl can love a number of men and I thought men were like that, too. Shall we stroll on the veranda? It's darker there."

They rose, and she took his arm. On the gallery the scent of roses filled the night. There was nobody else there. In the silvery star-dusk he kissed her before she could avoid him.

"That," he said, "is for your strangely lovely eyes."

PICTORIAL EDUCATION

"FATHER NILE"—SCHOOL OF ALEXANDRIA

Besides the great schools of Rhodes and Pergamon (Asia Minor) of the Hellenistic period of Classical Art, another rose in Alexandria, the city in Egypt, founded by Alexander the Great.

Products of this school penetrated Italy, greatly influencing Roman Art and contributing also to Christian Art some of its principal characteristics. The broad, pictorial and naturalistic style of Alexandrian Art manifests itself imposingly in this Statue of the Nile.

The Alexandrian school advanced painting greatly, by introducing landscape; its striking decorativeness captured rich Romans desiring artistic luxury. Some panels of this period found in excavated dwellings of Pompeii and Herculaneum show brilliant, harmonious colors, charming figures and remarkable skill.

In the Vatican, Rome.

NUPTIAL—ROMAN REPRODUCTION OF GREEK ORIGINAL

Panels are the only kind of easel paintings left by Alexandrians. Encaustic paintings, another kind, originated in Egypt, were executed with hot iron tools with colored melted wax and paint. Nuptial is a remarkable panel.

In the Musee du Louvre, Paris.

PORTRAIT OF A GIRL

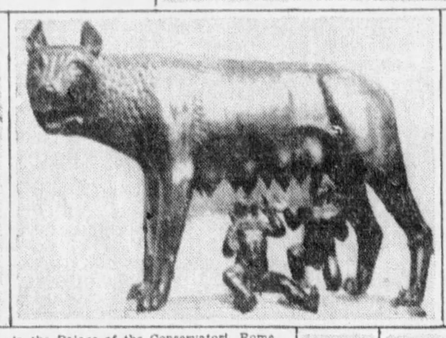
An encaustic painting. Note exactness and realism.

MINOR GREEK ARTS

Besides works of high and ambitious art, Greeks created smaller objects with great ingenuity and skill, radiating life and sentiment.

Tanagra figures (terra cotta, named after a rich depository in Tanagra, Boetia), are charming statuettes. Vases of perfect style with delicate paintings, utensils, lamps, cups, weapons, etc., of bronze, silver and other metals, gems (engraved stones), cameos (miniature reliefs) and coins are some of their creations of high merit.

A RED-FIGURED VASE

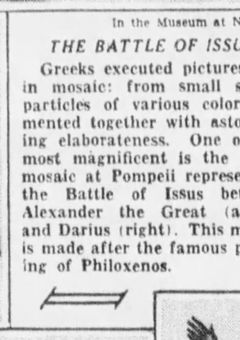


In the Palace of the Conservatori, Rome.

WOLF WITH ROMULUS, REMUS

The Wolf is an Etruscan bronze, the twins are addition of the cinquecento. Etruscans, of Aegean origin, migrated into Central Italy (fourteenth, thirteenth, eleventh centuries B. C.), brought elements of Oriental and Archaic Greek Art, moulding them into their own. Their art flourished in Central Italy, including Latium and Rome, from the seventh to the third century, B. C., when Etruscans were conquered by the Romans.

Etruscan, a second phase of Classical Art, never attained maturity, but its realistic style produced the fundamental elements out of which Roman Art was partly evolved.



In the Museum at Naples.

THE BATTLE OF ISSUS

Greeks executed pictures also in mosaic: from small stone-particles of various colors cemented together with astonishing elaborateness. One of the most magnificent is the floor-mosaic at Pompeii representing the Battle of Issus between Alexander the Great (above) and Darius (right). This mosaic is made after the famous painting of Philoxenos.

The Bug and His All-American

We have waited long before selecting our All-America football team.

We decided to give the boys a chance to become citizens.

First of all, we pick Dorgginwhack, of the Smithsonian Institution for fullback. He did great work in the Egyptian mummy room.

Snarksnaffer, of Bartenders' Curriculum, is left bouncer. He covered himself with glory and sawdust on repeal day when the old grads played the mounted police.

Wimpoosh, of Tarzan University, is the kicker. His average for the season's kicking is 85 yards. And never in the direction of the class room.

We have a nimble pair of foot soldiers in our tackles, Grabbo and Slammo, of the Viaduc Finishing School. Grabbo is a stone-wall on defense except for the gate.

Tinkersdarn, of Punk Prep, is the best field general in the world. No one will ever forget how he handled his men in the last checker tournament. When it comes to discovering weak spots he is the chief germ. His best bit of quick thinking was when they started throwing hand grenades on the Marne. He called for a free catch.

Wobbles, of Southern Alaska, gets the job at end. He takes the tiger's place in "Bring 'Em Back Alive."

The tiger is out because the python went around him.

That's all we need for our team. The Bug gets the job as water boy. Three rings of the bell brings him out. We serve water exclusively. Unless otherwise stated.

The Bug is the May pole of the collegiate huddle. We go out to the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day to knock off those tough Californians. We should go great in a rose bowl. Why, boys, we train in a rock garden and play all the home games in a junk yard.

The betting is 10 to 1 that The Bug's team will finish the season with an unrecorded blemish.

We're hot. Started the season with 11 men and never used a substitute. Our variety is known as the hand laundry. Because we are all iron men.

American Markets Should Be Closed Entirely to All Products of Defaulter France

THE STATE DEPARTMENT announces that the "deadlock" with France over the importation of French wine has been broken.

It would be more truthful to say that the Department of State has again revealed its utter incapacity in the field of international negotiation—even in a matter so simple as to make fumbling inexcusable.

France, anxious to appropriate as much as she can of the recreated American market for wines and liquors, found that her original quota of 784,000 gallons had been quickly exhausted in the active demand following upon repeal.

She sought to double her quota, hoping in due time to double it again, and later, no doubt, to double it once more.

But she ran into difficulties. The selfish French policy of quotas and embargoes as applied to foreign goods rose up to plague her; and the spreading demand throughout this country that her wines should be excluded altogether as a mark of our resentment against the long succession of French defaults, was perceived to be a source of grave danger to French trade.

France became conciliatory. She would swap concessions. If we would take her wines, she would take some apples from us—at least until next March.

France was willing to trade a rabbit for a horse.

Was ever a more fatuous proposal conceived? Could anyone have the hardihood to submit so one-sided a proposal EXCEPT TO A BLUNDERHEAD SUCH AS OUR STATE DEPARTMENT HAS INVARIABLY REVEALED ITSELF?

IT IS DIFFICULT to believe that the State Department does not know the black record of France—France, the defaulter on its debts, the repudiator of every obligation.

Is it possible that the significance of such a record is not felt and understood by the men in charge of our foreign relations? Do they not see the contempt for us, the contempt for them, that is implicit in the way France treats us?

Can it be that the deep resentment of every American is not shared by that section of the administration which speaks through the Department of State?

We had an opportunity by the total exclusion of French wines, to do something decisive and vigorous.

We could have told France bluntly and to her face that we did not propose to do business with an incorrigible defaulter. This would have been a good thing for France and a heartening thing to our people.

Americans do not relish the thought that their dignity, interests and feelings are committed to the care of dull and spineless officials whose idea of international negotiations is that they involve merely the surrender of one's shirt.

THE ARRANGEMENT just announced is more than a disadvantageous one to American interests. It is a grievous injury to our national position as to every item and detail of our relations with France.

Who will respect us if we do not exact respect?

A dishonest debtor will never pay us, so long as we ignore his defaults and assure him that repudiation will not impair the ardor of our friendship.

France sees fit to ignore her vast indebtedness to this country.

She will not even speak to us of her defaults. Not so, will she give herself the painful reminder that she is a debtor—a bad debtor, in fact, with a shady record. By ignoring her obligations she hopes to forget their existence. In this way, France reasons, she will re-establish her peace of mind and self-esteem.

OUR STATE DEPARTMENT IS APPARENTLY WILLING TO DO ALL IT CAN TO HELP FRANCE IN THIS SELF-DECEPTION—TO COVER THE NAKEDNESS OF HER SHAMELESS DEFAULTS AND BRAZEN REPUDIATIONS.

Oh, for another Andrew Jackson again to deal with this practiced and persistent defaulter in the drastic manner she deserves.

THE TRUE American policy in dealing with France is to bar the importation, not of wines only, but of every French product, if such a course is necessary to bring France to realize that she has treated America scornfully, contemptuously and falsely—the America which saved her from overpowering enemies and preserved her from destruction.

WITH SUCH A COUNTRY THERE CAN BE NO COMPROMISE, nor—so long as it is UNREPENTANT—can there be ANY DEALINGS!

AND SO FAR AS THE PATRIOTIC SELF-RESPECTING PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES ARE CONCERNED, THERE IS NO DESIRE FOR DEALINGS!

A Slum Clearance Hint

Care Must Be Taken in Eradicating Insanitary Dwellings That Squalor Is Not Merely Shifted

Mayor-elect W. N. McNair talks of eradicating certain slums by taking possession of insanitary dwellings on which the taxes have not been paid and razing them.

Another suggestion is that residences which have been condemned by the Department of Health as unfit for human habitation be torn down by Civil Works Administration workers.

Slum clearance is highly desirable in the interest of public health and morals. But care must be taken that in eradicating a slum its squalor is not merely shifted to some other section.

There is a hint in New York City's experience.

An East Side slum in which 386 families lived has been vacated to make room for Knickerbocker Village, a tax-exempt model housing project financed by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The slum was shocking in its squalor. Only 25 of the 386 families had bathing facilities. Virtually all the families desired to move into the new apartments; but now it is found that only three will be able to do so. The rentals will be too high for the others.

Eighty-three per cent of the dispossessed families are moving into other slums. Their living habits will remain unchanged, according to a study by sociologists.

Let Pittsburgh by all means get rid of its slums. But let provision be made at the same time for habitations for those who are to be dispossessed.

People do not live in slums from choice, but because they cannot afford to live elsewhere.

Art to Teach History

Postoffice Paintings and Courthouse Plaques Will Serve an Educational Purpose

Pictures descriptive of important incidents in Pittsburgh's history are to be painted on the walls of five courtrooms in the new Federal Building.

Tablets in memory of 25 distinguished citizens of Allegheny County are to be placed in a corridor of the Courthouse.

Pittsburgh's history is rich in materials for vivid, dramatic pictures. Certainly one of the pictures should show the French at Fort Duquesne, Washington should be shown on the occasion of one of his visits to the forks of the Ohio. And think what a stirring picture could be made of the defeat of Maj. James Grant and his regiment of Scotch Highlanders by the French and Indians on September 12, 1758—the Highlanders marching to battle with the bagpipes playing, the half-naked Indians, the picturesque French!

But the murals should not all—nor nearly all—be military in character. There is much that is pictorial in our peacetime history, in our industrial and commercial accomplishments, in our achievements in science and art. A scene on the canal, which flowed near the Sun-Telegraph Building in Telegraph Square; Brashear at work on a telescope lens; Foster writing an immortal song; our pioneer iron and glass works—these are among a multitude of suggestions that come to mind.

We note that Col. C. C. McGovern, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, though himself a military man and public official, has chosen neither a soldier nor statesman, but a philanthropist and merchant as the subject of one of the new memorial plaques. The late J. M. Gusky is to have the honor.

The late Capt. William B. Rodgers, riverman, also has been given a tablet in the Courthouse.

If the others chosen for Allegheny County's Hall of Fame are of the caliber of these two gentlemen, the citizens will have cause for pride in all of them.

Both the Courthouse and Federal Building projects should arouse civic spirit.

Louis A. Behr

Pittsburgh Loses a Good Citizen in the Death of the President of the Rosenbaum Company

The immigrant boy who comes to America with few resources except a sterling character and keen intelligence and who, overcoming serious obstacles, becomes an outstanding figure among the community's solid citizens—Pittsburgh has been the scene of many such a story, but it never loses its glamor and its inspirational power.

Louis A. Behr, president of the Rosenbaum Company and chairman of the board of directors of the National Department Stores, was the hero of just such a romance. He came to the United States from Germany in 1883 and worked his way up from the bottom.

Mr. Behr was a good citizen as well as a good merchant. His philanthropies were numerous and notable.

He was a good friend, too, and his passing causes many to grieve.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Certainly no person outside of Irvin Cobb, has been the peg upon which so many stories, ribald and otherwise, have been hung as Dorothy Parker. Everyone, giving a tryout to some imagined nifty, credits it first to the queen of the Algonquins Round Table.

This gives it especial plume. If she told it—it must be good. Mrs. Parker is consequently looked upon as a perpetual sky-rocket of flashy ziz-boom-ahh. Quite a number of her japeries, I presume, have added largely to the gaieties of nations. On occasions, she has been a card.

Yet many subtleties accredited to her have been Louis Long's and a number of even lowlier mots, Frisco's. Mrs. Parker's mood could be only one of eternal flippancy to author all. Her friends say she is not always making hay. More often her mood is of somber attenuations. Her world strikes her as drab.

Then she suggests the gravity of her dourer poems. There are times when her intimates do not see her for long stretches. Most of the cracks of the bars are likewise hung on Wilson Mizner. Not half are his. Mark Twain is still sponsoring many chestnuts he probably never heard.

Incidentally, about the brightest of feminine wise-crackers in moons was, of all people, the British novelist, E. M. Delafield. One of her triumphs over the tradition the English lack humor was at the Dutch treat, a weekly grouping of artists and writers solely of male persuasion. She faced them easily, climaxing a brave little speech with a smoking room honey. When laughter subsided, the gentlemen arose, as though by prearrangement, and let go a rousing cheer.

Barbara Hutton's glossy and newly acquired Prince created but slight ripple upon returning to America. All about the Sinclair Lewises: Lewis is turning out a novel, tentatively called "The Railroader," the human side through the eyes of a faithful conductor hero. He is also finishing up a drama of the Civil War in collaboration with a Chicago dramatic critic. Mrs. Lewis, the former Dorothy Thompson, has completed a play of the Nazi regime and is on a lecture tour.

* * *

Lewis is frequently prodded by implications his attitude toward America is cynical. He roars fiercely at such insinuations. And to see him chuffing up and down a room in apoplectic refutation is convincing. He thinks America the most glorious of nations and his criticisms are because he loves and wants it always to maintain supremacy.

* * *

One of Lewis' closest friends is Frazier Hunt, who now lives within walking distance of the Lewis home in Bronxville. They enjoyed the same sort of neighboring when both resided in London during their formative days. To watch them dramatize the characters of their respective small towns—Alexis, Ill., and Sauk Center, Minn.—is about as much fun as a fellow can have.

Speaking of fun, is there any so cataclysmic as watching Ted Healy cuff his stooges about? Healy authors a definite originality in low comedy and is funnier by six laps than Ed Wynn, Eddie Cantor and the Four Marxes rolled into one. His hobbledy walk is an art in itself. And the raspy jeer: "What you getting—sentimental?" when a spittoon hair-cutted stooge just misses braining him with a club in unforgettable horse-play.

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

Mystery

How strange, when most we strive to see
Through changing veils of place and time
The world about with clarity,
To set life's jargon into rhyme
Whose measures like a pulse-beat flow
Through words that ring and chime.

Then most, the truths which we would know
Recede to far, untraveled lands
Wherein no mortal foot can go.
Our seeking eyes, our groping hands
Clutch floating mists and empty air;
One truth we grasp: none understands!

Yet, even so, comes no despair;
Though years afford no chart, no key.
Life still is lovely, loved and fair.
The unknown girds us like a sea,
And we ourselves are mystery!

Human Side of the News

Dr. William T. Hornaday's Stories of Elephants—The Intelligence of Sultan

By Edwin C. Hill

DR. WILLIAM T. HORNADAY, one of the great natural historians of the world, has just turned his 79th birthday. Still vigorous as he turns into the octogenarian decade, Dr. Hornaday pursues with ceaseless energy and glowing zeal, his life work of preserving wild life from useless slaughter, from extermination.

As much, at least, as any other man he is entitled to the credit of saving our American bison from being killed off utterly. Now he turns to the salvation of wild fowl, fighting in Congress and in the Legislatures of many states to halt the indiscriminate killing of winged game by the breed of hunter who knows no law save the lust of killing.

In the days when Dr. Hornaday was director of the great New York Zoological Park, this writer, frequently drawn to that fascinating wild animal preserve for the sake of a feature story, sat many times in Dr. Hornaday's office hearing of his thousand and one tales of animal collecting in five continents. But it was of elephants, especially, that he spun amazing yarns—true yarns—tales of the almost incredible intelligence of the vast creatures which have come down to us, little changed, from the mammoth and mastodon.

Few men in the world, likely, know elephants as Dr. Hornaday knows them. For my wise old friend holds them to be the wisest of all living creatures except man. He has even said that the 1,000 elephants in the United States today, would not suffer greatly in comparison to any average 1,000 human beings.

* * *

Elephant's Mind Is Unfathomable

NOBODY, says William T. Hornaday, has ever really fathomed the mind of an elephant. There are mysterious goings-on in his wise old head that are unreadable by man. He thinks, but on a different plane than the human mind works upon. Not only that, he has intuition that we human beings utterly lack.

It was Dr. Hornaday who told me the elephant story that is repeated many a time on circus trains and in circus dressing rooms. With the big show some years ago were three elephants they used to hitch tandem to a bandwagon. And one day when the circus was parading through a small town it came to a wooden bridge across a narrow river. When the three elephants came to that bridge they stopped short.

Betsy, a half-grown elephant, tested it gingerly, clucking and chirruping constantly, for that is the way elephants talk, and they do it all the time. Betsy tried her weight, and the bridge held. Then Mary, nearly full grown, tried it out like a toe dancer, and finally walked squarely onto the bridge after Betsy. Then came big Sultan, who was scolding and fussing as the two ladies chirruped to him. The elephant men kept out of it because their elephants knew things they couldn't know.

* * *

Ten Minutes to Cover Ten Feet

FINALLY, rumbling with irritation and distrust, Sultan rolled upon the shaking bridge. The three began to move forward, but so slowly that you couldn't tell they were moving unless you watched the railing. They took 10 minutes to cover 10 feet. And then there was a crack and a crash, and big Sultan broke through, tearing a hole 20 feet wide in the roadway, and dropping into the soft mud of the stream-bed. And there he stood, cursing like a longshoreman, while Betsy and Mary, squealing with fright, scrambled off the bridge as if all the tigers of India were at their tails.

It took hours to swing Sultan out, and then he lay down in a barn and groaned. Tears dripped from his eyes, and he was plainly in great pain. The veterinarians went over every inch of him, but couldn't find anything wrong—even though they knew it was something serious.

Finally one of the bareback riders with the show spoke up:

"You men," she said, "had better get your heads examined. Don't you see that elephant's trying to tell you what's the matter with him? Look what he's doing with his trunk!"

They looked, and sure enough, Sultan was touching his right eye with the tip of his trunk, and putting the trunk down and touching the eye again, as he groaned. And then the vets got a magnifying glass, put it to the eye and saw right away where the trouble was. Buried in the eyeball was a splinter an inch long. They twitched it out, and after a few days Sultan was as well as ever.

Joyce Kilmer wrote that only God could make a tree. I think He turned out a masterpiece when He made the strongest thing that walks, My Lord the Elephant.

Mistletoe Musings

Nothing makes a woman feel so middle-aged as to be able to remember when a man used to wait until he caught her under the mistletoe before he dared to kiss her.

* * *

A man must be awful lacking in conceit and understanding if he imagines that a box of orchids and five pounds of candy can take his place in a girl's life on Christmas day.

The only woman who ever gets what she wants for Christmas is the one who goes out and buys it herself and charges it to Hubby.

* * *

The sophisticated say that the real "Christmas Spirit" died when we moderns lost the power to be SURPRISED. But for some of us the night before Christmas will always be a night of mystery and magic, when we see with the eyes of childhood—and almost anything wonderful may happen!

* * *

Somehow a woman always hates to take down a Christmas tree or to give up a love-affair until it actually begins to fall to pieces. But a man, being wiser, doesn't care to wait for the lights to burn out or the glitter to vanish.

* * *

In the gay nineties, no "perfect lady" wore lace ruffles on her undies. But you can no longer judge a woman's morals or social standing by the things that hang on the wash-line.

* * *

Most lawyers appear to be doing a brisk business, these days soldering up broken hearts with gold and silver. Is there no NRA code for the breach-of-promise business?

* * *

Somehow, marriage always sneaks up on a man, as Christmes does on a woman, before he is quite ready for it.

* * *

There may be greater music, but to a woman there is no melody more thrilling and beautiful than the mingling of Christmas bells and wedding-bells.

The luckiest people on earth are those who manage to cling to their illusions and go all through life without ever discovering that "there isn't any Santa Claus."
